Dewey Plan Hits Snags Over State

Criticism Made Against Powers Contained in Bill Presented to State Legislature

Wicks Replies

Majority Leader Tells Senate 'Ghosts' Are Under Control

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Governor Dewey's sweeping war-regimentation plan ran into spreading opposition today and Dewey said martial law was the "unhappy" alternative if atom bombs fell in the state.

Criticism from different directions hit czar-like powers the defense emergency bill would give Dewey and a new civilian defense council over the lives and property of New York's 15,000,000 people.

Some upstate newspapers friendly to Dewey termed his plan "dictatorship." A Democratic legislator from Brooklyn charged that Dewey was out-reaching Huey Long and the plan would throw the U. S. Constitution into the "garbage can."

The Legislature's Democratic minority leadership remained noncommittal after hearing Dewey's plea for bi-partisan support of the final version of the bill to be voted on by the G.O.P.-controlled Legislature.

Request Supported

Two Republican lawmakers, who have differed sharply with Dewey in the past, supported his request for broad emergency powers to mobilize the state's manpower and material resources to cope with an atomic attack.

In a special message to the Legislature last night, Dewey himself termed the bill "repulsive" and said "I very much dislike many of its provisions."

He told the legislators, however, "It is my duty to present to you the problems involved in protecting the people in the event of attack and to mobilize in advance the mighty potential of our state for our own protection."

"It is our somber task," he added, "to adjust our laws to meet the extraordinary efforts and dangers of defense and yet to protect until the last safe instant the freedom of action of every citizen."

Dewey urged the Legislature to study the 13,000-word measure for at least 30 days.

'Under Great Pressure'

He said the measure had been prepared "under great pressure" and should be acted on only after inclusion of "all revisions deemed appropriate" by the Legislature.

Copies of the bill are being sent to mayors, county boards of supervisors and local civil defense directors for their "study and criticism."

Despite Dewey's indicated willingness to go along with revisions and to strike out powers "the Legislature and the people" don't want to grant him, the governor stood firmly in favor of the basic proposal for broad civilian-controlled defense emergency powers.

"If no legislation is prepared in advance," he said, "and a disaster ....should occur, there would be no recourse to the governor except to declare martial law. This would

Donofrio Confesses To Slaying

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—A housepainter confessed to Brooklyn's dime locker torso slaying early this morning, officials said, a few hours after detectives nabbed him trying to flee his boarding house in pajamas.

Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy and District Attorney Miles F. McDonald announced the confession by Pasquale Donofrio, 38.

McDonald said Donofrio admitted the slaying of Dorothy Martin, 37, of Saugerties, last Nov. 25.

Her dismembered body was found stuffed into two suitcases last Dec. 4 in two lockers in the Long Island railroad station. It was later identified as Miss Martin's by her brother.

Was Panic-Stricken

Authorities said Donofrio admitted slaying Miss Martin during a drinking bout in their Brooklyn room on the night of the "big storm" when gale winds of up to 100 miles an hour lashed the New York area.

They quoted him as saying that the woman became boisterous, then:

"I put my arms around her neck. She fainted. I put a cold compress around her neck. Then I went to sleep."

In the morning, Donofrio was panic-stricken when he discovered the woman was dead.

"I was drunk," police quoted him as saying, "and I don't know why I dismembered her body.

He was arraigned in Brooklyn felony court before Magistrate Benjamin Brenner. He was held without bail for a hearing Friday after he said in an almost inaudible voice that he wanted time to get a lawyer.

Miss Martin, daughter of the Saugerties postmaster, had lived with Donofrio here and in Albany.

The housepainter was seized in a four-story rooming house (at 409 Deal street), only a few blocks from both Brooklyn police headquarters and the railroad terminal.

Acting on an anonymous tip, 12 detectives surrounded the house. Donofrio, who occupied a main-floor room, apparently heard them, and fled upstairs.

Battalions Attack Red KoreanUnit

Allied Regiment Fights Also With Red Foes Southwest of Wonju, Is Report

Force Is Growing

Chinese Mass Troops Near Osan, 80,000 Men in Ranks

Tokyo, Jan. 9 (AP)—Allied troops fought desperately today to slow the Communist tide rolling toward the heart of South Korea and menacing the U. S. Eighth Army's retreat route to the old Pusan beachhead.

Two United Nations battalions attacked a Red Korean force two miles south of battle-wrecked Wonju, road hub abandoned Monday to the Reds.

An allied regiment counterattacked strong Communist forces six miles southwest of Wonju.

Allied artillery slammed shells into the Reds and fighter-bombers roared down in close support.

Field dispatches said the fighting still was raging shortly before midnight Tuesday.

The counterattack six miles southwest of Wonju was in the area where the Reds gained a half mile Monday and allied forces later recovered most of the ground

Limited to Patrols

Action on the western front south of abandoned Osan was limited to patrols.

But army intelligence reported the Chinese were building up a massive attacking force around Osan. At least two Chinese armies—possibly 80, or more troops—were spotted in the area.

The Eighth Army continued its retreat to the southeast. Vanguards of the fast moving Red forces pressed close on the heels of rearguard troops.

Two patrol fights flared 13 and 14 miles southeast of Osan. These attacks put the Reds only 50 road miles—less by air—from the Kum river where the U. S. 24th Division began its tragic defense of Taejon last July.

Retracing Route

The Korean Communists, bulwarked now by hundreds of thousands of Chinese who entered the war when the allies almost had it won, were retracing their route of summer conquest into South Korea.

The Reds walked into abandoned Osan Monday. Osan, 28 miles south of Seoul, is the town near where the first American soldier of the Korean war was killed last July.

Communist forces rushed Tuesday into the Osan area, massing for the continuing pursuit of the fleeing Eighth Army. The Reds moved artillery southward across the Han river at Seoul.

An Eighth Army spokesman said one force estimated at 10,000 troops was spotted near Osan.

Clogging Roads

Allied pilots said Communist troops were clogging the roads south of Seoul and in the Wonju area 55 miles southeast. One airman said:

"I've never seen so many people on the roads up there. They were all moving south."

The airmen were ordered to shoot up all group behind Communist lines, whether in or out of uniform, except for obvious family groups or children.

Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton reported from Fifth Air Force Headquarters that the order was provoked by the Reds' persistent use of civilian clothing to camouflage their troops.

Thousands of Chinese and Korean Red soldiers clad in white civilian clothing have infiltrated refugee columns passing into allied lines.

4,000 Reds Spotted

Pilots spotted 4,000 Reds changing Monday from uniform to peasant clothing.

A Red patrol attacked two allied companies early Tuesday 13 miles southeast of Osan. Red mortar fire showered another U.N. company 14 miles southeast of Osan. Allied forces drove off the Red patrol.

Low clouds, rain and snow Tuesday hampered air attacks and observation of Communist troop movements. But one F-80 Shooting Star jet strike swept through ground-hugging clouds south of Seoul and shot up Chinese field pieces.

This was the first report that the Reds had moved big guns south across the Han river.

Eisenhower Views Pact Headquarters At Fontainebleau

Also Talks With Robb, Air Chief of Brussels Section; to Visit Countries

Fontainebleau, France, Jan. 9 (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower, military commander of the Atlantic Pact Nations, arrived here today to inspect the headquarters of the Five-Power Brussels Pact Defense Alliance.

After meeting French President Vincent Auriol in Paris early in the morning, Eisenhower made an unannounced stop in Versailles to inspect his World War 2 headquarters in the Hotel Trianon.

Both Versailles and Fontainebleau have been mentioned as possible sites for the five-star general's headquarters as leader of the 12-nation army.

Gruenther, Jaujard Present

Also present at the meeting with Robb were Lieut. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Eisenhower's chief of staff, and French Adm. Robert Jaujard, Brussels Pact chief of naval defenses.

Eisenhower was to return to Orly Field, Paris, to enplane (at 9 a. m. E.S.T.) for Brussels, second stop on his tour of the Atlantic Pact powers which will supply his army.

He plans to go also to Holland, Denmark, Norway, Britain, Portugal, Italy, West Germany and Luxembourg, before returning to Paris. Then he flies home by way of Iceland and Canada to complete the circuit.

The general spent yesterday talking to military leaders of France, one of the 12 Atlantic Pact nations which are building an international defense wall against possible aggression by Russia. An authorized source said "all the problems of defending Europe" were discussed.

To Return to France

Eisenhower said Sunday he would return in mid-February to set up his permanent headquarters "somewhere near here."

Along with the military aspects of the Atlantic army, western world officials have begun discussions here on who will pay for defense and how.

Milton Katz, Marshall Plan ambassador to Europe and chairman of the Atlantic Pact's Finance Committee, conducted several meetings here during the past two days on financial matters connected with the Atlantic community's decision to arm itself.

A closed meeting yesterday was reported to have dealt with the problem of dovetailing the Marshall Plan's existing organization into a mechanism for financing the new and greater defense scheme.

Phoenicia Youth Killed in Crash

Hornell, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—An automobile-truck crash killed a freshman at the New York State Agricultural and Technical Institute at Alfred University and injured three classmates late yesterday.

George Ernest, 19, Phoenicia, died in the collision two miles west of Hornell.

Richard Dickensen, 18, Lockport; William Moroney, 18, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, and Chester Wawrzyk, 18, Hammondsport, were hospitalized here.

State police said the four were returning to rooms here from the institute when their car and a dump truck collided. The truck driver, John Bifarella, 35, Rochester, was bruised.

Air Force Plans New Quota System

Arrangement Worked Out to Prevent Overflow of Volunteers

The Air Force has so many volunteers it is putting a quota system into effect, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C.

(Effective as of January 8, it has been announced by Master Sergeant A. H. McGinnis of the recruiting office in the central post office here, there will be no more enlistments accepted for the air force except for those men with prior air service or for those who have completed two years of college.

After a period of two weeks, the local recruiting station will be allotted a new enlistment quota of one or two men a day, the sergeant said).

The Air Force announced from Washington yesterday it will ration enlistments so that about 1,000 volunteer recruits will be received daily for indoctrination training at Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, Texas, the Associated Press reported.

Will Handle More in Spring

A spokesman said this limit may be raised when a second indoctrination center starts operating early this spring at Sampson Air Force Base in New York.

The order established air force enlistment quotas for each of the six army-air force recruiting areas.

The spokesman said volunteers with previous air force service or with two or more years of college education will not be affected by the quotas.

Only 80 Men a Day

After Jan. 19, he said, his office will be able to take only 80 air force enlistments a day.

Col. Haviland said that when air force recruiting is resumed, prospective recruits will be urged to enlist at branch recruiting stations, rather than at 39 Whitehall street, Manhattan.

Among the branch recruiting stations for Southern New York will be these:

Yonkers Main Post Office, 14 Mamaroneck avenue, White Plains; 272 North avenue, New Rochelle; Main Post Office, Newburgh; Benton Avenue School, Middletown; 136-44 Roosevelt avenue, Flushing, Queens; 92-32 Union Hall street, Jamaica, Queens, and 260 Front street, Hempstead.

Will Ask High Supports

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—Two senators, a Democrat and a Republican, said today they expect the administration to ask Congress for new and higher price supports for some farm products as a spur to production. This was the interpretation Senators Ellender (D-La.) and Thye (R-Minn.) put on portions of President Truman's "State of the Union" message to Congress yesterday. Ellender, the new chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, told a reporter that what Mr. Truman apparently had in mind was legislation similar to that of World War 2 days to guarantee farmers prices high enough to assure adequate production of needed crops.

President Says Nation Will Be Taxed 'Until It Hurts'

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman said today the nation must be taxed "until it hurts" to arm the free world against the menace of Communist aggression.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, it was learned, believes that despite widespread recommendations for "pay-as-you-go" financing, taxation steep enough to pay out of hand for the huge rearmament effort would rip the nation's economic fabric.

Any hope that sizeable new federal deficits could be avoided by increased taxes appeared to be fading as members of the new Congress sized up probable outlay and came to a tentative conclusion that the government will need somewhere in the region of $75,000,000,000 in the coming fiscal year. That is $25,000,000,000 more than the record $50,000,000,000 collections of this year.

The President gave his warning that "it is necessary to tax until it hurts" in a conciliatory letter to Senator Byrd (D-Va.), with whom Mr. Truman has often clashed. The senator made the letter public today.

The letter immediately aroused talk of a possible national retail sales tax, or other forms of taxation on all or most of the nation's commerce.

It was learned that Secretary Snyder told the armed forces "industrial college" here in a recent talk:

"We must recognize that it is impossible in fact to cover all the expenditures of a full-scale military effort through taxation of current incomes . . . In a system of free business enterprise such as ours, there is no alternative in war financing other than a combination of taxation and borrowing."

Upon releasing Mr. Truman's letter, Byrd told newsmen:

"I feel certain that, if the budget is balanced, Congress not only must cut all non-essential government spending and increase the existing sources of revenue, but also must enter new fields of taxation—probably such as a retail sales or transactions tax."

Byrd did not advocate any specific tax plan in giving his opinion of what might be necessary if the national budget hits $75,000,000,000 to $80,000,000,000 a year.

Mr. Truman told Byrd he had always tried to make the revenues meet the expenses of the government, and added: Present conditions are such now, however, that it is necessary to tax until it hurts."

He mentioned no specific figure, but some members of Congress are guessing that he will ask for about $10,000,000,000 more in new taxes.

Chairman George (D.-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee has said simply that taxes may be raised as much as $7,000,000,000.

And Chairman Doughton (D.-N.C.) of the House Ways and Means Committee, commenting on President Truman's call for a major tax boost yesterday, said "We shall do what we can to provide the taxes without wrecking our economy."

Stassen Sees Peace Hopes, Despite Dangers of War

University President Says World Wakes Up to Perils of Communism

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Harold Stassen returned from a round-the-world trip today convinced that while there "are very real dangers of world war, the prospects of world peace are brighter than at any time in the past three years."

The president of the University of Pennsylvania gave three principal reasons for his conclusions.

First, he said, "the whole world is awakening to the extreme evils of Communist imperialism and that awakening is one of the key things."

Counter-Revolution Looms

Second, "People everywhere, including the Iron Curtain countries, want peace and freedom and the Russian Kremlin faces a counter-revolution, which will include the Red Army itself, if it begins an aggressive war."

Third, "America and other peace-desiring nations are rearming and thereby filling the vacuum spots of weakness all around the world."

Stassen, away five weeks, arrived by plane from London today. He was met at the airport by Mrs. Stassen. They left for their home in Chestnut Hill, outside Philadelphia.

After leaving Alaska, his first stop was in Tokyo, where he conferred with Gen. Douglas MacArthur. From there he visited prime ministers in Japan, Thailand, Indonesia, India, Pakistan, Israel and South Africa. He also conferred with U. S. ambassadors in those countries.

Met With Schweitzer

Stassen said his "most inspiring conference" was with Dr. Albert

Snyder, Others Agree on Measure

Tentative Understanding Is Reached on Huge Tax Bill

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—A tentative agreement to begin consideration of a new multi-billion dollar tax bill February 1 was reached today by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and congressional managers of tax legislation.

This new measure may raise taxes as much as $10,000,000,000 a year.

There were these other developments on the tax front:

1. President Truman wrote Senator Byrd (D.-Va.) that "it is necessary to tax until it hurts," to build up the free world military might in the face of Communist aggression.

2. Talk of a possible national retail sales tax began buzzing about Capitol Hill.

Snyder met with Chairman Doughton (D.-N.C.) of the House Ways and Means Committee and Chairman George (D.-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee to work out the time table for the third big tax boost since the Korean war commenced last June.

Doughton later told newsmen that under the schedule tentatively agreed to, the House Ways and Means Committee first will consider bills providing for renegotiation of defense contracts and for continuation of the reciprocal trade law.

These should be gotten out of the way quickly, he said, and then the committee hopes to take up the knotty job of writing a "third installment" tax bill February 1.

Assembly Passes Rent Amendments

Changes Are Made to Aid Tenants Caught in 'Gaps'

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Stopgap amendments to the state residential rent control law to protect about 100,000 tenants from possible retroactive increases was passed by the Assembly today.

The Senate adjourned without acting on the measures, which were drawn by the states' temporary commission on rents.

The changes were designed to cover tenants "caught" by the overlapping of or gaps between effective dates and retroactive dates of federal and local rent orders in relation to the state "freeze."

Assemblyman D. Mallory Stephens, chairman of the rent commission, said the amendments were drafted to "erase any possible doubt" as to the legislature's intent in enacting the state residential rent control law last spring.

Criticism May Come

The Democratic minority, expected to go along with the amendments, appeared ready to use the occasion to criticize the Dewey administration's 1950 residential rent control law.

Another full-blown controversy may develop later this month after the state rent commissioner, Joseph D. McGoldrick, submits a plan for rent controls to become effective when the present freeze expires March 1.

McGoldrick is reported planning to recommend a law that would authorize voluntary agreements between landlords and tenants for a 15 per cent increase if a long-term lease is signed.

In addition, the plan reportedly would provide a "fair return" formula for landlords to obtain rent increases if tenants refuse to sign voluntary agreements.

Must Prove Losses

Under the present system, landlords must prove they are losing money before they can obtain increases.

The stop-gap amendments will be incorporated in the rent control program. They were designed to cover three types of cases. Stephens said the amendments made claer that it was the intent of the 1950 legislature to:

1. Release all adjustments in rent ordered by the federal housing expediter after March 1, 1950—regardless of retroactive dates—

Gehr Trial Opens at Carmel, Attorney Claims Accident

Carmel, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Evidence in the trial of Herbert Gehr on a second degree murder charge began yesterday, with his attorney claiming Gehr's fatal shooting of his wife was "purely accidental."

District Attorney Fred A. Dickinson said the state would show that Mrs. Dorothea Matthews was in bed with Gehr when his wife approached his mountain cottage the night of the shooting on July 10. The cottage is near Brewster.

The first witness, State Trooper Donald Campbell, told of a telephone call from Gehr, who reported he had shot at prowlers.

Campbell said he asked Gehr if he had any idea who the prowlers were, and Gehr replied that it might have been his wife and some men.

About eight minutes later, the trooper said, he received a call from private detectives who had accompanied Mrs. Gehr to the cottage on a divorce raiding party.

He said he went to the cottage, and found Mrs. Gehr's body propped against a chair on the front lawn.

Gehr, a 39-year-old New York television director and Hollywood photographer, has claimed he thought it was burglars or "boy friends" of his wife approaching the cottage.

His attorney, Robert Dempsey, said in his opening statement that Gehr was awakened when his wife and the detectives tried to open the screen door.

Gehr, the attorney said, called "who's there?" and, getting no answer, fired one shot through the door.

Dempsey said Gehr repeated the question, again got no answer,

At Fontainebleau Ike got a half-hour briefing on air defense in western Europe in a conference with Air Chief Marshal Sir James M. Robb, commander-in-chief of the Brussels group's air section. Then he went for a tour of the headquarters and to lunch at the officer's mess.

Gruenther, Jaujard Present

Also present at the meeting with Robb were Lieut. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Eisenhower's chief of staff, and French Adm. Robert Jaujard, Brussels Pact chief of naval defenses.

Eisenhower was to return to Orly Field, Paris, to enplane (at 9 a. m. E.S.T.) for Brussels, second stop on his tour of the Atlantic Pact powers which will supply his army.

He plans to go also to Holland, Denmark, Norway, Britain, Portugal, Italy, West Germany and Luxembourg, before returning to Paris. Then he flies home by way of Iceland and Canada to complete the circuit.

The general spent yesterday talking to military leaders of France, one of the 12 Atlantic Pact nations which are building an international defense wall against possible aggression by Russia. An authorized source said "all the problems of defending Europe" were discussed.

To Return to France

Eisenhower said Sunday he would return in mid-February to set up his permanent headquarters "somewhere near here."

Along with the military aspects of the Atlantic army, western world officials have begun discussions here on who will pay for defense and how.

Milton Katz, Marshall Plan ambassador to Europe and chairman of the Atlantic Pact's Finance Committee, conducted several meetings here during the past two days on financial matters connected with the Atlantic community's decision to arm itself.

A closed meeting yesterday was reported to have dealt with the problem of dovetailing the Marshall Plan's existing organization into a mechanism for financing the new and greater defense scheme.

Will Ask High Supports

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—Two senators, a Democrat and a Republican, said today they expect the administration to ask Congress for new and higher price supports for some farm products as a spur to production. This was the interpretation Senators Ellender (D-La.) and Thye (R-Minn.) put on portions of President Truman's "State of the Union" message to Congress yesterday. Ellender, the new chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, told a reporter that what Mr. Truman apparently had in mind was legislation similar to that of World War 2 days to guarantee farmers prices high enough to assure adequate production of needed crops.

Phoenicia Youth Killed in Crash

Hornell, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—An automobile-truck crash killed a freshman at the New York State Agricultural and Technical Institute at Alfred University and injured three classmates late yesterday.

George Ernest, 19, Phoenicia, died in the collision two miles west of Hornell.

Richard Dickensen, 18, Lockport; William Moroney, 18, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, and Chester Wawrzyk, 18, Hammondsport, were hospitalized here.

State police said the four were returning to rooms here from the institute when their car and a dump truck collided. The truck driver, John Bifarella, 35, Rochester, was bruised.

Air Force Plans New Quota System

Arrangement Worked Out to Prevent Overflow of Volunteers

The Air Force has so many volunteers it is putting a quota system into effect, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C.

(Effective as of January 8, it has been announced by Master Sergeant A. H. McGinnis of the recruiting office in the central post office here, there will be no more enlistments accepted for the air force except for those men with prior air service or for those who have completed two years of college.

After a period of two weeks, the local recruiting station will be allotted a new enlistment quota of one or two men a day, the sergeant said).

The Air Force announced from Washington yesterday it will ration enlistments so that about 1,000 volunteer recruits will be received daily for indoctrination training at Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, Texas, the Associated Press reported.

Will Handle More in Spring

A spokesman said this limit may be raised when a second indoctrination center starts operating early this spring at Sampson Air Force Base in New York.

The order established air force enlistment quotas for each of the six army-air force recruiting areas.

The spokesman said volunteers with previous air force service or with two or more years of college education will not be affected by the quotas.

Only 80 Men a Day

After Jan. 19, he said, his office will be able to take only 80 air force enlistments a day.

Col. Haviland said that when air force recruiting is resumed, prospective recruits will be urged to enlist at branch recruiting stations, rather than at 39 Whitehall street, Manhattan.

Among the branch recruiting stations for Southern New York will be these:

Yonkers Main Post Office, 14 Mamaroneck avenue, White Plains; 272 North avenue, New Rochelle; Main Post Office, Newburgh; Benton Avenue School, Middletown; 136-44 Roosevelt avenue, Flushing, Queens; 92-32 Union Hall street, Jamaica, Queens, and 260 Front street, Hempstead.

President Says Nation Will Be Taxed 'Until It Hurts'

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Truman said today the nation must be taxed "until it hurts" to arm the free world against the menace of Communist aggression.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, it was learned, believes that despite widespread recommendations for "pay-as-you-go" financing, taxation steep enough to pay out of hand for the huge rearmament effort would rip the nation's economic fabric.

Any hope that sizeable new federal deficits could be avoided by increased taxes appeared to be fading as members of the new Congress sized up probable outlay and came to a tentative conclusion that the government will need somewhere in the region of $75,000,000,000 in the coming fiscal year. That is $25,000,000,000 more than the record $50,000,000,000 collections of this year.

The President gave his warning that "it is necessary to tax until it hurts" in a conciliatory letter to Senator Byrd (D-Va.), with whom Mr. Truman has often clashed. The senator made the letter public today.

The letter immediately aroused talk of a possible national retail sales tax, or other forms of taxation on all or most of the nation's commerce.

It was learned that Secretary Snyder told the armed forces "industrial college" here in a recent talk:

"We must recognize that it is impossible in fact to cover all the expenditures of a full-scale military effort through taxation of current incomes . . . In a system of free business enterprise such as ours, there is no alternative in war financing other than a combination of taxation and borrowing."

Upon releasing Mr. Truman's letter, Byrd told newsmen:

"I feel certain that, if the budget is balanced, Congress not only must cut all non-essential government spending and increase the existing sources of revenue, but also must enter new fields of taxation—probably such as a retail sales or transactions tax."

Byrd did not advocate any specific tax plan in giving his opinion of what might be necessary if the national budget hits $75,000,000,000 to $80,000,000,000 a year.

Mr. Truman told Byrd he had always tried to make the revenues meet the expenses of the government, and added: Present conditions are such now, however, that it is necessary to tax until it hurts."

He mentioned no specific figure, but some members of Congress are guessing that he will ask for about $10,000,000,000 more in new taxes.

Chairman George (D.-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee has said simply that taxes may be raised as much as $7,000,000,000.

And Chairman Doughton (D.-N. C.) of the House Ways and Means Committee, commenting on President Truman's call for a major tax boost yesterday, said "We shall do what we can to provide the taxes without wrecking our economy."

Stassen Sees Peace Hopes, Despite Dangers of War

University President Says World Wakes Up to Perils of Communism

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Harold Stassen returned from a round-the-world trip today convinced that while there "are very real dangers of world war, the prospects of world peace are brighter than at any time in the past three years."

The president of the University of Pennsylvania gave three principal reasons for his conclusions.

First, he said, "the whole world is awakening to the extreme evils of Communist imperialism and that awakening is one of the key things."

Counter-Revolution Looms

Second, "People everywhere, including the Iron Curtain countries, want peace and freedom and the Russian Kremlin faces a counter-revolution, which will include the Red Army itself, if it begins an aggressive war."

Third, "America and other peace-desiring nations are rearming and thereby filling the vacuum spots of weakness all around the world."

Stassen, away five weeks, arrived by plane from London today. He was met at the airport by Mrs. Stassen. They left for their home in Chestnut Hill, outside Philadelphia.

After leaving Alaska, his first stop was in Tokyo, where he conferred with Gen. Douglas MacArthur. From there he visited prime ministers in Japan, Thailand, Indonesia, India, Pakistan, Israel and South Africa. He also conferred with U. S. ambassadors in those countries.

Met With Schweitzer

Tentative Understanding Is Reached on Huge Tax Bill

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—A tentative agreement to begin consideration of a new multi-billion dollar tax bill February 1 was reached today by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and congressional managers of tax legislation.

This new measure may raise taxes as much as $10,000,000,000 a year.

There were these other developments on the tax front:

1. President Truman wrote Senator Byrd (D.-Va.) that "it is necessary to tax until it hurts," to build up the free world military might in the face of Communist aggression.

2. Talk of a possible national retail sales tax began buzzing about Capitol Hill.

Snyder met with Chairman Doughton (D.-N.C.) of the House Ways and Means Committee and Chairman George (D.-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee to work out the time table for the third big tax boost since the Korean war commenced last June.

Doughton later told newsmen that under the schedule tentatively agreed to, the House Ways and Means Committee first will consider bills providing for renegotiation of defense contracts and for continuation of the reciprocal trade law.

These should be gotten out of the way quickly, he said, and then the committee hopes to take up the knotty job of writing a "third installment" tax bill February 1.

Assembly Passes Rent Amendments

Changes Are Made to Aid Tenants Caught in 'Gaps'

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Stop-gap amendments to the state residential rent control law to protect about 100,000 tenants from possible retroactive increases was passed by the Assembly today.

The Senate adjourned without acting on the measures, which were drawn by the states' temporary commission on rents.

The changes were designed to cover tenants "caught" by the overlapping of or gaps between effective dates and retroactive dates of federal and local rent orders in relation to the state "freeze."

Assemblyman D. Mallory Stephens, chairman of the rent commission, said the amendments were drafted to "erase any possible doubt" as to the legislature's intent in enacting the state residential rent control law last spring.

Criticism May Come

The Democratic minority, expected to go along with the amendments, appeared ready to use the occasion to criticize the Dewey administration's 1950 residential rent control law.

Another full-blown controversy may develop later this month after the state rent commissioner, Joseph D. McGoldrick, submits a plan for rent controls to become effective when the present freeze expires March 1.

McGoldrick is reported planning to recommend a law that would authorize voluntary agreements between landlords and tenants for a 15 per cent increase if a long-term lease is signed.

In addition, the plan reportedly would provide a "fair return" formula for landlords to obtain rent increases if tenants refuse to sign voluntary agreements.

Must Prove Losses

Under the present system, landlords must prove they are losing money before they can obtain increases.

The stop-gap amendments will be incorporated in the rent control program. They were designed to cover three types of cases. Stephens said the amendments made claer that it was the intent of the 1950 legislature to:

1. Release all adjustments in rent ordered by the federal housing expediter after March 1, 1950 —regardless of retroactive dates—

Gehr Trial Opens at Carmel, Attorney Claims Accident

Carmel, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Evidence in the trial of Herbert Gehr on a second degree murder charge began yesterday, with his attorney claiming Gehr's fatal shooting of his wife was "purely accidental."

District Attorney Fred A. Dickinson said the state would show that Mrs. Dorothea Matthews was in bed with Gehr when his wife approached his mountain cottage the night of the shooting on July 10. The cottage is near Brewster.

The first witness, State Trooper Donald Campbell, told of a telephone call from Gehr, who reported he had shot at prowlers.

Campbell said he asked Gehr if he had any idea who the prowlers were, and Gehr replied that it might have been his wife and some men.

About eight minutes later, the trooper said, he received a call from private detectives who had accompanied Mrs. Gehr to the cottage on a divorce raiding party.

He said he went to the cottage, and found Mrs. Gehr's body propped against a chair on the front lawn.

Gehr, a 39-year-old New York television director and Hollywood photographer, has claimed he thought it was burglars or "boy friends" of his wife approaching the cottage.

His attorney, Robert Dempsey, said in his opening statement that Gehr was awakened when his wife and the detectives tried to open the screen door.

Gehr, the attorney said, called "who's there?" and, getting no answer, fired one shot through the door.

Bent Takes Place Of Morris Guralnick

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—The F.B.I. today added another name to its list of "ten most wanted men"—the second such nomination within two days.

Joseph Franklin Bent, Jr., 23-year-old former soldier described as "a hardened holdup man, apparently specializing in store robberies," was put on the top wanted list as a replacement for Morris Guralnick. The latter, who escaped from the Kingston, N. Y., jail, was recaptured Dec. 15 at Madison, Wis.

The addition of Bent brought the "ten most wanted" list back to full strength.

The F.B.I. said Bent, who once operated a fish market in Kansas City, Mo., had a long record of armed robberies, and that he was discharged from army service in 1946 after being accused of robbing a post office substation at Grand Junction, Colo. He has since avoided service of the 25-year sentence imposed for that offense.

Gehr Trial Opens

and fired once more before his gun jammed.

Mrs. Gehr, Dempsey said, could have gathered all the divorce evidence she needed without the raid, since Mrs. Matthews had moved into Gehr's home at Great Neck on Long Island before the shooting.

Dickinson said he would prove that when the raiding party arrived Mrs. Matthews got out of bed and fled through a window.

He said she returned to the cabin after hearing a shot, spoke briefly with Gehr, and then ran into the woods again.

The district attorney said he would call the 31-year-old, red-haired Mrs. Matthews as a state witness.

Gehr faces a possible maximum life term in prison if convicted.

Mrs. Matthews, who also has been subpoenaed as a defense witness, showed up at the Putnam county courthouse for the first time yesterday.

She told reporters she did not plan to marry Gehr. She said they were just "good friends."

Herself a principal in a recent divorce action, Mrs. Matthews denied that she "as previously reported—was nude when she fled into the woods." She said she was at the cabin to take care of Gehr's two children, expected for the week-end.

Schweitzer, South African philosopher, the most informative with Gen. MacArthur, and the most encouraging with Prime Minister Nehru in India.

He declined to discuss the Russian war potential. He said that was a factor he will discuss in a national radio address within the next 10 days. Stassen said he returned "with a number of strong convictions of what the future American policy should be."

However, he said, in view of the grave nature of these fundamental policy questions, and because of major discussions which have arisen through addresses by former President Herbert Hoover and Ohio's Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft, he will "not give any quick answers on these policy questions today."

He said he would report to Republican leaders, after which he will make his radio address, which will include "a fortright discussion of my views and will give the evidence for my conclusions."

Ulster county farmers can expect 1951 to be a reasonably profitable year for them.

Costs will be up. Labor, materials and farm machinery will be scarce.

On the other hand, demand for farm products should increase because there will be more money in circulation and less civilian goods to spend it on. Farm price will increase moderately.

With good management, and assuming a normal crop season, the income situation for farmers should be favorable.

That sums up the farm outlook for 1951, as examined in the light of the national emergency which faces this country, according to William H. Palmer and C. H. Padgham, Ulster county argicultural agent and assistant.

During the month of December, Palmer and Padgham attended a series of outlook conferences at Cornell University, where county agents from all over the state met to study what lies ahead for agriculture in this country. They were briefed on the national emergency and the impending shortages of farm labor and materials in the weeks and months ahead, as well as market demands and price trends.

Returning, the two agents prepared reports on the local farm outlook, as it probably will be affected by the national development during this year.

Advised to Buy Early

The present national emergency finds Ulster county farms generally better equipped, but with less available manpower than in 1940, Palmer said.

The present high production costs, prices and consumer incomes are expected to rise even further during 1951, he said. Although a drop is probable at some time, the income situation for farmers "should be favorable."

Ulster county farmers should plan for the possibility of a long period of emergency, the county agent said. Stepped-up defense programs will draw heavily on materials such as steel, copper and aluminum. Efforts will be made to provide farmers with necessary items, but a tight supply or even shortages in some items farmers buy are likely for the year ahead.

"It will pay farmers to do their buying early in 1951," he said.

Labor Is Scarce

New York state's farm output for the past year was large, and most of the means for farming, except labor, are in good shape for 1951.

Livestock numbers are the fourth largest in history.

The nation's farms are better equipped for high production than they were before World War 2. For example, Palmer pointed out, there were 3.8 million tractors on farms in 1950, compared to 1.5 million in 1940. The amount of farm power and machinery, measured in 1935-39 dollars, is at a record level, and is more than 50 per cent larger than in 1940.

There is less manpower on farms than a decade ago. Even with present equipment, high farm production probably cannot keep up if large numbers of farm workers shift to industrial jobs or go into the armed forces, Palmer stated.

Although defense spending has not actually been heavy yet, prices are higher and business is more active. Part of this is in expectation of defense contracts still to be placed. While only about six per cent of the national income went for defense in 1950, it is reasonable to expect that by the end of 1951 as much as 15 to 20 per cent may be shifted to non-civilian production, the county agent said.

"Obviously, this will mean greater cutbacks in those lines of civilian goods using metals and rubber," he said.

Some farm machinery factories will be diverted to the production of war materials. New machinery and repair parts are likely to be scarce and high priced. Second hand machinery prices will probably go up.

Outlook for Ulster

This year's outlook on other items which affect Ulster county farmers:

Labor: Industry and the armed forces will bid for farm workers. Some industrial wages have increased already. Consequently, farm wages will probably go up and farm labor will be harder to get in 1951.

Gasoline and oil: Farmers are using more petroleum fuels than ever before. Supplies are expected to be adequate for 1951 but distribution may be a problem. Prices are likely to continue to rise.

Feed: Supplies of concentrates and hay per animal unit are near the record high. Rising prices in other fields and increased costs in mixing and handling will cause feed prices to strengthen, even with a large supply.

Fertilzer: Use of fertilizer has tripled since 1935-39. Prices have increased less than most things farmers buy. Total supplies will probably be adequate although local shortages may develop. Fertilizer will still be a good buy in 1951.

Seeds: Supplies of most seeds are adequate. Prices for 1951 generally will be lower than those for 1950.

Spray and dust materials: Raw materials for some sprays and dusts are in short supply and the prices of some materials are expected to rise. Growers may have to make substitutions in the kinds of materials used. Early buying will be important this year.

Containers: New wooden and paper containers may be hard to get. Transparent wrappings and burlap probably will be in short supply.

Building material: Prices of most building materials increased substantially in 1950, and may increase futher in 1951. The amount of material available for farm purposes will depend in part on the amount of military and residential construction.

Taxes and insurance: Taxes on farm real estate are at an all time high and are expected to go even higher. Increased building costs will make it necessary to carry more insurance.

Social Security contributions: Beginning January 1, 1951, farmers hiring regular help pay an amount equal to one and one-half per cent of the worker's wage to the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program. This program provides benefits for the worker in his old age or for his survivors in case of his death.

Dairy Farm Outlook

Although both costs and prices will rise in 1951, efficient dairymen in Ulster county can expect reasonable returns, according to the report made by C. H. Padgham, assistant county agricultural agent.

The general price level is expected to move upward. Padgham explained, but this time fluid milk prices under the present marketing order will not lag behind as in the past.

Feed supplies are adequate and large stocks of corn and wheat owned by the government under the price support program should be a damper on price increases in grain.

"Consumers can expect continued high milk production," Padgham said. "They probably will increase their consumption because of increased incomes and cutbacks in production of some non-food items for civilian use."

Milk production in New York state reached a new record of about 9 billion pounds in 1950, an increase of four per cent over 1949 production. The increase came in milk per cow, as cow numbers were about the same.

Relatively large numbers of heifers are being raised. The number of cows may increase during 1951, unless the high rate of culling in 1950 continues, Padgham said.

The farm price of milk declined rapidly during 1949. Adjusted seasonally, it continued low until after mid-year in 1950. It then rose sharply.

Costs also declined during 1949, but more slowly. They began to strengthen in 1950 and will continue to rise during 1951.

The farm price of milk is expected to rise as much as or more than costs, so dairying will be reasonably profitable in 1951, assuming a normal crop season, according to Padgham.

Execution Ordered

Quebec, Jan. 9 (AP)—A Superior Court judge ruled today that jeweler J. Albert Guay "must be executed Jan. 12, 1951" for murdering his wife Rita by causing an airplane crash which cost 23 lives. Justice Albert Sevigny denied Guay's request for a stay of execution, sought on the ground that new evidence had come to light. Guay, 33, was convicted as the mastermind of a murder plot in which a timebomb was placed on a Quebec airliner, causing it to crash on Sept. 9, 1949.

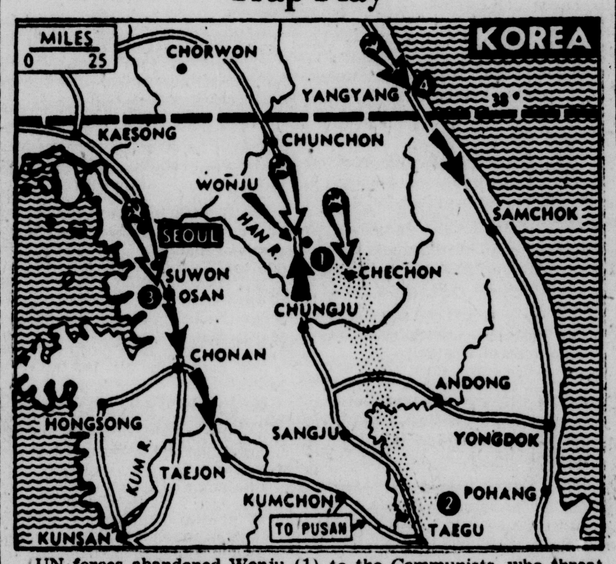
Trap Play



UN forces abandoned Wonju (1) to the Communists, who threatened to trap the 8th Army by smashing (dotted arrow) on Taegu (2). Capture of Taegu would block the 8th Army's escape highways to Pusan. In the west, it was believed UN troops fell back through Osan (3). On the east coast, Reds were reported building strength at Yangyang (4), after Allies withdrew all troops in sector below the 38th parellel. (NEA Newsmap).

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Virtually nothing blocked the path today of an advancing stock market.

There were some obstacles here and there, and losses dotted the list, but for the most part comfortable plus signs were the rule.

Gains ran from a few cents to a little more than a dollar a share, but losses were held down to a few cents only.

The main impetus came during the first hour when buying demand was so great that the quotations tape fell as much as three minutes behind actual deals on the floor of the exchange. The lag continued for more than half of the first hour.

New York Central was especially active and one large block of 40,000 shares sold at 23½, up 1¼.

Agents Report 'Sick'

Newark, N. J., Jan. 9 (AP)—Some 1,385 Prudential Insurance Co. of America district agents reported "sick" today in protest against suspension of 32 fellow workers. Reports from 10 cities showed that about half of the 3,000 agents in those cities are staying home, the company said. The cities include Newark, New York and Pittsburgh, which the company listed as "trouble spots."

(A spokesman at Prudential Kingston district office at 40 John street said early this afternoon that all district agents here were working and that news of the protest had not reached this city's office as yet.)

Ex-Red Agent Says Remington Gave 'Super Secret' Data

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Defense lawyers today hammered away at the testimony of one of the leading government witnesses in the perjury trial of William W. Remington.

Miss Elizabeth Bentley, admitted former Russian agent, said that apparent minor discrepancies between what she said yesterday and at a Senate hearing two years ago were due to things coming back to her "from time to time."

"It was the first time I had ever testified in public," she said, adding that the camera lights and flash bulbs made her Senate committee testimony "an ordeal."

Cross-examination of Miss Bentley followed her testimony yesterday that Communist cloak-and-dagger activity in wartime Washington uncovered top-secret data for D-Day in Europe.

She told her story in testimony at the federal perjury trial of William W. Remington, 33, former Commerce Department economist. He is charged with lying before a grand jury when he denied he ever was a Communist.

Miss Bentley said Remington was a member of the Communist "underground," and therefore had no party card or other credentials.

However, she said, he paid party dues to her in Washington and gave her a "super-secret" formula for synthetic rubber and secret information on wartime aircraft development and production.

Much of the testimony by Miss Bentley revolved around the espionage groups with which, she said, Remington was not connected.

She said one of these, allegedly headed by Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, provided her with the D-Day European invasion data as well as a tip that the U. S. was about to break a Russian code

DonofrioConfesses

when the police threatened to shoot as he reached the skylight to the roof.

McDonald refused to tell reporters details of the actual slaying. An autopsy had showed that Miss Martin died from strangulation.

McDonald said Donofrio told how he dismembered her body the day after she died with a hack-saw and a razor blade mounted in a paint scraper.

Then, Donofrio was quoted as saying, he put her hands in a paper sack and threw them with his own blood-stained bathrobe upon a passing garbage truck, and threw her false teeth in an ash pile. The hands and the teeth were missing when police found the torso.

On Monday, Nov. 27, the second day after the slaying, Donofrio took the body to the terminal, McDonald said.

Registered in Albany

Donofrio said that after a week in Albany, where he registered for unemployment insurance under his own name, he returned to New York and moved to the rooming house at which he was arrested.

He told police he painted the walls in the room where Miss Martin was killed "to keep busy" and because they were stained with blood, the prosecutor said.

Donofrio was using the name "Dominick Parisi" when arrested.

He had in his luggage a coat, dress and pair of shoes belonging to Miss Martin, police said, and had thrown her other clothes away.

THE GIRL I MARRIED

It doesn't seem so long ago
Since Cupid smiled and raised his bow
And having scored with perfect aim
Two lives were joined . . . as Autumn came.

The passing seasons rushed along
For in my heart love sang a song
And at my side, come rain or shine
A lassie stayed . . . for she was mine.
The girl I married walked with me
When we were gay and fancy-free
And when a bit of rain appeared
She sought the sun . . . and persevered.

Our home became a busy place
When growing youngsters learned to race
And as they grew, they saw in life
Each lovely thing that pleased my wife.
The girl I married hasn't changed
For every year has been arranged
With grace and charm and ready smile
That make my life . . . so worth the while.

Bent Takes Place Of Morris Guralnick

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—The F.B.I. today added another name to its list of "ten most wanted men"—the second such nomination within two days.

Joseph Franklin Bent, Jr., 23-year-old former soldier described as "a hardened holdup man, apparently specializing in store robberies," was put on the top wanted list as a replacement for Morris Guralnick. The latter, who escaped from the Kingston, N. Y., jail, was recaptured Dec. 15 at Madison, Wis.

The addition of Bent brought the "ten most wanted" list back to full strength.

The F.B.I. said Bent, who once operated a fish market in Kansas City, Mo., had a long record of armed robberies, and that he was discharged from army service in 1946 after being accused of robbing a post office substation at Grand Junction, Colo. He has since avoided service of the 25-year sentence imposed for that offense.

Gehr Trial Opens

and fired once more before his gun jammed.

Mrs. Gehr, Dempsey said, could have gathered all the divorce evidence she needed without the raid, since Mrs. Matthews had moved into Gehr's home at Great Neck on Long Island before the shooting.

Dickinson said he would prove that when the raiding party arrived Mrs. Matthews got out of bed and fled through a window.

He said she returned to the cabin after hearing a shot, spoke briefly with Gehr, and then ran into the woods again.

The district attorney said he would call the 31-year-old, red-haired Mrs. Matthews as a state witness.

Gehr faces a possible maximum life term in prison if convicted.

Mrs. Matthews, who also has been subpoenaed as a defense witness, showed up at the Putnam county courthouse for the first time yesterday.

She told reporters she did not plan to marry Gehr. She said they were just "good friends."

Herself a principal in a recent divorce action, Mrs. Matthews denied that she "as previously reported—was nude when she fled into the woods." She said she was at the cabin to take care of Gehr's two children, expected for the week-end.

He declined to discuss the Russian war potential. He said that was a factor he will discuss in a national radio address within the next 10 days. Stassen said he returned "with a number of strong convictions of what the future American policy should be."

However, he said, in view of the grave nature of these fundamental policy questions, and because of major discussions which have arisen through addresses by former President Herbert Hoover and Ohio's Republican Sen. Robert A. Taft, he will "not give any quick answers on these policy questions today."

He said he would report to Republican leaders, after which he will make his radio address, which will include "a fortright discussion of my views and will give the evidence for my conclusions."

Agricultural Agents Picture 1951 as Profitable for Farmers

Ulster county farmers can expect 1951 to be a reasonably profitable year for them.

Costs will be up. Labor, materials and farm machinery will be scarce.

On the other hand, demand for farm products should increase because there will be more money in circulation and less civilian goods to spend it on. Farm price will increase moderately.

With good management, and assuming a normal crop season, the income situation for farmers should be favorable.

That sums up the farm outlook for 1951, as examined in the light of the national emergency which faces this country, according to William H. Palmer and C. H. Padgham, Ulster county agricultural agent and assistant.

During the month of December, Palmer and Padgham attended a series of outlook conferences at Cornell University, where county agents from all over the state met to study what lies ahead for agriculture in this country. They were briefed on the national emergency and the impending shortages of farm labor and materials in the weeks and months ahead, as well as market demands and price trends.

Returning, the two agents prepared reports on the local farm outlook, as it probably will be affected by the national development during this year.

Advised to Buy Early

The present national emergency finds Ulster county farms generally better equipped, but with less available manpower than in 1940, Palmer said.

The present high production costs, prices and consumer incomes are expected to rise even further during 1951, he said. Although a drop is probable at some time, the income situation for farmers "should be favorable."

Ulster county farmers should plan for the possibility of a long period of emergency, the county agent said. Stepped-up defense programs will draw heavily on materials such as steel, copper and aluminum. Efforts will be made to provide farmers with necessary items, but a tight supply or even shortages in some items farmers buy are likely for the year ahead.

"It will pay farmers to do their buying early in 1951," he said.

Labor Is Scarce

New York state's farm output for the past year was large, and most of the means for farming, except labor, are in good shape for 1951.

Livestock numbers are the fourth largest in history.

The nation's farms are better equipped for high production than they were before World War 2. For example, Palmer pointed out, there were 3.8 million tractors on farms in 1950, compared to 1.5 million in 1940. The amount of farm power and machinery, measured in 1935-39 dollars, is at a record level, and is more than 50 per cent larger than in 1940.

There is less manpower on farms than a decade ago. Even with present equipment, high farm production probably cannot keep up if large numbers of farm workers shift to industrial jobs or go into the armed forces, Palmer stated.

Although defense spending has not actually been heavy yet, prices are higher and business is more active. Part of this is in expectation of defense contracts still to be placed. While only about six per cent of the national income went for defense in 1950, it is reasonable to expect that by the end of 1951 as much as 15 to 20 per cent may be shifted to non-civilian production, the county agent said.

"Obviously, this will mean greater cutbacks in those lines of civilian goods using metals and rubber," he said.

Some farm machinery factories will be diverted to the production of war materials. New machinery and repair parts are likely to be scarce and high priced. Second hand machinery prices will probably go up.

Outlook for Ulster

This year's outlook on other items which affect Ulster county farmers:

Labor: Industry and the armed forces will bid for farm workers. Some industrial wages have increased already. Consequently, farm wages will probably go up and farm labor will be harder to get in 1951.

Gasoline and oil: Farmers are using more petroleum fuels than ever before. Supplies are expected to be adequate for 1951 but distribution may be a problem. Prices are likely to continue to rise.

Feed: Supplies of concentrates and hay per animal unit are near the record high. Rising prices in other fields and increased costs in mixing and handling will cause feed prices to strengthen, even with a large supply.

Fertilzer: Use of fertilizer has tripled since 1935-39. Prices have increased less than most things farmers buy. Total supplies will probably be adequate although local shortages may develop. Fertilizer will still be a good buy in 1951.

Seeds: Supplies of most seeds are adequate. Prices for 1951 generally will be lower than those for 1950.

Spray and dust materials: Raw materials for some sprays and dusts are in short supply and the prices of some materials are expected to rise. Growers may have to make substitutions in the kinds of materials used. Early buying will be important this year.

Containers: New wooden and paper containers may be hard to get. Transparent wrappings and burlap probably will be in short supply.

Building material: Prices of most building materials increased substantially in 1950, and may increase futher in 1951. The amount of material available for farm purposes will depend in part on the amount of military and residential construction.

Taxes and insurance: Taxes on farm real estate are at an all time high and are expected to go even higher. Increased building costs will make it necessary to carry more insurance.

Social Security contributions: Beginning January 1, 1951, farmers hiring regular help pay an amount equal to one and one-half per cent of the worker's wage to the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program. This program provides benefits for the worker in his old age or for his survivors in case of his death.

Dairy Farm Outlook

Although both costs and prices will rise in 1951, efficient dairymen in Ulster county can expect reasonable returns, according to the report made by C. H. Padgham, assistant county agricultural agent.

The general price level is expected to move upward. Padgham explained, but this time fluid milk prices under the present marketing order will not lag behind as in the past.

Feed supplies are adequate and large stocks of corn and wheat owned by the government under the price support program should be a damper on price increases in grain.

"Consumers can expect continued high milk production," Padgham said. "They probably will increase their consumption because of increased incomes and cutbacks in production of some non-food items for civilian use."

Milk production in New York state reached a new record of about 9 billion pounds in 1950, an increase of four per cent over 1949 production. The increase came in milk per cow, as cow numbers were about the same.

Relatively large numbers of heifers are being raised. The number of cows may increase during 1951, unless the high rate of culling in 1950 continues, Padgham said.

The farm price of milk declined rapidly during 1949. Adjusted seasonally, it continued low until after mid-year in 1950. It then rose sharply.

Costs also declined during 1949, but more slowly. They began to strengthen in 1950 and will continue to rise during 1951.

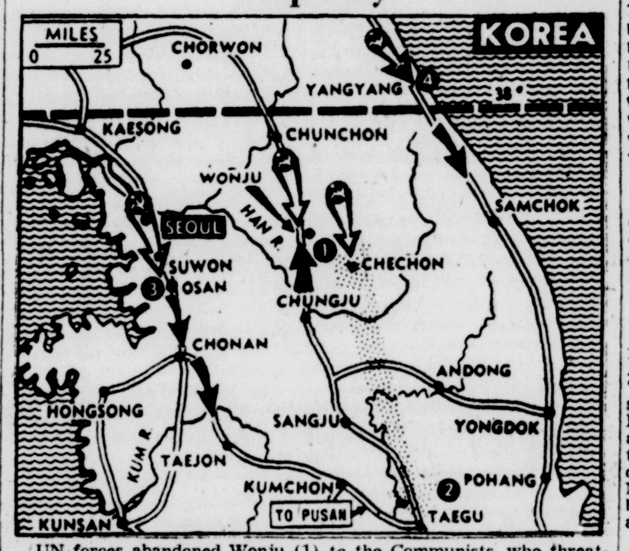
The farm price of milk is expected to rise as much as or more than costs, so dairying will be reasonably profitable in 1951, assuming a normal crop season, according to Padgham.

Execution Ordered

Quebec, Jan. 9 (AP)—A Superior Court judge ruled today that jeweler J. Albert Guay "must be executed Jan. 12, 1951" for murdering his wife Rita by causing an airplane crash which cost 23 lives. Justice Albert Sevigny denied Guay's request for a stay of execution, sought on the ground that new evidence had come to light. Guay, 33, was convicted as the mastermind of a murder plot in which a timebomb was placed on a Quebec airliner, causing it to crash on Sept. 9, 1949.

Casey Jones was a real person, an engineer on the Illinois Central railroad.

Trap Play



UN forces abandoned Wonju (1) to the Communists, who threatened to trap the 8th Army by smashing (dotted arrow) on Taegu (2). Capture of Taegu would block the 8th Army's escape highways to Pusan. In the west, it was believed UN troops fell back through Osan (3). On the east coast, Reds were reported building strength at Yangyang (4), after Allies withdrew all troops in sector below the 38th parellel. (NEA Newsmap).

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Virtually nothing blocked the path today of an advancing stock market.

There were some obstacles here and there, and losses dotted the list, but for the most part comfortable plus signs were the rule.

Gains ran from a few cents to a little more than a dollar a share, but losses were held down to a few cents only.

The main impetus came during the first hour when buying demand was so great that the quotations tape fell as much as three minutes behind actual deals on the floor of the exchange. The lag continued for more than half of the first hour.

New York Central was especially active and one large block of 40,000 shares sold at 23½, up 1¼.

Agents Report 'Sick'

Newark, N. J., Jan. 9 (AP)—Some 1,385 Prudential Insurance Co. of America district agents reported "sick" today in protest against suspension of 32 fellow workers. Reports from 10 cities showed that about half of the 3,000 agents in those cities are staying home, the company said. The cities include Newark, New York and Pittsburgh, which the company listed as "trouble spots."

(A spokesman at Prudential Kingston district office at 40 John street said early this afternoon that all district agents here were working and that news of the protest had not reached this city's office as yet.)

Ex-Red Agent Says Remington Gave 'Super Secret' Data

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Defense lawyers today hammered away at the testimony of one of the leading government witnesses in the perjury trial of William W. Remington.

Miss Elizabeth Bentley, admitted former Russian agent, said that apparent minor discrepancies between what she said yesterday and at a Senate hearing two years ago were due to things coming back to her "from time to time."

"It was the first time I had ever testified in public," she said, adding that the camera lights and flash bulbs made her Senate committee testimony "an ordeal."

Cross-examination of Miss Bentley followed her testimony yesterday that Communist cloak-and-dagger activity in wartime Washington uncovered top-secret data for D-Day in Europe.

She told her story in testimony at the federal perjury trial of William W. Remington, 33, former Commerce Department economist. He is charged with lying before a grand jury when he denied he ever was a Communist.

Miss Bentley said Remington was a member of the Communist "underground," and therefore had no party card or other credentials.

However, she said, he paid party dues to her in Washington and gave her a "super-secret" formula for synthetic rubber and secret information on wartime aircraft development and production.

Much of the testimony by Miss Bentley revolved around the espionage groups with which, she said, Remington was not connected.

She said one of these, allegedly headed by Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, provided her with the D-Day European invasion data as well as a tip that the U. S. was about to break a Russian code when the police threatened to shoot as he reached the skylight to the roof.

McDonald refused to tell reporters details of the actual slaying. An autopsy had showed that Miss Martin died from strangulation.

McDonald said Donofrio told how he dismembered her body the day after she died with a hack-saw and a razor blade mounted in a paint scraper.

Then, Donofrio was quoted as saying, he put her hands in a paper sack and threw them with his own blood-stained bathrobe upon a passing garbage truck, and threw her false teeth in an ash pile. The hands and the teeth were missing when police found the torso.

On Monday, Nov. 27, the second day after the slaying, Donofrio took the body to the terminal, McDonald said.

Registered in Albany

Donofrio said that after a week in Albany, where he registered for unemployment insurance under his own name, he returned to New York and moved to the rooming house at which he was arrested.

He told police he painted the walls in the room where Miss Martin was killed "to keep busy" and because they were stained with blood, the prosecutor said.

Donofrio was using the name "Dominick Parisi" when arrested.

He had in his luggage a coat, dress and pair of shoes belonging to Miss Martin, police said, and had thrown her other clothes away.

The following new members were voted into the fire company: Harvey Ostrander, Madison Gray, William Macky.

It was announced during the meeting that the special fire lights for automobiles are available to volunteer firemen in good standing in the organization.

Chief Lapo reported that of the 33 fire alarms in Woodstock during 1950, six were out-of-town, five were chimney fires, 11 were grass fires, four were for auto fires and seven were fires where homes were damaged. Lapo said this number showed a decrease of six over the year 1949 and a decrease of 12 over 1948.

During the year 1950 the fire company had a membership of 212.

Actor Weds Secretly

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Actor Burgess Meredith announced through his office here yesterday that he was married "several months ago" to his fourth bride, blonde dancer Kaja Sundsten. The couple was believed to be at Meredith's Spring Valley home, but could not be reached. The 20-year-old bride's father, John Sundsten, a concert pianist and teacher of Seattle, Wash., said his daughter met the actor on a television show and had been "keeping company" for more than a year. Her most recent appearance was in Michael Todd's "Peep Show." Meredith, thrice divorced, has been married to Helen Derby of Montclair, N. $325 Binge

During the holidays of December, 1950, a fellow went on a binge. He took $325 out of his savings account and proceeded to spread cheer about. It was an unaccustomed act. However, this bit of uneconomic spontaneity was not a fanciful deed. He was moved to action by some legislation out of Washington.

He is only one of the 10,000,000 additional persons who, on January 1, 1951, became eligible for Federal Old Age and Survivor Insurance. The provisions of this legislation caused whatever convictions of economic self-reliance he had to seep right out through his system.

With a laugh in his voice as he spoke, he remarked to one of his convivial comrades: "the government is going to take care of me now!" And he spent unwisely in a week what it had taken him a year to save.

Now I am not inferring that Social Security has an unsound base. What I am saying is that this system, with present potential membership of 45,000,000 persons, is knocking the props of thrift and saving right out from under millions of people.

Our entire national economy is becoming enveloped in a cloud of socialism. The economic life of our country is shot through with forces that do not originate where they should—with the individual.

And any person who shrinks from his responsibilities in the fields of economics, politics, ethics and morals helps to undermine our society. It may take several decades to see how these socialistic measures weaken our country; but America will eventually reap the reward of the wilfull weakening of the habits of thrift and saving of millions of our people.

The simple economic virtues practiced by individuals are still the bulwark of this great land. What are they? Early in life a man prepares himself for useful work in the world. The day comes when he gets a job. He establishes a standard of living and thrift and saving are important cornerstones.

If he is wise, he will save at least 10% of his gross income. That will go into savings banks and insurance policies until he has a comfortable margin. In this program there will not be an army of locusts telling him where to send his money and when and why.

Maybe the savings banks and the insurance companies have been fumbling the ball for a long time. I do know that today with nearly 45,000,000 people in America tied to a program that forces them to patronize the government in the field of thrift and saving, the good work that can be better done by the savings banks and insurance companies is being seriously undermined.

I shall continue to plug for individual thrift and saving. It is the best system for America. In every community in the country supporters of this point of view are needed.

Thrift and saving should be taught in our schools. And even in colleges and universities greater stress should be laid on these virtues in the economics courses.

It has been my privilege over a period of 25 years to study what happens to individuals who systematically save and invest. Their economic foundation gets stronger year by year and at age 40, 50 and 60 there is something in their personality that these virtues have put there.

And the men who at 50, 60 and 70 come around to bum a luncheon or borrow a dollar have been those who, in the spirit of the man who spent $325 in a week's binge, have been willing to forget economic self-reliance.

Dempsey Urges Early Application For License Plates

More than one-half of the 8D series of passenger automobile license plates have been issued, it was reported Monday afternoon by Edgar J. Dempsey, deputy county clerk in charge of the motor vehicle bureau.

Issuance of plates in the UC, CU and UL series is proceeding simultaneously and persons who applied by mail for plates were assured by Dempsey that they will receive them before the January 31 deadline.

Dempsey suggested that those who have not yet applied for plates do so as soon as possible, to save themselves time lost in the usual last minute rush. He recalled that two years ago applicants who waited until the last day had to wait in a long line, in miserable weather, for sometimes as long as an hour.

Dissolution Protested

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—A group of about 500 persons trooped through the capitol yesterday in protest against the state's attempt to dissolve the International Workers Order. They asked individual legislators to oppose the effort. The state insurance superintendent is seeking in State Supreme Court to dissolve the organization, an insurance society, on the ground that it is Communist-dominated. Meanwhile, the society, which claims 162,000 members, has asked the state court to vacate the superintendent's application. A hearing on the IWO motion got underway yesterday in New York city before Justice Henry Clay Greenberg.

Simmons, Other Officers Elected by Firemen

Woodstock, Jan. 9—Election of officers for the coming year was held during the annual meeting of the Woodstock Fire Company Monday night at the Fire Hall. Birge Simmons will serve for his third year as president of the organization. Other officers will be George J. Braendly, vice president; Herbert G. Wyman, secretary; Mervin J. Doremus, treasurer; the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, chaplain Reginald J. Lapo, fire chief; George Haythorne, first assistant chief; Douglas Franckling, second assistant chief; Mervin J. Doremus, chief driver; Wayne Underhill, delegate to the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association; Montcena DeWitt, alternate delegate; Joseph Raymond, delegate to the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association; Roger E. Grazier, alternate delegate. George Haythorne was re-elected to the executive committee for a period of three years.

The following new members were voted into the fire company: Harvey Ostrander, Madison Gray, William Macky.

It was announced during the meeting that the special fire lights for automobiles are available to volunteer firemen in good standing in the organization.

Chief Lapo reported that of the 33 fire alarms in Woodstock during 1950, six were out-of-town, five were chimney fires, 11 were grass fires, four were for auto fires and seven were fires where homes were damaged. Lapo said this number showed a decrease of six over the year 1949 and a decrease of 12 over 1948.

During the year 1950 the fire company had a membership of 212.

Actor Weds Secretly

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Actor Burgess Meredith announced through his office here yesterday that he was married "several months ago" to his fourth bride, blonde dancer Kaja Sundsten. The couple was believed to be at Meredith's Spring Valley home, but could not be reached. The 20-year-old bride's father, John Sundsten, a concert pianist and teacher of Seattle, Wash., said his daughter met the actor on a television show and had been "keeping company" for more than a year. Her most recent appearance was in Michael Todd's "Peep Show." Meredith, thrice divorced, has been married to Helen Derby of Montclair, N. J.; Margaret Frueauff French, an actress known as Margaret Perry; and film star Paulette Goddard.

$325 Binge

During the holidays of December, 1950, a fellow went on a binge. He took $325 out of his savings account and proceeded to spread cheer about. It was an unaccustomed act. However, this bit of uneconomic spontaneity was not a fanciful deed. He was moved to action by some legislation out of Washington.

He is only one of the 10,000,000 additional persons who, on January 1, 1951, became eligible for Federal Old Age and Survivor Insurance. The provisions of this legislation caused whatever convictions of economic self-reliance he had to seep right out through his system.

With a laugh in his voice as he spoke, he remarked to one of his convivial comrades: "the government is going to take care of me now!" And he spent unwisely in a week what it had taken him a year to save.

Now I am not inferring that Social Security has an unsound base. What I am saying is that this system, with present potential membership of 45,000,000 persons, is knocking the props of thrift and saving right out from under millions of people.

Our entire national economy is becoming enveloped in a cloud of socialism. The economic life of our country is shot through with forces that do not originate where they should—with the individual.

And any person who shrinks from his responsibilities in the fields of economics, politics, ethics and morals helps to undermine our society. It may take several decades to see how these socialistic measures weaken our country; but America will eventually reap the reward of the wilfull weakening of the habits of thrift and saving of millions of our people.

The simple economic virtues practiced by individuals are still the bulwark of this great land. What are they? Early in life a man prepares himself for useful work in the world. The day comes when he gets a job. He establishes a standard of living and thrift and saving are important cornerstones.

If he is wise, he will save at least 10% of his gross income. That will go into savings banks and insurance policies until he has a comfortable margin. In this program there will not be an army of locusts telling him where to send his money and when and why.

Maybe the savings banks and the insurance companies have been fumbling the ball for a long time. I do know that today with nearly 45,000,000 people in America tied to a program that forces them to patronize the government in the field of thrift and saving, the good work that can be better done by the savings banks and insurance companies is being seriously undermined.

I shall continue to plug for individual thrift and saving. It is the best system for America. In every community in the country supporters of this point of view are needed.

Thrift and saving should be taught in our schools. And even in colleges and universities greater stress should be laid on these virtures in the economics courses.

It has been my privilege over a period of 25 years to study what happens to individuals who systematically save and invest. Their economic foundation gets stronger year by year and at age 40, 50 and 60 there is something in their personality that these virtues have put there.

And the men who at 50, 60 and 70 come around to bum a luncheon or borrow a dollar have been those who, in the spirit of the man who spent $325 in a week's binge, have been willing to forget economic self-reliance.

Dempsey Urges Early Application For License Plates

More than one-half of the 8D series of passenger automobile license plates have been issued, it was reported Monday afternoon by Edgar J. Dempsey, deputy county clerk in charge of the motor vehicle bureau.

Issuance of plates in the UC, CU and UL series is proceeding simultaneously and persons who applied by mail for plates were assured by Dempsey that they will receive them before the January 31 deadline.

Dempsey suggested that those who have not yet applied for plates do so as soon as possible, to save themselves time lost in the usual last minute rush. He recalled that two years ago applicants who waited until the last day had to wait in a long line, in miserable weather, for sometimes as long as an hour.

Dissolution Protested

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—A group of about 500 persons trooped through the capitol yesterday in protest against the state's attempt to dissolve the International Workers Order. They asked individual legislators to oppose the effort. The state insurance superintendent is seeking in State Supreme Court to dissolve the organization, an insurance society, on the ground that it is Communist-dominated. Meanwhile, the society, which claims 162,000 members, has asked the state court to vacate the superintendent's application. A hearing on the IWO motion got underway yesterday in New York city before Justice Henry Clay Greenberg.

FEDERAL EMPLOYMENT

Various reports from Washington have indicated a large and rapid increase in civilian employment. The new agencies to deal with industrial mobilization, economic controls and such are being set up, and the Defense Department is expanding. All of this calls for pay roll additions.

At the same time other government operations, not directly essential to the defense effort or to internal strength and stability, ought to be going through a process of reduction. The President has said that this should be done. Leaders in Congress have said so. Public opinion call for it. Under the strange ways of government, this unanimity of opinion does not mean that the thing is being done, nor necessarily that it will be done. Thus far little visible effort has been made to reduce the non-military expense of government.

A start, one very much to the point, could be made by giving the jobs of new and expanding government activities to present non-military employes instead of adding new ones. Admittedly it would not be practical to try to do this entirely, but it should be practical to do it substantially. This would help to hold down the government budget. It would reduce the government drain on available manpower. It would help to assure the people that the government really means its call for a concentration of effort on the task of defense preparation.

THE NAZIS STILL WRITE

The Nazis are not finished. They are trying to vindicate themselves in a flood of books, pouring out of Germany and Austria, attempting to prove that the aggression of Hitler's day was not really due to Hitler, but to the wickedness of France and Great Britain.

A German book published in Switzerland by Walter Hagen, a member of the German Foreign Intelligence Service under the Nazis, may be judged by its attempt to vindicate Konrad Henlein, the Hitler agent who stirred up the Sudetenland Germans against Czechoslovakia. All the evidence proves that Henlein was a Nazi agent as far back as 1931, and that while he was pretending to be a disinterested leader of the Sudetenlanders he was in Nazi pay.

The chief interest of the book is its introduction to a new villian, worthy to rank in iniquity with Hitler, Goering, Goebbels and Himmler. This was Heydrich, the Nazi gauleiter of Czechoslovakia. One of his achievements was his forging, in 1937, of documents accusing the Russian marshal Tukhachevski of treason. These, sent to Stalin, caused Tukhachevski's execution, and the general overhauling of the Russian army. Eventually this proved calamitous to the Germans, but the confusion that followed Tukhachevski's death may be one reason for the great Nazi victories when first they invaded Russia.

Such books serve one useful purpose. They keep fresh in our memory the fact that Nazism was as evil a system communism, and an enemy of all the world. In the present alarm over communism, the wickedness of the Nazis and their ideas should not be forgotten.

SPEAKING AND HEARING

Many able, intelligent individuals are continually underrated because of speech defects which hinder their self-expression. Help for these people is in the offing, according to speech experimenters at the University of Illinois.

A mechanical device which regulates the time between hearing and speaking can actually cause stuttering in a normal individual, because of the emotional stress involved. Both psychologists and speech experts are studying the results of tests made with this machine. These studies may lead to better understanding of the interaction of emotional stresses and speech defects, and of ways by which these troubles may be reduced.

The connection between the emotions and stuttering has long been recognized, but not with any clear understanding of its background. The developments which result from this research project may bring help and freedom to many handicapped persons.

With all the talk of shortages there seems to be no prospect of one that would delight many people—a shortage of winter weather.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE TREND TOWARD SOCIALISM

I was recently shocked to discover a lad who believed in a restoration of what he called "laissez-faire capitalism." The term meant nothing to me, as such a form of capitalism has never existed and was, at most, a figment of the imagination. The means for earning money have in some measure always been controlled, to a greater or lesser degree, and the right of investment and expenditure has been limited either by social pressure or government or religious interdicts. Taxes have always been a limiting factor.

However, the very use of the term after three wars in one generation strikes me as being akin to those theologians who are still fighting the 17th century religious wars. Some things simply do not belong to the times. As a mater of fact, when we actually reach Mr. Truman's budget of $90,000,000,000, we shall be reduced to an increasing socialism.

I could not help noting in this connection two interesting paragraphs, by Paul W. Dickson, in a study of "Compensation and Pensions of Executives," written for the National Industrial Conference Board:

"A generation or so ago the successful manager was very handsomely rewarded. He often acquired a considerable equity in the company, and usually shared in its profits. Today, he is often just a very important employe, with little or no financial stake in the company. So there is much greater emphasis on the salary of an executive than in the past, especially since the payment of bonuses has been closely circumscribed. Perhaps more important to the average high executive are the impact of federal personal income taxes and the decline in the value of the dollar. To illustrate, a $50,000 salary in 1940 was reduced by the income tax to $36,259 for a man with two children. In 1950, this salary, after taxes, amounted to only $20,492 in 1940 dollars.

"As the executive moves up he accepts ever-heavier responsibilities. As his salary goes up he finds that he is working three days a week for Uncle Sam instead of two, with only a negative advance in his own 'take home.' In assuming the heavier responsibilities he can hardly be interested in the financial reward, but rather in the added prestige and in the challenge of a bigger job."

In 1951, that salary will be cut to even less. The man who does not earn $50,000 naturally does not feel very sorry for the man who does. But he also does not have the other man's preparations and qualifications and headaches, nor the other man's social responsibilities.

The question for the executive is whether it is worth his while to assume so much for so little compensation.

Some men like honors and dignities and find compensation enough in that. Some men have a sense of public service and find compensation in the opportunity to perform it. But the money compensation—the opportunity to accumulate, to save, to invest, to leave an estate for children and grandchildren—that is gone in this country except for a favored few.

The favored few need to be described:

1. Racketeers: Their opportunities are plentiful. They earn their money by high adventure, risking liberty and life. Most of them do not report their earnings to the treasury, but make heavy contributions to campaign funds of politicians and depend upon fixes to keep them out of jail;

2. Black and grey marketeers: This is an amazing crew of businessmen who deal in scarce commodities. We shall soon see them in the automobile business again. As long as the automobile companies fail to print in their advertisements the retail prices of cars—even the F.O.B. Detroit price—they aid and abet these pirates, many of whom demand cash bonuses for their wares. These bonuses, under-the-counter or over-the-counter, are not reported for tax purposes. The man who does this is, of course, a thief but does not suffer social opprobrium;

3. Professional men and others who receive cash payments and report what they like;

4. Labor leaders who do not have to account for the use they make of what should be public funds;

5. Thieving politicians who accept bribes for permitting violations of the law;

6. Those who still possess inherited wealth.

Those who fit these categories only suffer the consequences of depreciated currency, which they often manage to hedge against the rest of us are being socialized by taxation.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE HARD OF HEARING

There is no other one subject on which I write that seems to interest so many readers as loss of hearing. It is unfortunately true that many physicians, because they do not wish to arouse hope in what they honestly believe are hopeless cases, fail to keep up with all that is now being done to help those with loss of hearing.

In the Illinois Medical Journal some months ago, Drs. Francis L. Lederer, Richard E. Marcus and Arnold A. Grossman, Chicago, stated: "Because of widespread publicity, most of which is true or authentic, many hard-of-hearing and deafened patients are looking to their physician for relief of their symptoms. The physician, in many instances, is not aware of the significant advances in the treatment of hearing loss and therefore stifles the feeling of hope in the patients by saying that 'nothing can be done.'"

All physicians should know that much can be done for the hard-of-hearing patient. In some instances, hearing can be improved by medical or surgical means.

Once it is known that neither medicine nor surgery can help, it would seem that no further treatment could be of help. But these physicians state that there is now available a rehabilitation program in which various specialists work together to repair or make up for the hearing loss of the individual, after they have learned the entire history of the patient's case.

The various spcialists who combine their efforts include ear specialists, specialists in acoustics (sounds), specialists in speech defects, and education of the deaf, specialists in psychiatry, and specialists in electronics.

This pooling of efforts to help the hard-of-hearing is an out-growth of wartime experience with large numbers of servicemen whose hearing was damaged. The specialists work on the basis that hearing loss is an emotional and social problem and they provide the means to restore the patient to personal and social balance.

The rehabilitation centers are at present in operation in numerous university medical schools, the Veterans Administration Hospitals, and in some large cities.

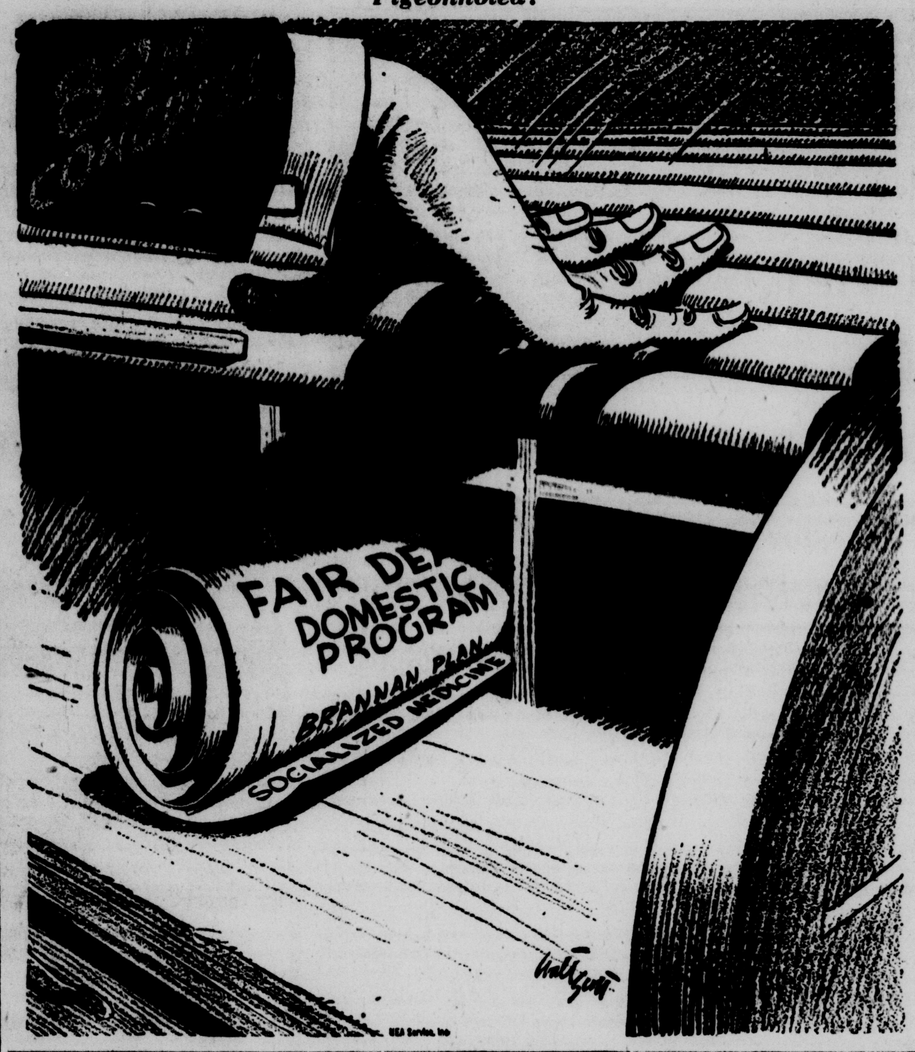
Pigeonholed!



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Democratic senators came out of their first secret caucus of the new congressional session determined to fight back against unfair, below-the-belt political campaigning such as the fake photo featuring a chummy conversation between Senator Tydings and Communist Earl Browder.

Senatorial backs were stiffened by Clint Anderson of New Mexico, who urged them to make a test issue of the Maryland senatorial campaign which defeated Tydings. While the same vicious type of campaign had been waged in other states, Anderson said, only in Maryland was there direct evidence that the candidate himself, GOP John Butler, had participated.

"All you boys will be under this sort of attack in you don't do something about it," warned the New Mexico senator. Showing the senators the phony, composite picture of Tydings and Browder, Anderson continued: United States Senate who had

"Now I have seen a picture of a very wonderful member of the visited Bikini and had gone bathing in the surf, very scantily attired. It would be a simple process to take his outstretched hand and place the hand of a lewd woman in his, against the backdrop of a South Sea isle. That's what this type of campaigning is coming to," Anderson argued.

Connally Next

Then he turned to Tom Connally of Texas and said: "You know, Senator Connally, the campaign is already on down in Texas to prove you are a Communist coddler, because you didn't stand up against Dean Acheson."

Turning to Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia, he remarked: "In the Maryland campaign, Tydings was charged with the loss of American lives in Korea. In the future that sort of comment and criticism, no matter how unfair and unjust, will be heaped on Senator Russell who is taking Tydings' place as chairman of the Armed Services Committee."

At this point, Connecticut's Sen. Brien McMahon waved a copy of "Common Sense," a Fascist publication which had been used in the campaign against him. One headline screamed: "McMahon—Communist Dupe," and the article under it inferred that the senator was guilty of treason and had helped to leak atomic secrets to the Russians—both viciously untrue.

"I beat it boys, but maybe you can't in 1952," McMahon warned.

Iowa's Sen. Guy Gillette, chairman of the elections subcommittee, had just uncovered some last-minute information on Butler's finances that "revealed a scandalous situation" in Maryland. He explained that the investigation wasn't far enough along to bar Butler from taking his seat, but that the Senate parliamentarian had advised the committee that Butler could be ousted later by a majority vote.

Note—The tabloid featuring the fake Tydings-Browder photo was held in Baltimore print shop until Jean Kerr, secretary to Senator McCarthy, brought $2,400 in checks to the printer to pay for distribution. Later Don Surine, McCarthy's assistant, took the Baltimore printer, William H. Fedder, for an all-night ride in an attempt to make him surrender a letter from candidate Butler which appeared to be in violation of the Corrupt Practices Act.

High Cost of Politics

In Pennsylvania, Senator Anderson also pointed out, an estimated $2,000,000 has been spent in the senatorial campaign. "However, the cost of living has gone up in politics," he added, "and it wasn't spent for slanderous literature." Anderson also remarked that the "campaign in Utah was as vicious as the one against Tydings," that "horrible publications" were put out against Elbert Thomas, but that there was no evidence the successful candidate, Wallace Bennett, had directed this campaign.

In reply to newspaper comment that Southerners might not agree to bar Butler of Maryland on the grounds of states' rights, Anderson quoted a speech by Senator George of Georgia on Jan. 17, 1928, when he opposed the seating of Senator Vare of Pennsylvania on the ground that it was up to Congress to pass upon its own membership and that the states had given permission for Congress to investigate federal elections.

After Anderson finished quoting him, George took the floor and recalled having made the 1928 speech. He also added that he hadn't changed his mind.

"We shouldn't pass on the Maryland case by early and one-sided arguments, but we have an obligation to look into it," advised George.

Tydings Bows Out

Senator Tydings himself finally took the floor at the end of the secret caucus. He insisted that he would not contest the election, that he had spent 28 years in Congress, was tired, and deserved a rest. He remarked, however, that he was swamped with letters and telegrams from Maryland voters who had voted against him, but had changed their minds after learning what had actually happened.

"These messages clearly indicate that if the election were held tomorrow, I would sweep the state," declared Tydings. But he insisted again that "unless stern duty demands, I do not intend to go back into government."

By the time the caucus wound up, not a voice was raised against the idea of making the Maryland case an example.

Note — Anderson and Gillette both charged in the secret caucus that Senator McCarthy, Chicago Tribune, Washington Times-Herald and Radio Commentator Fulton Lewis had "actively participated" in the smear campaign.

Washington Pipeline

The swanky new upholstery in the House chamber—brown leather seats on the floor, plush divans in the cloakrooms—doesn't impress plain-talking G.O.P. Rep. Usher Burdick of North Dakota . . . 'Don't let this stuff fool you," Burdick tells colleagues. "These new seats will be just as hard to hang on to as the old ones when election day rolls around." . . . Real boss of the House in the new Congress is not Speaker Sam Rayburn, who nominally holds the reins, but Rep. Howard "Wing-Collar" Smith of Virginia, who cracks the whip over the Dixiecrat-G.O.P. coalition . . . Able, sober-sided Rep. Truman Is Forced to Confine Himself to Generalities in Message to Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 9—President Truman found himself, in his message to Congress on the State of the Union," compelled by circumstances beyond his control to confine himself to generalities and abstract statements on the world situation.

At the very moment that he was speaking, there was in progress within the secret realm of diplomacy some very important exchanges of views between the United States government and the other governments of the free world to obtain universal support for a resolution to be adopted in the U.N. General Assembly condemning Red China as an aggressor and proposing united action by U.N. members.

Likewise, on the very day the President was scheduled to address the Congress, he was unable to reveal the future steps which will be taken in a military way in Korea because these steps are still not crystallized. The tide of battle there, which is adverse at the moment, could result in a stalemate that would encourage the chances of a cease-fire agreement in a few weeks, or it could result in such a concentration of American forces within a narrow perimeter as to make the prime question one of endurance in the beleaguered area, supported by sea and air power.

So with both the political and the military fronts virtually closed off from public discussion during these critical days, Mrs. Truman had to be content with a proclamation of general purposes which to many listeners did not sound as significant perhaps as it really was.

Broadly speaking, the Truman message was well conceived and well developed. It promulgated clearly the American concept of anti-communism and of defense of Europe. For the first time America declares that Red China is a "puppet government" and places directly upon the Soviet government in Moscow the responsibility for "fomenting" revolution in China these last few years.

This is an important disclosure from an official source as high as the presidency of the United States. It is the forerunner of another pronouncement which may be expected soon—namely, that physical control of Chinese territory is maintained by the Communists only because of external aid from Russia and does not warrant admission of the Red Chinese regime into the United Nations.

Indeed, once the Communist faction in China is declared an aggressor and once the United Nations forces are prevented by military action from achieving their objectives in Korea, the opportunity of Communist China to take her place in the family of nations may be said to have been completely lost so far as both diplomatic recognition and admission to the U.N. are concerned.

Perhaps the most interesting straw in the wind is the speech of Sir Gladwyn Jebb, spokesman from Great Britain in the U.N., who hints that a break with Communist China may be forthcoming and that, when this step is taken, all the members of the U.N. should "leap together." This is but another way of saying that, as between continued support of the Communist China regime and a break-up of the U.N. as a result of the Korean debacle, the British are ready to go along with the position of the United States.

The denunciation of Communist China as an aggressor is long past due but it takes time for more than 50 nations to exchange views and to come to conclusions.

Mr. Truman's speech is sharp in denunciation of Soviet Russia. His phrases may have been heard before but they have not been assembled in quite the same positive way. The Truman speech is a distinct contribution to the debate on world policy. The restraint which the President used with reference to the domestic political situation will help the cause of unity. For he puts on the spot those who would yield to partisan spirit. What is important in this regard, however, is that the Democrats in Congress who are attacking individual Republicans as partisans should not be misled into thinking that the dissatisfaction with foreign policy is itself political or a matter of political ambition for certain personalities. For the truth is the unhappiness in America over the Korean adventure is not confined to any political party.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Jan. 8—Inflation of our money through mad extravagance, added to the unavoidable costs of the war, would lead to financial bankruptcy, poverty and revolution. Morally, we are almost bankrupt now as one may discern in the commentaries of sages of the New Deal who have exalted the state to the detriment of the people. We might be able to do something about both of these problems.

We could curtail the cost of the war by billions of dollars by withdrawing the government's support from the overtime racket which was imposed by the Roosevelt administration for the evil purpose of strengthening the power of the union racketeers over the people. This overtime pay did the people no good, for the more money they got the less it would buy.

We could reverse the popular trend toward the pagan brutality of the Kremlin by noting how nearly the New Deal's attitude toward the individual resembles the Soviet concept. Harry Hopkins, who expressed Roosevelt's philosophy better than Roosevelt ever could, put it on paper in brutal terms in the imperishable ghosted article in which he gloated over the predicament of the American people as he saw it at the time. Hopkins apparently miscalculated slightly, for he obviously expected the Japanese war to go somewhat longer than it did. He exulted prematurely over the prospect of enforced civilian labor, the sundering of families by compulsory deportation of workers to jobs far from home selected for them by petty commissars, and the quartering of unknown persons of unknown character in private homes by order of billeting commissars.

The atom bomb blasted that libertine dream. Hopkins did not dwell on the personal consequences to wives and daughters which this Russian plan of his certainly would have wrought, but he surely had them in his mind, for his interests ran that way and he was a ruthless cynic.

Although Roosevelt's superficial mind may have regarded this merely as an attractive novelty, his wife hopped to it and wrote a piece herself, thus turning a profit from the same theme. She did not go into detail as much as Hopkins did, but the fundamental proposition was the same. She wanted the state to take charge of the people and tell us all, "women as well as men," what to do.

Already, although "labor" was being squandered in strikes and overstaffing on many jobs, the War Labor Board was thumbing citizens out of many occupations on the pretense that their toil was needed in "the war effort." Actually, the purpose was to drive them into unionized jobs so that they would come under the control of the New Deal goons who were collecting, all told, more than one billion dollars a year off the top of the workers' wages.

The draft act was intended only to recruit men for the armed forces. But, by this trick, it was used to dragoon citizens into the unions because those who were ruled out of "unessential" occupations had to join unions or join the army. Naturally, most of them joined the unions. The price in money was little enough to pay for draft-exemption and, anyway, the "government" paid it in "overtime."

This process was lower than any but a few of us realized. Without a critical emergency and by means of an artificial shortage of labor which was nonexistent even in spite of the strikes, the state was putting its dirty

FEDERAL EMPLOYMENT

Various reports from Washington have indicated a large and rapid increase in civilian employment. The new agencies to deal with industrial mobilization, economic controls and such are being set up, and the Defense Department is expanding. All of this calls for pay roll additions.

At the same time other government operations, not directly essential to the defense effort or to internal strength and stability, ought to be going through a process of reduction. The President has said that this should be done. Leaders in Congress have said so. Public opinion call for it. Under the strange ways of government, this unanimity of opinion does not mean that the thing is being done, nor necessarily that it will be done. Thus far little visible effort has been made to reduce the non-military expense of government.

A start, one very much to the point, could be made by giving the jobs of new and expanding government activities to present non-military employes instead of adding new ones. Admittedly it would not be practical to try to do this entirely, but it should be practical to do it substantially. This would help to hold down the government budget. It would reduce the government drain on available manpower. It would help to assure the people that the government really means its call for a concentration of effort on the task of defense preparation.

THE NAZIS STILL WRITE

The Nazis are not finished. They are trying to vindicate themselves in a flood of books, pouring out of Germany and Austria, attempting to prove that the aggression of Hitler's day was not really due to Hitler, but to the wickedness of France and Great Britain.

A German book published in Switzerland by Walter Hagen, a member of the German Foreign Intelligence Service under the Nazis, may be judged by its attempt to vindicate Konrad Henlein, the Hitler agent who stirred up the Sudetenland Germans against Czechoslovakia. All the evidence proves that Henlein was a Nazi agent as far back as 1931, and that while he was pretending to be a disinterested leader of the Sudetenlanders he was in Nazi pay.

The chief interest of the book is its introduction to a new villian, worthy to rank in iniquity with Hitler, Goering, Goebbels and Himmler. This was Heydrich, the Nazi gauleiter of Czechoslovakia. One of his achievements was his forging, in 1937, of documents accusing the Russian marshal Tukhachevski of treason. These, sent to Stalin, caused Tukhachevski's execution, and the general overhauling of the Russian army. Eventually this proved calamitous to the Germans, but the confusion that followed Tukhachevski's death may be one reason for the great Nazi victories when first they invaded Russia.

Such books serve one useful purpose. They keep fresh in our memory the fact that Nazism was as evil a system communism, and an enemy of all the world. In the present alarm over communism, the wickedness of the Nazis and their ideas should not be forgotten.

SPEAKING AND HEARING

Many able, intelligent individuals are continually underrated because of speech defects which hinder their self-expression. Help for these people is in the offing, according to speech experimenters at the University of Illinois.

A mechanical device which regulates the time between hearing and speaking can usually cause stuttering in a normal individual, because of the emotional stress involved. Both psychologists and speech experts are studying the results of tests made with this machine. These studies may lead to better understanding of the interaction of emotional stresses and speech defects, and ways by which these troubles may be reduced.

The connection between the emotions and stuttering has long been recognized, but not with any clear understanding of its background. The developments which result from this research project may bring help and freedom to many handicapped persons.

With all the talk of shortages there seems to be no prospect of one that would delight many people—a shortage of winter weather.

'These Days'

THE TREND TOWARD SOCIALISM

I was recently shocked to discover a lad who believed in a restoration of what he called "laissez-faire capitalism." The term meant nothing to me, as such a form of capitalism has never existed and was, at most, a figment of the imagination. The means for earning money have in some measure always been controlled, to a greater or lesser degree, and the right of investment and expenditure has been limited either by social pressure or government or religious interdicts. Taxes have always been a limiting factor.

However, the very use of the term after three wars in one generation strikes me as being akin to those theologians who are still fighting the 17th century religious wars. Some things simply do not belong to the times. As a mater of fact, when we actually reach Mr. Truman's budget of $90,000,000,000, we shall be reduced to an increasing socialism.

I could not help noting in this connection two interesting paragraphs, by Paul W. Dickson, in a study of "Compensation and Pensions of Executives," written for the National Industrial Conference Board:

"A generation or so ago the successful manager was very handsomely rewarded. He often acquired a considerable equity in the company, and usually shared in its profits. Today, he is often just a very important employe, with little or no financial stake in the company. So there is much greater emphasis on the salary of an executive than in the past, especially since the payment of bonuses has been closely circumscribed. Perhaps more important to the average high executive are the impact of federal personal income taxes and the decline in the value of the dollar. To illustrate, a $50,000 salary in 1940 was reduced by the income tax to $36,259 for a man with two children. In 1950, this salary, after taxes, amounted to only $20,492 in 1940 dollars.

"As the executive moves up he accepts ever-heavier responsibilities. As his salary goes up he finds that he is working three days a week for Uncle Sam instead of two, with only a negative advance in his own 'take home.' In assuming the heavier responsibilities he can hardly be interested in the financial reward, but rather in the added prestige and in the challenge of a bigger job."

In 1951, that salary will be cut to even less. The man who does not earn $50,000 naturally does not feel very sorry for the man who does. But he also does not have the other man's preparations and qualifications and headaches, nor the other man's social responsibilities.

The question for the executive is whether it is worth his while to assume so much for so little compensation.

Some men like honors and dignities and find compensation enough in that. Some men have a sense of public service and find compensation in the opportunity to perform it. But the money compensation—the opportunity to accumulate, to save, to invest, to leave an estate for children and grandchildren—that is gone in this country except for a favored few.

The favored few need to be described:

1. Racketeers: Their opportunities are plentiful. They earn their money by high adventure, risking liberty and life. Most of them do not report their earnings to the treasury, but make heavy contributions to campaign funds of politicians and depend upon fixes to keep them out of jail;

2. Black and grey marketeers: This is an amazing crew of businessmen who deal in scarce commodities. We shall soon see them in the automobile business again. As long as the automobile companies fail to print in their advertisements the retail prices of cars—even the F.O.B. Detroit price—they aid and abet these pirates, many of whom demand cash bonuses for their wares. These bonuses, under-the-counter or over-the-counter, are not reported for tax purposes. The man who does this is, of course, a thief but does not suffer social opprobrium:

3. Professional men and others who receive cash payments and report what they like;

4. Labor leaders who do not have to account for the use they make of what should be public funds;

5. Thieving politicians who accept bribes for permitting violations of the law;

6. Those who still possess inherited wealth.

Those who fit these categories only suffer the consequences of depreciated currency, which they often manage to hedge against the rest of us are being socialized by taxation.

That Body of Yours

THE HARD OF HEARING

There is no other one subject on which I write that seems to interest so many readers as loss of hearing. It is unfortunately true that many physicians, because they do not wish to arouse hope in what they honestly believe are hopeless cases, fail to keep up with all that is now being done to help those with loss of hearing.

In the Illinois Medical Journal some months ago, Drs. Francis L. Lederer, Richard E. Marcus and Arnold A. Grossman, Chicago, stated: "Because of widespread publicity, most of which is true or authentic, many hard-of-hearing and deafened patients are looking to their physician for relief of their symptoms. The physician, in many instances, is not aware of the significant advances in the treatment of hearing loss and therefore stifles the feeling of hope in the patients by saying that 'nothing can be done.'"

All physicians should know that much can be done for the hard-of-hearing patient. In some instances, hearing can be improved by medical or surgical means.

Once it is known that neither medicine nor surgery can help, it would seem that no further treatment could be of help. But these physicians state that there is now available a rehabilitation program in which various specialists work together to repair or make up for the hearing loss of the individual, after they have learned the entire history of the patient's case.

The various specialists who combine their efforts include ear specialists, specialists in acoustics (sounds), specialists in speech defects, and education of the deaf, specialists in psychiatry, and specialists in electronics.

This pooling of efforts to help the hard-of-hearing is an out-growth of wartime experience with large numbers of servicemen whose hearing was damaged. The specialists work on the basis that hearing loss is an emotional and social problem and they provide the means to restore the patient to personal and social balance.

The rehabilitation centers are at present in operation in numerous university medical schools, the Veterans Administration Hospitals, and in some large cities.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Democratic senators came out of their first secret caucus of the new congressional session determined to fight back against unfair, below-the-belt political campaigning such as the fake photo featuring a chummy conversation between Senator Tydings and Communist Earl Browder.

Senatorial backs were stiffened by Clint Anderson of New Mexico, who urged them to make a test issue of the Maryland senatorial campaign which defeated Tydings. While the same vicious type of campaign had been waged in other states, Anderson said, only in Maryland was there direct evidence that the candidate himself, GOP John Butler, had participated.

"All you boys will be under this sort of attack in you don't do something about it," warned the New Mexico senator. Showing the senators the phony, composite picture of Tydings and Browder, Anderson continued:

United States Senate who had

"Now I have seen a picture of a very wonderful member of the visited Bikini and had gone bathing in the surf, very scantily attired. It would be a simple process to take his outstretched hand and place the hand of a lewd woman in his, against the backdrop of a South Sea isle. That's what this type of campaigning is coming to," Anderson argued.

Connally Next

Then he turned to Tom Connally of Texas and said: "You know, Senator Connally, the campaign is already on down in Texas to prove you are a Communist coddler, because you didn't stand up against Dean Acheson."

Turning to Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia, he remarked: "In the Maryland campaign, Tydings was charged with the loss of American lives in Korea. In the future that sort of comment and criticism, no matter how unfair and unjust, will be heaped on Senator Russell who is taking Tydings' place as chairman of the Armed Services Committee."

At this point, Connecticut's Sen. Brien McMahon waved a copy of "Common Sense," a Fascist publication which had been used in the campaign against him. One headline screamed: "McMahon—Communist Dupe," and the article under it inferred that the senator was guilty of treason and had helped to leak atomic secrets to the Russians—both viciously untrue.

"I beat it boys, but maybe you can't in 1952," McMahon warned.

Iowa's Sen. Guy Gillette, chairman of the elections subcommittee, had just uncovered some last-minute information on Butler's finances that "revealed a scandalous situation" in Maryland. He explained that the investigation wasn't far enough along to bar Butler from taking his seat, but that the Senate parliamentarian had advised the committee that Butler could be ousted later by a majority vote.

Note—The tabloid featuring the fake Tydings-Browder photo was held in Baltimore print shop until Jean Kerr, secretary to Senator McCarthy, brought $2,400 in checks to the printer to pay for distribution. Later Don Surine, McCarthy's assistant, took the Baltimore printer, William H. Fedder, for an all-night ride in an attempt to make him surrender a letter from candidate Butler which appeared to be in violation of the Corrupt Practices Act.

High Cost of Politics

In Pennsylvania, Senator Anderson also pointed out, an estimated $2,000,000 has been spent in the senatorial campaign. "However, the cost of living has gone up in politics," he added, "and it wasn't spent for slanderous literature." Anderson also remarked that the "campaign in Utah was as vicious as the one against Tydings," that "horrible publications" were put out against Elbert Thomas, but that there was no evidence the successful candidate, Wallace Bennett, had directed this campaign.

In reply to newspaper comment that Southerners might not agree to bar Butler of Maryland on the grounds of states' rights, Anderson quoted a speech by Senator George of Georgia on Jan. 17, 1928, when he opposed the seating of Senator Vare of Pennsylvania on the ground that it was up to Congress to pass upon its own membership and that the states had given permission for Congress to investigate federal elections.

After Anderson finished quoting him, George took the floor and recalled having made the 1928 speech. He also added that he hadn't changed his mind.

"We shouldn't pass on the Maryland case by early and one-sided arguments, but we have an obligation to look into it," advised George.

Tydings Bows Out

Senator Tydings himself finally took the floor at the end of the secret caucus. He insisted that he would not contest the election, that he had spent 28 years in Congress, was tired, and deserved a rest. He remarked, however, that he was swamped with letters and telegrams from Maryland voters who had voted against him, but had changed their minds after learning what had actually happened.

"These messages clearly indicate that if the election were held tomorrow, I would sweep the state," declared Tydings. But he insisted again that "unless stern duty demands, I do not intend to go back into government."

By the time the caucus wound up, not a voice was raised against the idea of making the Maryland case an example.

Note — Anderson and Gillette both charged in the secret caucus that Senator McCarthy, Chicago Tribune, Washington Times-Herald and Radio Commentator Fulton Lewis had "actively participated" in the smear campaign.

This overtime pay did the people no good, for the more money they got the less it would buy.

We could reverse the popular trend toward the pagan brutality of the Kremlin by noting how nearly the New Deal's attitude toward the individual resembles the Soviet concept. Harry Hopkins, who expressed Roosevelt's philosophy better than Roosevelt ever could, put it on paper in brutal terms in the imperishable ghosted article in which he gloated over the predicament of the American people as he saw it at the time. Hopkins apparently miscalculated slightly, for he obviously expected the Japanese war to go somewhat longer than it did. He exulted prematurely over the prospect of enforced civilian labor, the sundering of families by compulsory deportation of workers to jobs far from home selected for them by petty commissars, and the quartering of unknown persons of unknown character in private homes by order of billeting commissars.

The atom bomb blasted that libertine dream. Hopkins did not dwell on the personal consequences to wives and daughters which this Russian plan of his certainly would have wrought, but he surely had them in his mind, for his interests ran that way and he was a ruthless cynic.

Although Roosevelt's superficial mind may have regarded this merely as an attractive novelty, his wife hopped to it and wrote a piece herself, thus turning a profit from the same theme. She did not go into detail as much as Hopkins did, but the fundamental proposition was the same. She wanted the state to take charge of the people and tell us all, "women as well as men," what to do.

Already, although "labor" was being squandered in strikes and overstaffing on many jobs, the War Labor Board was thumbing citizens out of many occupations on the pretense that their toil was needed in "the war effort." Actually, the purpose was to drive them into unionized jobs so that they would come under the control of the New Deal goons who were collecting, all told, more than one billion dollars a year off the top of the workers' wages.

The draft act was intended only to recruit men for the armed forces. But, by this trick, it was used to dragoon citizens into the unions because those who were ruled out of "unessential" occupations had to join unions or join the army. Naturally, most of them joined the unions. The price in money was little enough to pay for draft-exemption and, anyway, the "government" paid it in "overtime."

This process was lower than any but a few of us realized. Without a critical emergency and by means of an artificial shortage of labor which was nonexistent even in spite of the strikes, the state was putting its dirty

Aliens Required To Fill Out Forms By January 10th

All aliens should call at their post office and fill out one of the alien registration forms which are available at post offices. The time allotted is from January first through the tenth.

This alien registration is under the Nationality Act of 1950 and requires that all aliens fill out one of the forms which indicates their present address, date of arrival in this country, where they came from, the date of their birth and also their registration number which was given on their card when they registered under the provisions of the 1940 act.

Primarily this registration is for the purpose of ascertaining the present address of the alien.

Since 1940 all aliens have been registered by the immigration authorities as they come to the country but it now becomes necessary for them to fill out the present registration address form. These forms are available at all post offices and when they have been filled out at the post office they are handed in to the post office and forwarded by the post office to the proper authorities.

All aliens should fill out one of these forms by January 10 or immediately after. No finger prints are required on the new form.

Dawson in Jail To Make Certain He'll Be in Court

A panel of 24 jurors was excused by City Judge Raymond Mino Monday night when the defendant in an assault action failed to appear in court ready for trial.

Wilder Dawson, of 47½ Van Buren street, had entered a plea of innocent to a third degree assault charge and requested a jury trial, which was scheduled to be held Monday night. He was released on $200 property bail.

When time came for the trial, Judge Mino, the jurors, the city marshal and the clerk of the court were on hand, but Dawson did not appear, according to a police report. Patrolmen Frank Sammons and Walter Fitzgerald were sent to his home, where they found him in bed and not ready for trial, police said.

Judge Mino excused the jurors, and raised Dawson's bail to $500 for trial on January 16. Unable to raise the bail immediately, Dawson was taken to the Ulster county jail.

Central Hudson Holds Dinner for Sales Discussion

More than 200 members of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's commercial department met at the Barn in Kingston last night to outline the company's sales program for the year 1951.

In reviewing the past year, President Ernest R. Acker congratulated the group on the effectiveness of its 1950 sales record. He said that in the past two years residential electric sales had increased by 23 per cent and that gas sales of December, 1950 were 36 per cent higher than in December, 1948.

R. B. MacGuinness, vice-president in charge of operations, reported the company's construction program on schedule. This includes a 60,000 kilowatt steam generating plant at Danskammer Point, six miles north of Newburgh, and a 25,000 kilowatt hydroelectric plant at Grahamsville.

Robert B. Denhardt retail sales manager outlined the program for 1951 and said emphasis would be placed on a further increase of natural gas sales. Harris E. Dexter, vice-president in charge of commercial relations, presided as toastmaster.

The Central Hudson employes, dressed in Indian attire, were divided into three tribes. The tribes will compete with each other for sales during the coming year.

Negligence Cases Heard in Court

Following settlement of a contract action brought by Samuel E. Mott and others against Joseph Matthews, Jr., and others, two negligence actions were taken up in Supreme Court Monday.

The contract action was brought by Samuel E. Mott and eighteen other plaintiffs against Matthews and the G.L.F. to recover damages which plaintiffs alleged they had suffered when tomato plants bought from Matthews and raised from seed supplied by the G.L.F. failed to turn out as true varieties. Matthews had in a prior action recovered damages from the G.L.F. and was named a third party defendant in the present action. Judge Andrew J. Cook appeared for plaintiffs and Cashin & Ewig and Michael Nardone appeared for the defendants.

A negligence action brought by David Krevoy against Maurice Horn was also settled. Lawrence Levine for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

Cases Settled

Other cases announced settled on the call of the day calendar are:

No. 27, Sam Cohen against Rose & Douglas Company, negligence. Lawrence Levine for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

No. 35, William E. Graham against Benjamin B. Freifeld, negligence. John A. Bonomi for plaintiff and Leo F. Potts for defendant.

No. 37, Jane Warnott and another against Louis Rosenstock, negligence. John A. Bonomi for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendants.

No. 170, William H. Johnson against Edward Seymour, action to set aside a general release. Kirtland F. Snyder for plaintiff and Francis Martocci for defendant.

Monday an extra panel of 24 trial jurors reported. Out of the panel thirteen were accepted for service.

Total of $110,000 Asked

Actions asking a total of $110,000 are brought by four passengers of a New Jersey truck which was in collision with a passenger car just south of the Ulster county line on route 9-W on October 17, 1948. The actions are brought against the owner and operator of the truck in which the four persons were passengers and also the owner and operator of the other vehicle which was operated by Dominick Musco of Newburgh.

Judge Andrew J. Cook appears for Musco. The four plaintiffs Emanuel Caravano, his daughter, Josephine Caravano, Jack Barelline and Salvatore Triassi, all of New Jersey, are represented by Michael Nardone and Alfonse Coliccichio the owner of the truck and Gasper Gambino, driver of the truck, are represented by George F. Roesch of Middletown.

All four passengers were taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh for treatment following the accident, one of them was hospitalized for eight days while the others were given first aid and discharged.

Truck Was Borrowed

The truck had been borrowed from Coliccichio and was operated by Gambino. The party had been to Ulster county to buy grapes and were enroute home. Plaintiffs alleged the truck was being operated toward the center lane when it collided with the Musco car which was proceeding north enroute to Poughkeepsie and was also in the center lane.

Caravano and his daughter were on the front seat with the driver and the other two passengers were in the rear of the dump truck. Plaintiffs allege they had no control over the operation of the vehicle and therefore did not contribute to the negligence.

Emanuel Caravano, a brick layer's helper, lost two weeks work at $70 a week and suffered arm, back and head injuries and sues for $15,000 claiming permanent injuries. His daughter sues for $20,000 for back and head injuries which she alleged caused her to give up her machine operator's job and made it necessary for her to seek lighter work at a lower salary. She alleges she was out of work a year. Barellino asks $50,000 for head injuries and loss of work. He too was a hod carrier at $70 a week and is unable to do that work now. Triassi, also a hod carrier earning $70 a week, sued for brain concussion, shoulder and back injuries and asks $25,000.

All the plaintiffs reside in or near Elizabeth, N. J.

Was Not Present

The owner of the truck contends he was not present and in no way contributed toward the accident although the truck had been borrowed with his consent.

Judge Cook, representing Musco, contends that the fault was not that of Musco but wholly due to the truck operator. Musco, Mr. Cook said in his opening, was driving north when he saw the truck coming south in the middle of the road. In an effort to avoid a head-on collision he pulled his car to the left and they collided near the northbound lane. He also disputed the seriousness of the injuries, pointing out that the persons injured were treated and discharged from the hospital with the exception of one, and that therefore their injuries could not have been serious. Mr. Roesch also contends the injuries could not have been serious.

Jurors not engaged on the case were excused until 10 o'clock today.

Avoid Traffic Lane When Entering or Leaving Vehicle

One good way to flirt with death is to get out of an automobile into traffic, according to Richard M. Kalish, president of Ulster County Safety Council.

"Walking out into traffic to get into a parked car or leaping out of a car into traffic is inviting drivers to hit you," said Kalish. "Drivers do not want to accept that invitation, but it is sometimes impossible for even the most alert driver to anticipate a person jumping into his path from a parked car," he warned.

"I know it is tempting for a driver to get out of the car the 'easy' way, opening the door by the driver's seat and stepping into traffic, rather than sliding across the seat and leaving by the door adjacent to the sidewalk. But in this case the easy way is a dangerous way," Kalish continued.

"Drivers also tend to walk around their parked cars right out into traffic where they stand unlocking the door while approaching cars must swerve to avoid hitting them. Here again, a person invites death just because it's the easier way," he said.

Kalish asks all drivers and automobile passengers alike, for their own safety, always to make it a rule to enter and leave automobiles on the curb side.

Dawson in Jail To Make Certain He'll Be in Court

A panel of 24 jurors was excused by City Judge Raymond Mino Monday night when the defendant in an assault action failed to appear in court ready for trial.

Wilder Dawson, of 47½ Van Buren street, had entered a plea of innocent to a third degree assault charge and requested a jury trial, which was scheduled to be held Monday night. He was released on $200 property bail.

When time came for the trial, Judge Mino, the jurors, the city marshal and the clerk of the court were on hand, but Dawson did not appear, according to a police report. Patrolmen Frank Sammons and Walter Fitzgerald were sent to his home, where they found him in bed and not ready for trial, police said.

Judge Mino excused the jurors, and raised Dawson's bail to $500 for trial on January 16. Unable to raise the bail immediately, Dawson was taken to the Ulster county jail.

More than 200 members of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's commercial department met at the Barn in Kingston last night to outline the company's sales program for the year 1951.

In reviewing the past year, President Ernest R. Acker congratulated the group on the effectiveness of its 1950 sales record. He said that in the past two years residential electric sales had increased by 23 per cent and that gas sales of December, 1950 were 36 per cent higher than in December, 1948.

R. B. MacGuinness, vice-president in charge of operations, reported the company's construction program on schedule. This includes a 60,000 kilowatt steam generating plant at Danskammer Point, six miles north of Newburgh, and a 25,000 kilowatt hydroelectric plant at Grahamsville.

The most helpful single economic measure that we could adopt would be the absolute abolition of the power of unions to impose "overtime" rates of pay not only in war works but in all private jobs. That power was a gift which Roosevelt granted to the union racketeers for an ulterior purpose. The abolition of "overtime" would save many billions a year of excess costs based on the wasteful fiction that an hour's work by a given individual beyond the 35th or 40th hour in a given week is worth more than an hour's work within those limits and between 9 and 5, daylight, and between Monday morning and Friday night, holidays excepted. The only proper measure of value is quality and quantity of production considered together. This is not a feasible way, however, in mass production, which degrades the best to the level of the least. So the alternative is to hit upon a straight-time pay and stick to it for all shifts on all working days and nights.

Overtime is an artificial restriction to spread an insufficient amount of work among the greatest possible number of people in hard times by making it expensive for the boss to give more work to superior people than to mediocrities and incompetents. It is inexcusable during periods of wartime shortage of manpower and it might be ruinous.

Pakistan Imports Grow

Karachi, Pakistan (AP)—Pakistan during three months ending October recorded the highest import figures from countries other than India. Operation of the open general license made imports soar to $23,460,000. But the high price of cotton reduced export figures to $15,000,000. Trade with India during this period was mostly by barter.

Dear Friends:

In the infancy of the new year, we wish to take time out from the post-holiday season to extend to you our friends, our sincere wishes for a Blessed and Prosperous New Year, with fervent hopes that 1951 will bring to you a full measure of Health and Happiness.

We deem it fitting at this time, as we pass another milestone in our history, to thank you for your charity and thoughtfulness during the past year and assure you that we are deeply grateful. It is expressed with the full realization that only because of your continued interest in those less fortunate can we hope to succeed in our endeavors, and want you to know we are always ready to received your continued support.

In closing, on behalf of Mayor Newkirk, the chairmen of the various committees, who worked unselfishly and untiringly, and myself, may we say thank you in appreciation of the magnificent response we have received from our Christmas Cheer appeals, for the remittances of individuals, of the industrial plants and of the merchants who supplied our entire requirements of candy, fruit and clothing. Further, we also wish to thank the men of the Board of Public Works, the Boy Scouts and the Business and Professional Girls' Club of the Y.W.C.A., who were so generous with their time and labor. In addition, we are grateful to the Freeman Publishing Company and Mr. Browning of WKNY for their assistance in our publicity campaign.

With Blessed Greetings once again for 1951,

Sincerely yours,
ALICE L. MOORE, Chairman

His Fines Total $354

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Costa Nicholas Yuvonovich, 50, said in traffic court that he had been driving a car without a license for 15 years because he couldn't pass a driving test. Yuvonovich, charged with being an unlicensed driver, paid a $100 fine yesterday. That brought to $354 the total amount of fines he has paid. He previously had been arrested 13 times on traffic charges.

Pakistan Imports Grow

Karachi, Pakistan (AP)—Pakistan during three months ending October recorded the highest import figures from countries other than India. Operation of the open general license made imports soar to $23,460,000. But the high price of cotton reduced export figures to $15,000,000. Trade with India during this period was mostly by barter.

Nai Vorakan said the opium trade between Burma and China is now coming through Thailand because of the war conditions in Indochina which forced a change of the smuggling route. He added that growing and transport of opium is illegal in Thailand.

Your Income Tax Primer

By RICHARD A MULLENS
NEA Special Correspondent

Those of you who are itemizing your deductions on page 3 of the return can charge off, in the schedule shown above, any net loss you suffered during 1950, from the destruction of your property in a fire, storm, flood, hurricane, or other similar casualty. You can deduct damages to your car even if caused by faulty drivinb but not if you were wilfully negligent in allowing the accident to occur. Losses from theft are also deductible.

The Bureau instructions on computing the amount of the loss are as follows:

1. Determine the fair market value of the property just before the loss, and

2. Subtract both the salvage value after the loss and any insurance of damage awards you receive.

The fair market value of the property before and after the loss may be difficult to determine. Such things as repair bills, insurance adjustor's estimates, and police or fire department records may be good evidence of the amount of your loss. It is wise to include with any such deduction a statement explaining how the loss occurred and how you computed the amount of the loss.

Losses from fire, storm, or other casualty, or theft

Cost of repairing roof hit by lightning	$ 250	00
Total Allowable Losses (not compensated by insurance or otherwise)		250 00

Medical and dental expenses

Hospital insurance premiums	$ 60	00
Hospital charges not covered by ins.	54	00
Dr. Johnson	175	00
Drugs, medicine, X-Ray, laboratory fees	81	05
Net Expenses (not compensated by insurance or otherwise)	$ 370	05
Enter 5 percent of item 4, page 1, and subtract from Net Expenses	347	52
Allowable Medical and Dental Expenses. See Instructions for limitation		22 53

Within certain limits you can deduct what the law considers unusual medical and dental expenses, provided you choose to itemize your deductions. Only those expenses in excess of 5 per cent of your adjusted gross income (Item 4, page 1) are deductible.

Medical and dental expenses include any such amount you paid in 1950 on yourself, your wife, all dependents claimed on your return, and even your child to whose support you contributed more than half, even though that child is not a legal dependent because he earned more than $500 during 1950.

Get together receipted bills and check stubs, and make notes of what you remember paying in cash. On the worksheet with this article show what you spent for each item Add them up.

The "insurance received" to be subtracted includes what you received from private policies, from workmen's compensation, from your employer either under contract or of his own good will (but not wages continued during illness which already show as income); or from any other person who contributed voluntarily or by court order because of his responsibility.

Now take 5 per cent of Item 4 on page 1 of the return. If your net medical expenses shown in this blank were more than 5 per cent of Item 4 you can deduct the differences. If not, you have no deduction.

If you have a deduction, list your expenditures in the Medical and Dental Expenses schedule of the return if it has room, or use a plain sheet of paper and attach it to the return. In either case, on the schedule's line for "Net Expenses," show the net amount computed on the blank.

On the next printed line show 5 per cent of Item 4. Subtract that from your net expenses. The difference goes on the line at the extreme right of the printed schedule—with one limitation.

There is a limit to the amount you can deduct. This limit is computed as follows:

1. If you are claiming only your own personal exemption and no more in Item 1, the limit is $1250;

2. If you are a single person, or a married person filing only for yourself, but claiming dependents, the limit is $2500;

3. If you are filing a joint husband-wife return, the limit is $1250 for each person for whom an exemption is claimed in Item 1 —not counting special exemptions for blindness or age—with a ceiling of $5000 no matter how many exemptions are claimed

So, if your allowable medical expenses, in excess of 5 per cent of Item 4 were greater than this limit for your type of return, show the limit or ceiling figure instead of your own, in the right-hand column.

Among items that can NOT be deducted are life insurance premiums, funeral expenses, cemetery plots, the cost of illegal operations or drugs, the cost of travel suggested by your doctor "for rest" or "for a change."

Miscellaneous (See Instructions)

Local travelling expenses of Jane Public incurred while selling cosmetics. Not reimbursed by employer.	$ 17	50
Total Miscellaneous Deductions		17 50

The miscellaneous schedule is the catch-all for deductions not taken elsewhere. Typical examples of items that can be deducted here are:

1. Expenses of earning your salary or wage. Any ordinary and necessary expenses which you incur for your employer's benefit are deductible. This includes dues, initiation fees, and assessments to labor unions and professional societies; entertainment of customers to promote specific deals, and not just for general good will; uniforms, work clothes, and costumes required in your work that do not replace your own ordinary clothing; safety equipment, tools and supplies necessary and customary in your work. It also includes expenses of travel for your employer when you did not stay away overnight. These were described more fully in the fourth article. DO NOT deduct on page 3 any travel expenses when you remained away overnight or any expenses for which you were reimbursed by your employer. These should be deducted in Item 2, page 1 of the return.

2. Alimony, paid regularly but not necessarily at fixed intervals, under court order—include separate maintenance (but not lump sum settlements, nor payments made without court order).

3. Your share of mortgage interest and real estate taxes on a cooperative apartment.

4. Fees paid to lawyer or accountant for help in preparing your 1949 tax return.

The fair market value of the property before and after the loss may be difficult to determine. Such things as repair bills, insurance adjustor's estimates, and police or fire department records may be good evidence of the amount of your loss. It is wise to include with any such deduction a statement explaining how the loss occurred and how you computed the amount of the loss.

Losses from fire, storm, or other casualty, or theft

Cost of repairing roof hit by lightning	$ 250 00
Total Allowable Losses (not compensated by insurance or otherwise)		250 00

Medical and dental expenses

Hospital insurance premiums	$ 60 00
Hospital charges not covered by ins.	54 00
Dr. Johnson	175 00
Drugs, medicine, X-Ray, laboratory fees	81 05
Net Expenses (not compensated by insurance or otherwise)	$ 370 05
Enter 5 percent of item 4, page 1, and subtract from Net Expenses	347 52
Allowable Medical and Dental Expenses. See Instructions for limitation		22 53

Within certain limits you can deduct what the law considers unusual medical and dental expenses, provided you choose to itemize your deductions. Only those expenses in excess of 5 per cent of your adjusted gross income (Item 4, page 1) are deductible.

Medical and dental expenses include any such amount you paid in 1950 on yourself, your wife, all dependents claimed on your return, and even your child to whose support you contributed more than half, even though that child is not a legal dependent because he earned more than $500 during 1950.

Get together receipted bills and check stubs, and make notes of what you remember paying in cash. On the worksheet with this article show what you spent for each item Add them up.

The "insurance received" to be subtracted includes what you received from private policies, from workmen's compensation, from your employer either under contract or of his own good will (but not wages continued during illness which already show as income); or from any other person who contributed voluntarily or by court order because of his responsibility.

Now take 5 per cent of Item 4 on page 1 of the return. If your net medical expenses shown in this blank were more than 5 per cent of Item 4 you can deduct the differences. If not, you have no deduction.

If you have a deduction, list your expenditures in the Medical and Dental Expenses schedule of the return if it has room, or use a plain sheet of paper and attach it to the return. In either case, on the schedule's line for "Net Expenses," show the net amount computed on the blank.

On the next printed line show 5 per cent of Item 4. Subtract that from your net expenses. The difference goes on the line at the extreme right of the printed schedule—with one limitation.

There is a limit to the amount you can deduct. This limit is computed as follows:

1. If you are claiming only your own personal exemption and no more in Item 1, the limit is $1250;

2. If you are a single person, or a married person filing only for yourself, but claiming dependents, the limit is $2500;

3. If you are filing a joint husband-wife return, the limit is $1250 for each person for whom an exemption is claimed in Item 1—not counting special exemptions for blindness or age—with a ceiling of $5000 no matter how many exemptions are claimed

So, if your allowable medical expenses, in excess of 5 per cent of Item 4 were greater than this limit for your type of return, show the limit or ceiling figure instead of your own, in the right-hand column.

Among items that can NOT be deducted are life insurance premiums, funeral expenses, cemetery plots, the cost of illegal operations or drugs, the cost of travel suggested by your doctor "for rest" or "for a change."

Miscellaneous (See Instructions)

Local travelling expenses of Jane Public incurred while selling cosmetics. Not reimbursed by employer.	$ 17 50
Total Miscellaneous Deductions		17 50

The miscellaneous schedule is the catch-all for deductions not taken elsewhere. Typical examples of items that can be deducted here are:

1. Expenses of earning your salary or wage. Any ordinary and necessary expenses which you incur for your employer's benefit are deductible. This includes dues, initiation fees, and assessments to labor unions and professional societies; entertainment of customers to promote specific deals, and not just for general good will; uniforms, work clothes, and costumes required in your work that do not replace your own ordinary clothing; safety equipment, tools and supplies necessary and customary in your work. It also includes expenses of travel for your employer when you did not stay away overnight. These were described more fully in the fourth article. DO NOT deduct on page 3 any travel expenses when you remained away overnight or any expenses for which you were reimbursed by your employer. These should be deducted in Item 2, page 1 of the return.

2. Alimony, paid regularly but not necessarily at fixed intervals, under court order—include separate maintenance (but not lump sum settlements, nor payments made without court order).

3. Your share of mortgage interest and real estate taxes on a cooperative apartment.

4. Fees paid to lawyer or accountant for help in preparing your 1949 tax return.

POTATOES YIELD NEEDED PROTEINS

SHEPHERD POTATOES—Enriched at little cost with non-fat, dry milk and leftover meat.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Stuffed baked potatoes take on extra nutrition at little cost if you add non-fat dry milk.

This is milk with fat and water removed and contains the important milk nutrients—protein, calcium, riboflavin and lactose. Your grocer has it in one-pound packages.

Shepherd Potatoes
(Makes 6 servings)

Six medium baking potatoes, washed and dried, 6 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, about ¼ teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons non-fat dry milk, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, ¼ cup hot water, about 1½ cups finely chopped leftover cooked meat.

Rub potatoes with fat. Bake in oven (450 Deg. F.) until done, about 50 to 60 minutes. Remove from oven. Cut a slice off the top of each potato. Scoop out potatoes, saving shells.

Mash potatoes. Beat in 5 tablespoons melted butter, salt and pepper. Gradually beat in non-fat dry milk; add onions, and then enough water to make smooth and fluffy.

Place ¼ cup meat in each shell; fill with mashed potatoes. Brush tops with remaining 1 tablespoon melted butter and sprinkle with paprika if desired. Place on baking sheet and bake in moderately hot oven (400 Deg. F.) until golden brown (about 20 minutes). Serve immediately.

It is easy to extend protein value of your meat sauce by adding non-fat dry milk. Serve it over fluffy potatoes with some non-fat dry milk added and you have a low cost main dish with high food value.

Savory Meat Sauce
(Makes 3 1/3 cups)

One pound ground lean beef, 2 cups cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, dash of celery salt, dash of garlic powder, 6 tablespoons non-fat dry milk, 6 tablespoons flour, ½ cup water, ¾ teaspoon Worcestehshire sauce, 2 tablespoons sugar, carmelized.

Add ground beef to cold water in deep saucepan. Add salt, pepper, celery salt and garlic powder. Stir over medium heat to remove lumps. Bring to boiling point and simmer 20 minutes, stirring often.

Meanwhile, combine non-fat dry milk and flour. Mix with the ½ cup water to make a smooth paste. Add Worcestershire sauce. Gradually add meat mixture to flour mixture.

Return to heat and cook, stirring constantly, about 10 minutes. Add carmelized sugar for color. Serve hot over hot fluffy potatoes.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Stewed prunes, shredded wheat, crisp bacon, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Savory meat sauce on noodles, cabbage and green pepper salad, seeded rolls, butter or fortified margarine, sliced oranges, tea, milk.

REGULAR - or Double KING SIZE!

Shown here are two cigarettes — one, the regular size, 2¾ inches long and another, 5¼ inches long, a double King Size, if there were such a cigarette! They illustrate the exact comparison in heating value of a cubic foot of old manufactured gas and a cubic foot of present Natural Gas . . . 537 heating units to the cubic foot for old manufactured as against 1030 heating units for Natural Gas.

Why compare cigarettes and gas? Simply to show graphically that in providing heat for the same job a cubic foot of Natural Gas is almost equal to two cubic feet of old manufactured gas. In other words, you're practically getting the equivalent of two smokes for one!

When Natural Gas was turned into the mains rates where changed. This resulted in somewhat lower charges for cooking and water heating and a substantial reduction for house heating, since this class of customer bore the brunt of the increase when gas rates were hiked in 1947 through 1949.

As a comparison of cost for the same service between old manufactured gas and new Natural Gas, these figures may help you get a better idea. Let's assume that this customer is one who first starts with cooking, then adds water heating, then adds house heating:

	OLD MANUFACTURED GAS		PRESENT NATURAL GAS
	Quantity of gas	Cost	Quantity of gas	Cost
Start with cooking	1,150 cubic feet	$ 2.60	600 cubic feet	$ 2.35
Add water heating	2,300 cubic feet	3.84	1,200 cubic feet	3.72
Add house heating	29,000 cubic feet	29.76	15,000 cubic feet	20.08
	32,450 cubic feet	$36.20	16,800 cubic feet	$26.15

Hospitals in Ecuador use boa-constrictors as a treatment for paralysis. Most of the patients imagine they have the ailment and pet boas are turned loose in the paralysis wards, scaring the patients into action.

Red Barns

Most barns are painted red because, early in the last century, farmers recognized that natural earth pigments of the red iron oxide type were readily available and, when mixed with oil, made good, long-lasting paint.

That's why millions, every day, pass other ice cream stores to buy BREYERS. Made better, Breyers naturally tastes better. No artificial flavorings! Just real cream and sugar... and chock full of choice fruits or nuts . . . all natural flavorings . . . the finest that money can buy.

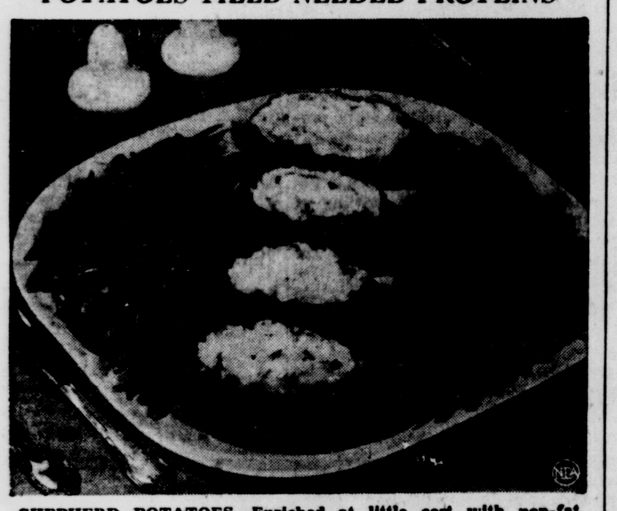
POTATOES YIELD NEEDED PROTEINS



SHEPHERD POTATOES—Enriched at little cost with non-fat, dry milk and leftover meat.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Stuffed baked potatoes take on extra nutrition at little cost if you add non-fat dry milk.

This is milk with fat and water removed and contains the important milk nutrients—protein, calcium, riboflavin and lactose. Your grocer has it in one-pound packages.

Shepherd Potatoes
(Makes 6 servings)

Six medium baking potatoes, washed and dried, 6 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, about ¼ teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons non-fat dry milk, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, ¼ cup hot water, about 1½ cups finely chopped leftover cooked meat.

Rub potatoes with fat. Bake in oven (450 Deg. F.) until done, about 50 to 60 minutes. Remove from oven. Cut a slice off the top of each potato. Scoop out potatoes, saving shells.

Mash potatoes. Beat in 5 tablespoons melted butter, salt and pepper. Gradually beat in non-fat dry milk; add onions, and then enough water to make smooth and fluffy.

Place ¼ cup meat in each shell; fill with mashed potatoes. Brush tops with remaining 1 tablespoon melted butter and sprinkle with paprika if desired. Place on baking sheet and bake in moderately hot oven (400 Deg. F.) until golden brown (about 20 minutes). Serve immediately.

It is easy to extend protein value of your meat sauce by adding non-fat dry milk. Serve it over fluffy potatoes with some non-fat dry milk added and you have a low cost main dish with high food value.

Savory Meat Sauce
(Makes 3 1/3 cups)

One pound ground lean beef, 2 cups cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, dash of celery salt, dash of garlic powder, 6 tablespoons non-fat dry milk, 6 tablespoons flour, ½ cup water, ¾ teaspoon Worcestehshire sauce, 2 tablespoons sugar, carmelized.

Add ground beef to cold water in deep saucepan. Add salt, pepper, celery salt and garlic powder. Stir over medium heat to remove lumps. Bring to boiling point and simmer 20 minutes, stirring often.

Meanwhile, combine non-fat dry milk and flour. Mix with the ½ cup water to make a smooth paste. Add Worcestershire sauce. Gradually add meat mixture to flour mixture.

Return to heat and cook, stirring constantly, about 10 minutes. Add carmelized sugar for color. Serve hot over hot fluffy potatoes.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Stewed prunes, shredded wheat, crisp bacon, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Savory meat sauce on noodles, cabbage and green pepper salad, seeded rolls, butter or fortified margarine, sliced oranges, tea, milk.

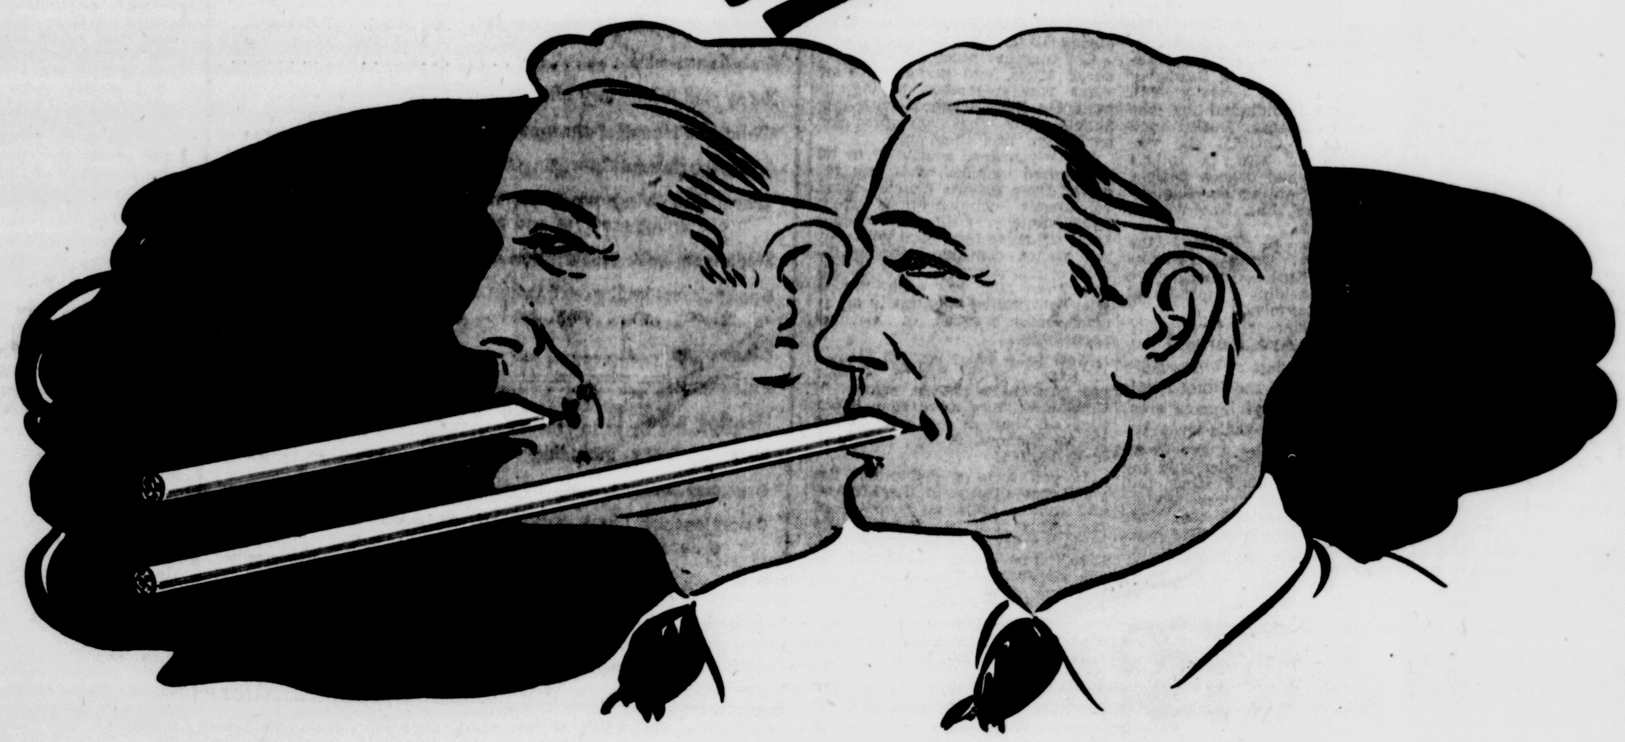
REGULAR - or Double KING SIZE!



Shown here are two cigarettes — one, the regular size, 2¾ inches long and another, 5¼ inches long, a double King Size, if there were such a cigarette! They illustrate the exact comparison in heating value of a cubic foot of old manufactured gas and a cubic foot of present Natural Gas . . . 537 heating units to the cubic foot for old manufactured as against 1030 heating units for Natural Gas.

Why compare cigarettes and gas? Simply to show graphically that in providing heat for the same job a cubic foot of Natural Gas is almost equal to two cubic feet of old manufactured gas. In other words, you're practically getting the equivalent of two smokes for one!

When Natural Gas was turned into the mains rates where changed. This resulted in somewhat lower charges for cooking and water heating and a substantial reduction for house heating, since this class of customer bore the brunt of the increase when gas rates were hiked in 1947 through 1949.

As a comparison of cost for the same service between old manufactured gas and new Natural Gas, these figures may help you get a better idea. Let's assume that this customer is one who first starts with cooking, then adds water heating, then adds house heating:

	OLD MANUFACTURED GAS		PRESENT NATURAL GAS
	Quantity of gas	Cost	Quantity of gas	Cost
Start with cooking	1,150 cubic feet	$ 2.60	600 cubic feet	$ 2.35
Add water heating	2,300 cubic feet	3.84	1,200 cubic feet	3.72
Add house heating	29,000 cubic feet	29.76	15,000 cubic feet	20.08

Sanford Lectures To Junior Married Club on First Aid

Deputy Chief Harold A. Sanford, of the Kingston Fire Department, stressed the merits and limitations of first aid when he addressed the Junior Married Women's Club Thursday evening at the Y.W.C.A.

Pointing out that first aid is merely the temporary care given before a physician arrives, he also emphasized "if you do not know what to do, do not do anything." Carelessness in the home, he continued, should and can be avoided although, paradoxically, more accidents occur in the home, and on the highways, than in any other sphere of civilian life. Home and highway accidents, he concluded, far outnumber those which occur in industry.

During the group's regular meeting, which preceeded Mr. Sanford's talk, plans for the Junior Married Women's card party, February 1, were announced by Mrs. Fred Port, general chairman. Reservations, she announced may be made by calling 1911, or 4395-W, while tickets may be purchased from any club member, or at the door. A dessert luncheon will be served before the card games begin, and players are requested to bring cards for the game of their choice.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

A Gentleman!

"Several times in the past," a reader explains, "you have repeated the list of attributes possessed by a great lady. I've memorized these but find some of them of a very high order of achievement. However, I keep trying. I'd like very much if you would give a corresponding list of attributes of a great gentleman."

The attributes that you refer to are Simplicity, Sincerity, Sensibility, Sympathy, Serenity, and these apply equally well to a great gentleman.

Table Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: I've clipped a picture for you to tell me about the correctness of the table manners shown. (1) The man has a napkin stuck in his collar and (2) is in the act of lifting a piece of meat to his mouth with the fork held in left hand, knife in right. Are both of these wrong or both right, or which?

Answer: Position of the napkin wrong, but position of fork and knife correct.

Not Rude to Omit Stranger

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is furious because some of my old boy friends sent me Christmas cards and didn't include him. None of these friends has yet met him, and I suppose they thought it natural to continue sending me a card for old times' sake. There is nothing new in their sending me cards.

Answer: The omission of your husband's name on cards sent to you by those who have not as yet met him can certainly not be considered an intended discourtesy.

Thanking a Boy

Dear Mrs. Post: I've just started going out with the boys, but only to the nearby movie and to dances at the church-house and places like that. Often we stop for a soda on the way home.. When I get home I never know what I'm supposed to say to the boy to thank him.

Answer: You say "Thank you, Ken, for a pleasant evening," or ". . . for asking me to the dance," or perhaps, "I enjoyed that movie very much. Thank you."

What reply should be made to an introduction? Should a gentleman rise and shake hands with everyone? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, details on introductions are included in leaflet E-17. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Margaret Gardner Wed in Saugerties To Howard Gaynor

The marriage of Mrs. Margaret Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garrey Sutton of 493 Wilbur avenue, to Rct. Howard Gaynor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Gaynor of 15 Elm street, Saugerties, was solemnized December 31 at 1:30 p. m. in St. Mary's Church, Saugerties. The Rev. Raymond A. Hyland, of that parish, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. Virginia Sutton of 493 Wilbur avenue, sister-in-law of the bride, and Herbert Sutton of the same address, brother of the bride.

Physiology Is Topic Of Sorosis Meeting

A paper, "The River of Life" prepared by Mrs. A. R. Atkins, and dealing with man's physiological discoveries about his own blood stream, was presented to members of Sorosis when the group met January 8 at the home of Mrs. G. W. Ross, 225 Tremper avenue.

Mrs. Atkin's paper, which presented a resume of her topic from ancient to modern times, explained that it wasn't until 1628 that Harvey discovered the circulation of blood through a living body. Almost 300 years later, Landsteiner in 1901, divided blood types into four main divisions.

Meanwhile, for centuries, she continued, man has attempted to find practical ways of transfusing blood from one individual, to another. From the crude, and often fatal results of our forefathers, modern medical science has finally evolved present modern methods, coupled with the Blood Banks of the past few years, which store blood and plasma against future time of need. Institutions, she concluded, like the city Red Cross chapter, as well as national and international branches of the organization, are always prepared to supply blood in time of emergency.

During the meeting Mrs. Boyd Williams, legislative chairman, discussed Washington and the 82nd Congress, while Mrs. William Ochs, program chairman, announced that at the group's next meeting, January 22, there will be a round table discussion, "Topics of the Day." Participating will be the Mmes. Boyd Williams, Deweese DeWitt, and Lorraine Wood. Mrs. Ross also reviewed "Affairs of State" by Louis Verneuil, a Broadway production she recently attended, starring Celeste Holm.

Sanford Lectures To Junior Married Club on First Aid

Deputy Chief Harold A. Sanford, of the Kingston Fire Department, stressed the merits and limitations of first aid when he addressed the Junior Married Women's Club Thursday evening at the Y.W.C.A.

Pointing out that first aid is merely the temporary care given before a physician arrives, he also emphasized "if you do not know what to do, do not do anything." Carelessness in the home, he continued, should and can be avoided although, paradoxically, more accidents occur in the home, and on the highways, than in any other sjhere of civilian life. Home and highway accidents, he concluded, far outnumber those which occur in industry.

During the group's regular meeting, which preceeded Mr. Sanford's talk, plans for the Junior Married Women's card party, February 1, were announced by Mrs. Fred Port, general chairman. Reservations, she announced may be made by calling 1911, or 4395-W, while tickets may be purchased from any club member, or at the door. A dessert luncheon will be served before the card games begin, and players are requested to bring cards for the game of their choice.

The following chairmen assisting Mrs. Port were also named: Mrs. Theodore Wood, arrangements; Mrs. Clifford Every, refreshments; Mrs. Henry Eighmey, kitchen; Mrs. Myron Hopper, setups; Mrs. Robert Anderson, miscellaneous; Mrs. Kenneth Powell, publicity; Mrs. Albert Gruner, tickets; Mrs. Peter Corsones, candy sales. Mrs. George Rifenbary will be hostess.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

A Gentleman!

"Several times in the past," a reader explains, "you have repeated the list of attributes possessed by a great lady. I've memorized these but find some of them of a very high order of achievement. However, I keep trying. I'd like very much if you would give a corresponding list of attributes of a great gentleman."

The attributes that you refer to are Simplicity, Sincerity, Sensibility, Sympathy, Serenity, and these apply equally well to a great gentleman.

Table Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: I've clipped a picture for you to tell me about the correctness of the table manners shown. (1) The man has a napkin stuck in his collar and (2) is in the act of lifting a piece of meat to his mouth with the fork held in left hand, knife in right. Are both of these wrong or both right, or which?

Answer: Position of the napkin wrong, but position of fork and knife correct.

Not Rude to Omit Stranger

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is furious because some of my old boy friends sent me Christmas cards and didn't include him. None of these friends has yet met him, and I suppose they thought it natural to continue sending me a card for old times' sake. There is nothing new in their sending me cards.

Answer: The omission of your husband's name on cards sent to you by those who have not as yet met him can certainly not be considered an intended discourtesy.

Thanking a Boy

Dear Mrs. Post: I've just started going out with the boys, but only to the nearby movie and to dances at the church-house and places like that. Often we stop for a soda on the way home.. When I get home I never know what I'm supposed to say to the boy to thank him.

Answer: You say "Thank you, Ken, for a pleasant evening," or ". . . for asking me to the dance," or perhaps, "I enjoyed that movie very much. Thank you."

What reply should be made to an introduction? Should a gentleman rise and shake hands with everyone? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, details on introductions are included in leaflet E-17. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Margaret Gardner Wed in Saugerties To Howard Gaynor

The marriage of Mrs. Margaret Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garrey Sutton of 493 Wilbur avenue, to Rct. Howard Gaynor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Gaynor of 15 Elm street, Saugerties, was solemnized December 31 at 1:30 p. m. in St. Mary's Church, Saugerties. The Rev. Raymond A. Hyland, of that parish, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. Virginia Sutton of 493 Wilbur avenue, sister-in-law of the bride, and Herbert Sutton of the same address, brother of the bride.

Physiology Is Topic Of Sorosis Meeting

A paper, "The River of Life" prepared by Mrs. A. R. Atkins, and dealing with man's physiological discoveries about his own blood stream, was presented to members of Sorosis when the group met January 8 at the home of Mrs. G. W. Ross, 225 Tremper avenue.

Mrs. Atkin's paper, which presented a resume of her topic from ancient to modern times, explained that it wasn't until 1628 that Harvey discovered the circulation of blood through a living body. Almost 300 years later, Landsteiner in 1901, divided blood types into four main divisions.

Meanwhile, for centuries, she continued, man has attempted to find practical ways of transfusing blood from one individual, to another. From the crude, and often fatal results of our forefathers, modern medical science has finally evolved present modern methods, coupled with the Blood Banks of the past few years, which store blood and plasma against future time of need. Institutions, she concluded, like the city Red Cross chapter, as well as national and international branches of the organization, are always prepared to supply blood in time of emergency.

During the meeting Mrs. Boyd Williams, legislative chairman, discussed Washington and the 82nd Congress, while Mrs. William Ochs, program chairman, announced that at the group's next meeting, January 22, there will be a round table discussion, "Topics of the Day." Participating will be the Mmes. Boyd Williams, Deweese DeWitt, and Lorraine Wood. Mrs. Ross also reviewed "Affairs of State" by Louis Verneuil, a Broadway production she recently attended, starring Celeste Holm.

Janice Cadden, an active member of the Coach House Players, proves a fetching ambassador as she convinces Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk that buying a membership in the newly organized theatre is a "must." Pipe Organ and Zither

By FRANK TRIPP

This is a confession of genius that has been concealed these many years. It is catastrophic that one with so eminent a musical background has spent most of his life with newspapers. That I am not a celebrity of the concert stage or conducting a symphony is just one of those tragic quirks of life that control the destinies of men.

The circumstances surrounding my early musical contact were unique. It seems high time that I cash in on them; which I hereby do in this unethical though mildly profitable, fashion.

True, I at one time was a minstrel; then impresario and once owned the Royal Comic Opera Company; sang roles on desperate occasions, my specialty being Giacomo, the second bandit in "Fra Diavolo."

True also, that I invaded the concert field and, without noticeable profit, promoted the debut of Clara Clemens, Mark Twain's daughter, before she became the wife of famed Conductor Ossip Gabrilowitsch, who upon that occasion was her accompanist.

These things musical are known to many but herein my really distinguished talents will become first known—that I not only played the zither but also once pumped the organ in the Methodist Church.

THE ZITHER entered our modest home through the salesmanship of a young man, about 60, who was working his way through college. My mother, who had charge of such matters, for very good reason became a pushover for the man who taught the zither in one lesson, pocketed the first payment and departed. The good reason mom bought the zither was to get me off of a slide trombone that a friend had loaned me; a friend of mine but not of the neighborhood.

You played the zither by shoving a sheet of paper with numbers on it under the wire strings. Then all you had to know was elementary arithmetic. Sufficient change of tempo could make "Old Black Joe" sound woefully like "Old Rugged Cross" but you always had the name of the piece printed on the paper to prove what you were playing.

Regretfully I returned the borrowed trombone and moved from the brass to the strings section. I toiled hard learning the zither, even worked up a terrific rendition of "Blue Danube," without arithmetic collaboration. I was studying to become first zither in the school guitar and mandolin club, only to learn that no provision had been made to admit the hundred or so suckers who had bought zithers on the convenient monthly payment plan.

IN SPITE OF this frustration, my pipe organ experience should have insured a musical future. The Methodist Church as yet had no electric motor to pump its organ, didn't even have electric lights. Breath of life was kept in the big and very excellent organ by a long hand lever which worked like a massive pump handle. The air gauge was to be kept to something like 30 pounds pressure but when Sister Fitch let loose on the big bass pipes it kept a husky lad busy to keep up to her. At other times pumping the organ was an easy, respectable and profitable way to attend church. The job paid two bits a Sunday.

I landed the job on two outstanding qualifications. The pumper's booth was remote from the auditorium and the air gauge alone didn't exactly insure a smooth Sunday morning service. One needed a considerable knowledge of music to be sure whether the choir was singing or Brother Parsons was suffering another acute attack of asthma. My other qualification was 165 pounds of muscle distributed over six lineal feet of teen-age framework.

This was quite a nice job. One could attend church with little sartorial preparation; even in flashy sweater and bicycle knickers. I got credit for attendance, though hidden from the congregation, and the collection plate never got back that far.

ALL WAS going lovely until I learned to smoke. Then, of a pleasant day, when the parson launched on his 50 minutes of exhortation I would climb out the window, saunter down the street and have a smoke for myself.

I was so engaged and in conversation with a girl friend one Sunday morning when Brother Symonds came running from the church, frantically waving his arms. There was great confusion. I rushed toward the pump handle but before I could climb through the window the big organ pealed forth the strains of an added hymn of which I had not been advised.

Another guy had my job that quick — and kept it. Brother Symonds reported that I not only was absent from my post but was smoking—and right within sight of the church. With that stigma hanging over me I sank lower and lower, even to the depths of a newspaper job.

Something seemed to happen every time I got nicely started on a musical career.

20 Coal Cars Off Track

Stonington, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Twenty cars in the center of an Erie Railroad freight train were wrecked early today and blocked main line tracks in both directions. Police and the railroad reported no one was injured. The 130-car freight train was en route from Port Jervis, N. Y., to Jersey City, N. J., when the 65th car broke loose and 19 others piled across the tracks behind it. Most of the wrecked cars were loaded with coal. The railroad's office in New York city said a broken axle was believed to be the cause. It estimated it would take most of the day to clear the tracks.

Excelsiors Again Elect Martin as Head of Company

William B. Martin, who has held office in Excelsior Hose Company for 44 years, was named president at the annual meeting Monday evening.

The meeting was attended by 76 members of the company and following the annual election Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and the fire commissioners unveiled pictures of two former Excelsior Hose Company members who in past years contributed very extensively to the success of the company. The pictures of Conrad J. Hull and Egbert Mullen have been hung in the company parlors in the engine house. Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who was delayed by attendance at another meeting, arrived shortly after the unveiling.

Other officers elected were: Henry Trice, Jr., vice president; James W. Cave, treasurer; Philip D. Jones, secretary; Fred P. Reis, captain; William Hoffman, first lieutenant; Elmer Harvey, second lieutenant; John McFadden, third lieutenant; Robert Millham, fourth lieutenant; the Rev. Stanley Dean, chaplain.

Trustees elected were Garry Wood, five years; Emil Nagele, four years; LeRoy Harvey, three years; Joseph Fallon, two years and John Donnelly, one year. Directors John Mayone, Sr., John Hull, Sam Hull, Sr., Wright Maines, George Dawson, Charles Reis, Stanley Setera, Alva DuBois, James Plunket, Anton Koditek and Wilbur Delanoy. Jersey Driver Held On Intoxication Charge

Robert Elmer Brooks of Closter, N. J., was arrested last evening on complaint of Richard Langdon of Newburgh, who told state police that the car operated by Brooks had forced the Langdon truck off route 9W causing it to strike a building.

Langdon reported he had given chase in a passing car and had overtaken Brooks near Malden. Langdon charged that Brooks left his car and was unable to walk. Brooks was placed under arrest on a charge of driving while intoxicated and was taken before Justice Glenford Myers and held in the county jail for a hearing later.

The Langdon truck was damaged but the driver escaped injury. Brooks later was admitted to bail pending a hearing.

Not Much Chance

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—Congressional leaders today foresaw almost sure defeat for nearly any out-and-out "Fair Deal" measures on which President Truman decides to push for action this year. They weren't saying so publicly, but in private they saw little chance for enactment of Mr. Trumans' pet domestic proposals. They gave the best chance to his request for federal training of doctors and nurses and government help to the schools. Mr. Truman himself, in his message to Congress yesterday, did not even mention his previous urgent demands for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Law, or his past endorsements of the so-called Brannan Farm Aid Plan. He did ask for "improvement of our labor laws" and "improvement of our agricultural laws to help obtain the kinds of farm products we need for the defense effort."

Pipe Organ and Zither

By FRANK TRIPP

This is a confession of genius that has been concealed these many years. It is catastrophic that one with so eminent a musical background has spent most of his life with newspapers. That I am not a celebrity of the concert stage or conducting a symphony is just one of those tragic quirks of life that control the destinies of men.

The circumstances surrounding my early musical contact were unique. It seems high time that I cash in on them; which I hereby do in this unethical though mildly profitable, fashion.

True, I at one time was a minstrel; then impresario and once owned the Royal Comic Opera Company; sang roles on desperate occasions, my specialty being Giacomo, the second bandit in "Fra Diavolo.

True also, that I invaded the concert field and, without noticeable profit, promoted the debut of Clara Clemens, Mark Twain's daughter, before she became the wife of famed Conductor Ossip Gabrilowitsch, who upon that occasion was her accompanist.

These things musical are known to many but herein my really distinguished talents will become first known—that I not only played the zither but also once pumped the organ in the Methodist Church.

THE ZITHER entered our modest home through the salesmanship of a young man, about 60, who was working his way through college. My mother, who had charge of such matters, for very good reason became a pushover for the man who taught the zither in one lesson, pocketed the first payment and departed. The good reason mom bought the zither was to get me off of a slide trombone that a friend had loaned me; a friend of mine but not of the neighborhood.

You played the zither by shoving a sheet of paper with numbers on it under the wire strings. Then all you had to know was elementary arithmetic. Sufficient change of tempo could make "Old Black Joe" sound woefully like "Old Rugged Cross" but you always had the name of the piece printed on the paper to prove what you were playing.

Regretfully I returned the borrowed trombone and moved from the brass to the strings section. I toiled hard learning the zither, even worked up a terrific rendition of "Blue Danube," without arithmetic collaboration. I was studying to become first zither in the school guitar and mandolin club, only to learn that no provision had been made to admit the hundred or so suckers who had bought zithers on the convenient monthly payment plan.

IN SPITE OF this frustration, my pipe organ experience should have insured a musical future. The Methodist Church as yet had no electric motor to pump its organ, didn't even have electric lights. Breath of life was kept in the big and very excellent organ by a long hand lever which worked like a massive pump handle. The air gauge was to be kept to something like 30 pounds pressure but when Sister Fitch let loose on the big bass pipes it kept a husky lad busy to keep up to her. At other times pumping the organ was an easy, respectable and profitable way to attend church. The job paid two bits a Sunday.

I landed the job on two outstanding qualifications. The pumper's booth was remote from the auditorium and the air gauge alone didn't exactly insure a smooth Sunday morning service. One needed a considerable knowledge of music to be sure whether the choir was singing or Brother Parsons was suffering another acute attack of asthma. My other qualification was 165 pounds of muscle distributed over six lineal feet of teen-age framework.

This was quite a nice job. One could attend church with little sartorial preparation; even in flashy sweater and bicycle knickers. I got credit for attendance, though hidden from the congregation, and the collection plate never got back that far.

ALL WAS going lovely until I learned to smoke. Then, of a pleasant day, when the parson launched on his 50 minutes of exhortation I would climb out the window, saunter down the street and have a smoke for myself.

I was so engaged and in conversation with a girl friend one Sunday morning when Brother Symonds came running from the church, frantically waving his arms. There was great confusion. I rushed toward the pump handle but before I could climb through the window the big organ pealed forth the strains of an added hymn of which I had not been advised.

Another guy had my job that quick — and kept it. Brother Symonds reported that I not only was absent from my post but was smoking—and right within sight of the church. With that stigma hanging over me I sank lower and lower, even to the depths of a newspaper job.

20 Coal Cars Off Track

Stonington, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Twenty cars in the center of an Erie Railroad freight train were wrecked early today and blocked main line tracks in both directions. Police and the railroad reported no one was injured. The 130-car freight train was en route from Port Jervis, N. Y., to Jersey City, N. J., when the 65th car broke loose and 19 others piled across the tracks behind it. Most of the wrecked cars were loaded with coal. The railroad's office in New York city said a broken axle was believed to be the cause. It estimated it would take most of the day to clear the tracks.

Excelsiors Again Elect Martin as Head of Company

Jersey Driver Held On Intoxication Charge

Robert Elmer Brooks of Closter, N. J., was arrested last evening on complaint of Richard Langdon of Newburgh, who told state police that the car operated by Brooks had forced the Langdon truck off route 9W causing it to strike a building.

Langdon reported he had given chase in a passing car and had overtaken Brooks near Malden. Langdon charged that Brooks left his car and was unable to walk. Brooks was placed under arrest on a charge of driving while intoxicated and was taken before Justice Glenford Myers and held in the county jail for a hearing later.

The Langdon truck was damaged but the driver escaped injury. Brooks later was admitted to bail pending a hearing.

Not Much Chance

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP)—Congressional leaders today foresaw almost sure defeat for nearly any out-and-out "Fair Deal" measures on which President Truman decides to push for action this year. They weren't saying so publicly, but in private they saw little chance for enactment of Mr. Trumans' pet domestic proposals. They gave the best chance to his request for federal training of doctors and nurses and government help to the schools. Mr. Truman himself, in his message to Congress yesterday, did not even mention his previous urgent demands for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Law, or his past endorsements of the so-called Brannan Farm Aid Plan. He did ask for "improvement of our labor laws" and "improvement of our agricultural laws to help obtain the kinds of farm products we need for the defense effort."

Recreations Announce Withdrawal From Orange-Sullivan League

Murphy Says Ref Problem Caused Local Decision

Game Getting Out of Officials' Hands

Kingston's Recreations are the first casualty in the 1950-51 Orange-Sullivan Basketball League setup.

Manager Andy Murphy made the announcement, following Kingston's 86-66 defeat at the hands of the Montgomery Legion, last night before 61 spectators at the municipal auditorium.

Murphy said the Recreations had reached their decision reluctantly and attributed the action to turmoil created when the Hudson Valley Approved Basketball Officials group withdrew their men from O-S League games.

Last night's action pointed up the impossibility of playing N.B.A. basketball without competent officials, Murphy pointed out.

In a statement issued this morning, the Recreation manager put the cards on the table and his action is likely to create repercussions around the O-S circuit. It might also lead to a reopening of the referee problem.

Game Becomes Risky

Said Murphy:

"From the middle of the second quarter on the game was not basketball, but football, with the game completely out of the officials' hands.

"Because of the present situation wherein licensed and approved officials are not allowed to referee O-S League games, under penalty of being suspended by the Board, I at this time, find it necessary to withdraw the Kingston team from the league permanently, or until such time as Board referees handle the games.

"I have notified the president, Robert Bartlett, of Walden, of our action," Murphy's statement continued, "and I am really sorry to have to do such a thing. Under the circumstances, it is very necessary, Our players receive no renumeration for their services and it is not fair to ask them to endanger their limbs in games handled by inexperienced personnel.

"N.B.A. (National Basketball Association) rules are very tough and Board referees are the only ones who should be in charge," Murphy concluded.

Murphy's withdrawal from the league climaxed a somewhat shocking night for the Recreations, who blew a 24-11 quarter lead and 35-29 halftime bulge, because of a third period blowup.

Dick Fitzgerald, Montgomery forward, who racked up 35 points, poured 29 through the hoop in the second half and personally led Montgomery's breakaway spurt in the third quarter when the Orange cagers ran up a 25-7 margin. The locals were outscored 51-28 after the recess.

Lafayette "Champ" Holstein got off to a fast start and wound up with 16 points. Rod Sagendorf pumped in 14.

Keresman's Klouters Forced to Go Without Soda Pop As Old Capital Rinkydinks Spring Major Pin Upset

It's just as well that Pete Keresman was in Albany last night.

He would have suffered indescribable mental anguish. And "the boys"— his Colonial powerhouse of the City League—would not have received their customary soda pop.

Picture, if you will, the Rinkydinks invading Yankee Stadium and knocking off Casey Stengel's Yankees. And you have a slight idea of the colossal upset that took place on alleys 3 and 4 last night at the Bowlodrome.

Keresman's Klouters—riding the crest of a five-game lead in the ancient tenpin wheel—were flattened three times running by the tried and tested trio of Johnny Ferraro, Richard Howard and John MacLellan and two "you got to stay under 158 average" rookies like Mannie "Once Over Lightly" Colao and Jack "158 average on the nose" Houghtaling.

What Price Average

Such incidentals as the fact that the Colonials boasted a 960-team average, while no team making replacements can exceed a 900-average ceiling had no bearing on the final outcome.

The Rinkydinks — pardon, Old Capitals—grabbed the first set 887-833, buried the old vets under an avalanche of strikes in the second—1022 to 927—and completed the sweep 851 to 833 in the third set. Shades of Jim Dandy!

The Old Capital hero—John MacLellan—leering from ear to ear under his carefully cultivated mustachio—set a blistering pace with 223-221-175-619. He stirred the two "better stay under 158" boys like Mannie Colao to a creditable 491 and towering Jack Houghtaling, who wraps his hamlike hands around the 16-pound pineapple like it were a ping-pong ball to a rousing 572—98 pins over the prescribed minimum of the handicap committee. Colao was terrific with a four-strike finish in the second set. Dick Howard managed 215-544 and Johnny Ferraro's "new grip" 38th in a series designed to prove nothing improves on perfection, accounted for 214-534.

Williams Survives

Through the vale of tears on the Colonial side, Ken Williams peered through the steaming fog and avoided puddles on the runway to shoot 203-567 and Lew Hymes anchored with 205-543.

Pretending he wasn't disturbed by MacLellan's stream of strikes and chatter, Charlies Manfro staggered to a 531.

It was a tough night for the Colonials and the soda pop industry. And don't be surprised if George Shivery comes up with a new Ford for the Rinkydinks. They can use them the next time they take the Colonials for a ride.

The scores:

Old Capitals	887	1022	851	2760

Tennis Clinics Start Tonight

The first of a series of free adult tennis clinics will be held at the state armory at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday night.

The public, particularly novice players, is invited. A supply of tennis racquets is available for those who did not have their own equipment.

Three instructors—Mr. and Mrs. Irving Wheatcroft and Ed Lacey — will lecture. Mr. Wheatcroft, county doubles champion with Joe Scott, will handle the novices; Lacey will be in charge of the intermediates and experts, while Mrs. Wheatcroft will instruct women players.

Oma Serious For Title Bout

Greenwod Lake, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Lee Oma's face dripped real honest-to-goodness sweat.

With practically no prodding, Oma explained this historic event. The reformed playboy was dead serious about winning the heavyweight title from Ezzard Charles Friday at Madison Square Garden. He's really working.

"Everybody comes up here has a different idea of how Charles is going to fight me," he said. "One says he'll knock you out in the tummy-tum. Another says he'll go for your chin. Some tell me he'll step on my feet. How do I know?"

"I never saw the guy, except on television. I'd have to be an octopus to fight him all the different ways they say."

"I got one way to fight, the way I always fight. Maybe I'll go a little faster at the start than usual. But I never worked harder for a fight, and you know I used to take some of them a little easy."

Training for Oma usually consisted of a shave and a haircut. Sometimes not that much. In the old days a purse was only "car and fun money" for Lee.

You had to admit he looked better than a 6 to 1 shot he seemed to be in as good shape as you can get at almost 35.

"Just give me another night like the night I knocked out Gus Lesnevich," he said, "and I'll surprise a lot of you."

Durham, N. C. (AP)—Scotty Wheaton, 1950 captain, and 1951 Captain-elect Mal Lindstrom of Duke University have been named to the Southern Conference all-star soccer team.

Mangrum's Great Rally Cops Los Angeles Open

Los Angeles, Jan. 9 (AP)—Henry Ransom, who claims hay fever is his worst enemy, may have found a second choice. It could be Lloyd Mangrum, who cost him the Los Angeles Open golf title.

Ransom, like Mangrum, is a Texan transplanted to a professional's job in Illinois. They tangled in a duel on the back nine of the $15,000 tournament yesterday and Mangrum won the prize by a stroke.

Mangrum came from five strokes back to card 280. The best Ransom could do, under terrific pressure, was 281. Sam Snead, last year's winner who played this tournament with a broken bone in his left hand, was third best at 285. Top money was $2,600. Ransom got $1,900 for second.

Garden Threatens Ban On N.B.A. Basketball

Irish Warns Rough Tactics Must Stop

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Basketball Association today had one less team and two new headaches — a threat to abolish the pro sport in Madison Square Garden and a court suit filed against the NBA by owners of a former club.

The Washington Capitols, tailenders in the league's Eastern division with a 10-24 record, will be disbanded after playing in Philadelphia tonight. That will leave 10 clubs in the circuit—five in the Eastern division and five in the Western section.

The first rhubarb broke out yesterday when Ned Irish, executive vice-president of New York's Madison Square Garden, threatened to bar pro basketball from the big arena if "atrocious tactics" do not stop. Irish put the finger on the Syracuse Nationals and also took a verbal poke at the Baltimore Bullets.

Syracuse Involved

Danny Biasone, president of the Syracuse club, branded Irish's remarks "pure malarkey." Maurice Podoloff, NBA president, said he had no official report on the matter but indicated that officials will keep close tabs on over-aggressive players.

The second rhubarb developed when, in Chicago, owners of the defunct Chicago Stags, who folded after last season because of financial problems, sued the NBA to get back their team franchise and players.

The suit, filed in circuit court by the Chicago Basketball Club, Inc., charged that owners of seven NBA teams and Podoloff "conspired" to disfranchise the Stags and take away the club's players. Damages of $150,000 were asked in the suit, which named owners of the following NBA clubs: Minneapolis, New York, Syracuse, Tri-Cities, Rochester, Fort Wayne and Philadelphia.

Charge Rough Tactics

In his blast at the Syracuse Nationals, Irish said:

"The kind of basketball they showed in last Saturday afternoon's game cannot be sold to the public. If this situation is not corrected there definitely will be no pro basketball in Madison Square Garden in future years."

Irisr referred to the rough, overtime game in which Syracuse beat New York, 87-85. It brought a free-for-all and 59 personal fouls.

Mosconi Leads

Philadelphia, Jan. 9 (AP)—Willie Mosconi held a 300-to-190-point lead over Irvin Crane, of Binghamton, N. Y., today in a 3,000-point challenge match for the world's billiard championship. The world's titlist from upper Darby, Pa., lost to Crane, 150 to 61 in 10 innings yesterday afternoon then overcame the 89-point deficit in a night match, 239-40, with an unfinished run of 130 in the 11th inning.

Stamford, Conn.—Chico Vejar, 123, Stamford, stopped Jo Jo Moore, Hempstead, N. Y. (2).

Recreations Announce Withdrawal From Orange-Sullivan League

Game Getting Out of Officials' Hands

Kingston's Recreations are the first casualty in the 1950-51 Orange-Sullivan Basketball League setup.

Manager Andy Murphy made the announcement, following Kingston's 86-66 defeat at the hands of the Montgomery Legion, last night before 61 spectators at the municipal auditorium.

Murphy said the Recreations had reached their decision reluctantly and attributed the action to turmoil created when the Hudson Valley Approved Basketball Officials group withdrew their men from O-S League games.

Last night's action pointed up the impossibility of playing N.B.A. basketball without competent officials, Murphy pointed out.

In a statement issued this morning, the Recreation manager put the cards on the table and his action is likely to create repercussions around the O-S circuit. It might also lead to a reopening of the referee problem.

Game Becomes Risky

Said Murphy:

"From the middle of the second quarter on the game was not basketball, but football, with the game completely out of the officials' hands.

"Because of the present situation wherein licensed and approved officials are not allowed to referee O-S League games, under penalty of being suspended by the Board, I at this time, find it necessary to withdraw the Kingston team from the league permanently, or until such time as Board referees handle the games.

"I have notified the president, Robert Bartlett, of Walden, of our action," Murphy's statement continued, "and I am really sorry to have to do such a thing. Under the circumstances, it is very necessary. Our players receive no renumeration for their services and it is not fair to ask them to endanger their limbs in games handled by inexperienced personnel.

"N.B.A. (National Basketball Association) rules are very tough and Board referees are the only ones who should be in charge," Murphy concluded.

Murphy's withdrawal from the league climaxed a somewhat shocking night for the Recreations, who blew a 24-11 quarter lead and 35-29 halftime bulge, because of a third period blowup.

Dick Fitzgerald, Montgomery forward, who racked up 35 points, poured 29 through the hoop in the second half and personally led Montgomery's breakaway spurt in the third quarter when the Orange cagers ran up a 25-7 margin. The locals were outscored 51-28 after the recess.

Lafayette "Champ" Holstein got off to a fast start and wound up with 16 points. Rod Sagendorf pumped in 14.

Keresman's Klouters Forced to Go Without Soda Pop As Old Capital Rinkydinks Spring Major Pin Upset

It's just as well that Pete Keresman was in Albany last night.

He would have suffered indescribable mental anguish. And "the boys"— his Colonial powerhouse of the City League—would not have received their customary soda pop.

Picture, if you will, the Rinkydinks invading Yankee Stadium and knocking off Casey Stengel's Yankees. And you have a slight idea of the colossal upset that took place on alleys 3 and 4 last night at the Bowlodrome.

Keresman's Klouters—riding the crest of a five-game lead in the ancient tenpin wheel—were flattened three times running by the tried and tested trio of Johnny Ferraro, Richard Howard and John MacLellan and two "you got to stay under 158 average" rookies like Mannie "Once Over Lightly" Colao and Jack "158 average on the nose" Houghtaling.

What Price Average

Such incidentals as the fact that the Colonials boasted a 960-team average, while no team making replacements can exceed a 900-average ceiling had no bearing on the final outcome.

The Rinkydinks — pardon, Old Capitals—grabbed the first set 887-833, buried the old vets under an avalanche of strikes in the second—1022 to 927—and completed the sweep 851 to 833 in the third set. Shades of Jim Dandy!

The Old Capital hero—John MacLellan—leering from ear to ear under his carefully cultivated mustachio—set a blistering pace with 223-221-175-619. He stirred the two "better stay under 158" boys like Mannie Colao to a creditable 491 and towering Jack Houghtaling, who wraps his hamlike hands around the 16-pound pineapple like it were a ping-pong ball to a rousing 572—98 pins over the prescribed minimum of the handicap committee. Colao was terrific with a four-strike finish in the second set. Dick Howard managed 215-544 and Johnny Ferraro's "new grip" 38th in a series designed to prove nothing improves on perfection, accounted for 214-534.

Williams Survives

Through the vale of tears on the Colonial side, Ken Williams peered through the steaming fog and avoided puddles on the runway to shoot 203-567 and Lew Hymes anchored with 205-543.

Pretending he wasn't disturbed by MacLellan's stream of strikes and chatter, Charlies Manfro staggered to a 531.

It was a tough night for the Colonials and the soda pop industry. And don't be surprised if George Shivery comes up with a new Ford for the Rinkydinks. They can use them the next time they take the Colonials for a ride.

Mangrum's Great Rally Cops Los Angeles Open

Los Angeles, Jan. 9 (AP)—Henry Ransom, who claims hay fever is his worst enemy, may have found a second choice. It could be Lloyd Mangrum, who cost him the Los Angeles Open golf title.

Ransom, like Mangrum, is a Texan transplanted to a professional's job in Illinois. They tangled in a duel on the back nine of the $15,000 tournament yesterday and Mangrum won the prize by a stroke.

Mangrum came from five strokes back to card 280. The best Ransom could do, under terrific pressure, was 281. Sam Snead, last year's winner who played this tournament with a broken bone in his left hand, was third best at 285. Top money was $2,600. Ransom got $1,900 for second.

Garden Threatens Ban On N.B.A. Basketball

Irish Warns Rough Tactics Must Stop

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Basketball Association today had one less team and two new headaches — a threat to abolish the pro sport in Madison Square Garden and a court suit filed against the NBA by owners of a former club.

The Washington Capitols, tailenders in the league's Eastern division with a 10-24 record, will be disbanded after playing in Philadelphia tonight. That will leave 10 clubs in the circuit—five in the Eastern division and five in the Western section.

The first rhubarb broke out yesterday when Ned Irish, executive vice-president of New York's Madison Square Garden, threatened to bar pro basketball from the big arena if "atrocious tactics" do not stop. Irish put the finger on the Syracuse Nationals and also took a verbal poke at the Baltimore Bullets.

Syracuse Involved

Danny Biasone, president of the Syracuse club, branded Irish's remarks "pure malarkey." Maurice Podoloff, NBA president, said he had no official report on the matter but indicated that officials will keep close tabs on over-aggressive players.

The second rhubarb developed when, in Chicago, owners of the defunct Chicago Stags, who folded after last season because of financial problems, sued the NBA to get back their team franchise and players.

The suit, filed in circuit court by the Chicago Basketball Club, Inc., charged that owners of seven NBA teams and Podoloff "conspired" to disfranchise the Stags and take away the club's players. Damages of $150,000 were asked in the suit, which named owners of the following NBA clubs: Minneapolis, New York, Syracuse, Tri-Cities, Rochester, Fort Wayne and Philadelphia.

Charge Rough Tactics

In his blast at the Syracuse Nationals, Irish said:

"The kind of basketball they showed in last Saturday afternoon's game cannot be sold to the public. If this situation is not corrected there definitely will be no pro basketball in Madison Square Garden in future years."

Irisr referred to the rough, overtime game in which Syracuse beat New York, 87-85. It brought a free-for-all and 59 personal fouls.

Mosconi Leads

Philadelphia, Jan. 9 (AP)—Willie Mosconi held a 300-to-190-point lead over Irvin Crane, of Binghamton, N. Y., today in a 3,000-point challenge match for the world's billiard championship. The world's titlist from upper Darby, Pa., lost to Crane, 150 to 61 in 10 innings yesterday afternoon then overcame the 89-point deficit in a night match, 239-40, with an unfinished run of 130 in the 11th inning.

Stamford, Conn.—Chico Vejar, 123, Stamford, stopped Jo Jo Moore, Hempstead, N. Y. (2).

Tennis Clinics Start Tonight

The first of a series of free adult tennis clinics will be held at the state armory at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday night.

The public, particularly novice players, is invited. A supply of tennis racquets is available for those who did not have their own equipment.

Three instructors—Mr. and Mrs. Irving Wheatcroft and Ed Lacey — will lecture. Mr. Wheatcroft, county doubles champion with Joe Scott, will handle the novices; Lacey will be in charge of the intermediates and experts, while Mrs. Wheatcroft will instruct women players.

Oma Serious For Title Bout

Greenwod Lake, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Lee Oma's face dripped real honest-to-goodness sweat.

With practically no prodding, Oma explained this historic event. The reformed playboy was dead serious about winning the heavyweight title from Ezzard Charles Friday at Madison Square Garden. He's really working.

"Everybody comes up here has a different idea of how Charles is going to fight me," he said. "One says he'll knock you out in the tummy-tum. Another says he'll go for your chin. Some tell me he'll step on my feet. How do I know?"

"I never saw the guy, except on television. I'd have to be an octopus to fight him all the different ways they say."

"I got one way to fight, the way I always fight. Maybe I'll go a little faster at the start than usual. But I never worked harder for a fight, and you know I used to take some of them a little easy."

Training for Oma usually consisted of a shave and a haircut. Sometimes not that much. In the old days a purse was only "car and fun money" for Lee.

You had to admit he looked better than a 6 to 1 shot he seemed to be in as good shape as you can get at almost 35.

"Just give me another night like the night I knocked out Gus Lesnevich," he said, "and I'll surprise a lot of you."

Durham, N. C. (AP)—Scotty Wheaton, 1950 captain, and 1951 Captain-elect Mal Lindstrom of Duke University have been named to the Southern Conference all-star soccer team.

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

If Sir Alfred Hitchcock, Britain's distinguished producer of whodunits, ever needs material for a sequel to "The Clock", he has merely to visit the municipal auditorium during a Kingston High School DUSO basketball game.

He would find Jim Tobin, veteran watchdog of the electric buzzer, a most unhappy and harassed man who risks his reputation and physical health for a few paltry bucks a game. Tobin has fortunately escaped being murdered in the last two home outings for the Maroon, but it is a matter of painful memory to him that he has been tongue-lashed into eternity at least a thousand times.

• A Clock with a Rep:

Tobin's "clock" acquired an ill-deserved reputation during that memorable brawl against Sam Kalloch's Belligerent Blues of Poughkeepsie High. You remember that "8-second overtime" incident. It was sheer poetic justice that the corpulent Kalloch should find himself embroiled in a rhubarb on the occasion of his return to the DUSO family after an absence of two decades. He has made a career of such "incidents."

That Tobin erred in permitting the clock to run beyond the allotted three minutes in the second overtime period of that classic battle, is not denied by this corner. The clock strayed a few seconds and the delinquency accentuated the indignities the fired-up Maroons had heaped on Kalloch's highly favored basketeers. And it was a most unfortunate incident that a Poughkeepsie player was fouled during those fatal eight seconds.

Tobin's was an honest error, but the officials took one glance at the electric scoreboard and promptly ended hostilities. It was a bitter pill for Kalloch to swallow—that one point loss—but when he tried to justify his violent squawks after the contest, he was treading on a phony premise. If Sam had been shortchanged eight seconds that would have been a different story. But it was obvious to everybody in the house—and it must have been to Sam, too—that the ball game had officially terminated long before his player was fouled.

Donning the mantle of persecution, Kalloch ranted and raved through the auditorium. He wound up threatening to toss Tommy McNelis, our assistant, out of the dressing room. This was a personal effrontery to a young man who has been friendly with Kalloch through the years. The young Ram was merely trying to find out if Sam planned an official protest.

That was the incident that earned for Tobin's clock the ill-starred reputation.

• Of Rhubarbs and Scorekeepers:

Along came Newburgh Free Academy last Friday night and more of the clock, along with other assorted trivia designed to keep spectators puzzled and working officials in a dither.

The visiting scorers are recognized as official according to DUSO League rules. The Goldback scorer happened to be a highly emotional young man, who lacked absolutely the maturity and detachment required to do a first class job of scorekeeping while the hitherto unconquered Goldbacks were being pushed around by the Maroons in the second and third quarters, the young man suffered mental torture that precluded any possibility of his following the contest with a clear, open mind.

We'll show you what we mean. The first rhubarb of the game occurred when he (the Newburgh-official scorer) failed to call for the buzzer to identify the culprit on a foul call. He permitted play to resume and continue for more than a minute before he called the referees to the press table to make inquiry. The officials were hot under the collar but finally agreed that it was No. so-and-so of Kingston.

Rhubarb No. 2 involved the technically vital question of the number of fouls on Dick Schultz, substitute Kingston center. During the point in dispute, the Newburgh scorer said Schultz had four personal fouls. Our book (unofficial, kept by Tom McNelis) showed three personals. Young Dick squawked but to no avail. Rather than precipitate a brawl at the press table, we kept our lips buttoned, but nobody will ever convince us that Dick Schultz had more than four fouls when he was ejected from the game.

Finally, Coach Lanky Masterson, Matt Chrystal and a flock of supporters descended on Tobin and unloaded their wrath on the K.H.S. guidance director. The clock was running after the plays had ended, they charged.

One N.F.A. supporter gave Tobin a verbal lashing such as we never heard in the municipal auditorium. And if that wasn't grasping for a phony alibi, then we never heard one.

• Why Kids on a Man's Job:

Does Mr. Tobin receive enough compensation to subject himself to that kind of abuse? Of course not. The most rewarding thing he could possibly do would be to bounce the clock off some crackpot's skull.

And, we think it's about time that the DUSO League insisted that persons other than emotionally unstable, hotheaded, fanatical young team rooters be entrusted with the sacred obligation of the official Scorebook.

U. S. Athletes Okayed For Pan-Am Junket

Chicago, Jan. 9 (AP)—The U. S. Olympic committee today had official Washington approval of participation in the Pan-American games at Buenos Aires, Feb. 25-March 8, but lack of money still was a stickler.

Avery Brundage, committee chairman, disclosed that Edward W. Barrett, U. S. Assistant Secretary of State, had written him to wish this country's proposed team of 125 athletes "the best of luck."

Brundage previously had visited Washington to see whether the international situation warranted suspension of U. S. plans to compete at Buenos Aires.

Slow on Whistle

Waitkus Puts It On

Philadelphia (AP)—Ed Waitkus, Philadelphia Phils' first sacker, has gained ten pounds since the close of the 1950 World Series. Waitkus was near death in the summer of 1949 after being shot by a deranged girl in Chicago.

Maroon Cagers Test New Middie Power

Kingston High, sharing a triple tie with Newburgh and Fallsburg for the DUSO Basketball League lead, risks its 4-1 record against the revived Middletown High School quintet, tonight at Middletown.

Off to a slow start, the Middies have won four out of their last five games, including a stunning 54-42 victory over Poughkeepsie in the Bridge City bandbox.

Coach G. Warren Kias is expected to start the same lineup that completely outclassed Newburgh between the first and last four minutes of Friday's thriller. That means Leroy Hooker will be operating with George Carpouzis, Moll Leonard, Pete Camp and Chil Caruso.

Other DUSO games: Ellenville at Monticello; Port Jervis at Poughkeepsie and Liberty at Beacon.

Bowling

Andy Krom and John Howard shot "500" triples in Scranton Lace circuit last night, with 522 and 501 respectively. Krom had top solo of 190 and Howard 193. E. Exstrand had 465 and E. Hinkley 202-455.

Apair of "600" series highlighted Independent League activities, Bruce Davis posting 180-226-200-606 and Eddie Marks 214-208-603. Near-misses included Ray Roux 235-210-596; and Jim Daniels 206-224-593. Also upper bracket were Bobby Jones 203-569; Tom Welch 553; Harry Jump 242-551; Knute Beichert 550; Harry Jump 551; R. Halbert 204-543; Harry Wilber 201-539; Ray DuBois 537 and Ed Trombley 530.

A strong finish with 233, after 188 and 179 enabled Herbie Sleight to pile up a 590 series in the City Minor League. The runnerup, Frank Pavlick, had 568. Bill Murray banged 200-554; Pete Tiano 548; Jim Pruden 545; Ralph Garafola 544; Harry Secreto 234-544; Jake Chichelsky 202-540; Ed Thomas 531 and Jack Blinder 222-530.

Of the three "500" triples rolled in the Women's Major League, Dot Rawding's 168-198-186-552 was the best. Rose Schatzel tossed 211-539 and Reta Frederick 506. Jo Smith with 485 and Charlotte Lapine with 480 rounded out the first five. Eleanor Singer and Sue Heins each had 475.

Meyer Basch edged Joe Singer for high triple honors in the Good Neighbor League—582 to 578—shooting 225-182-175 to Singer's 222-157-199. Sam Marcus hit for 549; Eddie Bahl 200-547; Murray Greene 203-546; B. Abelove 535; Danny Basch 534; Sheldon Levy 233-527; Aaron Bahl 526.

The New Paltz keglerette — Nellie Alverson continued to rack up good scores in the B.Y.A. League, her 183-171-152-506 leading yesterday's session at the Bowlodrome. Neil Glennon had 466 and Lillian Ferraro 406.

Pinfall was on the hefty side in the Tavern Association circuit with 28 triples of "500" or better. Vince Noble was top man with 205-180-191-576. W. Smith accounted for 212-570; Ed Cunningham 223-565; Don Riehl 564; Joe Berardi 203-560; Had DeGraff 549; A. Berry 548; Eddie Auclair 202-548; Ed Heins 223-546; George Kuriger 544; Floyd Crantek 204-544; Pres Knight and Tommy Ryan 543.

Vote Konstanty Athlete of Year

Phillies' Hurler Shades Janowicz

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Jim Konstanty, record-setting workhorse of the Philadelphia Phillies' pitching staff, was proclaimed 1950's male "athlete of the year" today in the annual Associated Press poll.

The mild-mannered onetime school teacher, whose tireless right arm carried the Phillies to the National League pennant, won in a close vote over Vic Janowicz, Ohio State's magnificent football halfback, and Ezzard Charles, heavyweight champion of the ring world.

There was a wide difference of opinion among sports writers and broadcasters, who mentioned close to 100 athletes in all, including the race horse, Noor, and Japan's human fish, Furuhashi.

Voters were asked to cast ballots for three in order of preference. Points were awarded on the basis of three for first and two for second, etc.

The bespectacled, 33-year-old Konstanty received 32 first place votes and a total of 173 points, 33 more than Janowicz, the bull-necked ball-toter who won All America and Heisman trophy honors.

Here are the year's outstanding male athletes, according to the AP poll, with total points based on three for first, two for second, etc., and first place votes in parenthesis:

1. Jim Konstanty, baseball (32) 173
2. Vic Janowicz, football (20) .. 140
3. Ezzard Charles, boxing (21) .. 133
4. Phil Rizzuto, baseball (26) .. 120
5. Ben Hogan, golf (26) 112
6. Sam Snead, golf (16) 98
7. George Mikan, basketball (11) 69
8. Bobby Reynolds, football (7) . 36
9. Babe Parilli, football (6) 33
10. Eddie Ford, baseball (4) 31

Boxing Inquiry Urged Again

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—An investigation of boxing in New York state was proposed to the Legislature today as an aftermath of the recent death of Al (Sonny Boy) West.

West, 21, died in a New York city hospital Dec. 21, the day after a bout in St. Nicholas arena with Percy Bassett of Philadelphia.

"The prize ring," Schupler said, "evidently has become a business similar to the bull ring where men instead of cattle are led to slaughter for the pleasure of the multitude."

Schupler proposed that the investigating committee report to the legislature by Jan. 15, 1952.

Sets Irish Record

Notre Dame, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's 1950 quarterback, Bobby Williams, threw 210 passes, the most ever thrown by an Irish back. He completed 99 tosses, for another record. His heaves were good for 1,035 yards and 10 touchdowns.

SEASONAL SWITCH — Big Jim Konstanty officiates college basketball games in the east during the off-season: The Phillies' Iron Man last season became the first relief pitcher to be named the most-valuable player in the major leagues.

Columbus—Ohio State University expelled halfback Richard (Skip) Doyle for low grades—second such dismissal for a Buckeye athlete in the past week. Doyle and All-America back Vic Janowicz applied for re-admission.

Bradley Braves First In Basketball Poll

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST By Hal Sharp

HUNTING BLACK BEAR

AS SLOW AS THIS CRITTER LOOKS, IT CAN EASILY OUTRUN ANY MAN! HE RELIES UPON HIS SENSE OF SMELL AND KEEN HEARING. UPON SCENTING A MAN, HE WILL USUALLY RUN THE OTHER WAY. HIS USUAL PACE, UNLESS DISTURBED, IS SLOW AND SILENT.

A BEAR SHOULD BE APPROACHED OR STALKED FROM UPHILL IF POSSIBLE. TWO GOOD REASONS ARE, ① IN MOUNTAINOUS BEAR COUNTRY, THE WIND OR BREEZE IS UPHILL USUALLY—② WOUNDED BEAR MOVES FASTER DOWNHILL!

Aggies and Kentucky Trail Peoria Five

The prides of Peoria, Ill., amassed a total of 2,320 points, the year's highest, to take a 509-point lead over Hank Iba's hold-the-ball Oklahoma Aggies.

Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for a second and on down the line.

After Bradley and Oklahoma A. and M. came Kentucky, Long Island University, St. Louis, Indiana and North Carolina State in that order

Columbia's surprising Lions, 85-45 victors over Cornell last Saturday, moved into the No. 8 spot as a new tenant, supplanting Villanova, which dropped to 16th. Villanova lost its first game to Fordham, 52-44.

Kansas State and once beaten Wyoming clung to the ninth and tenth positions, barely shading St. John's of Brooklyn and the University of Washington.

Bradley won two games since the last poll, beating Detroit, 69-65, and Drake 74-55, last night to increase its victory string to 15 games.

Won Last Year

Winner of the final A.P. poll last year, the Braves face perhaps their toughest game so far this year when they meet St. John's in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

The Oklahoma Aggies collected 20 first places votes and a total of 1,811 points. Also unbeaten in 13 games, they play Tulsa Thursday and Drake Saturday.

Third-place Kentucky, beaten only by St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl semi-finals, had a total of 1,754 points.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

If Sir Alfred Hitchcock, Britain's distinguished producer of whodunits, ever needs material for a sequel to "The Clock", he has merely to visit the municipal auditorium during a Kingston High School DUSO basketball game.

He would find Jim Tobin, veteran watchdog of the electric buzzer, a most unhappy and harassed man who risks his reputation and physical health for a few paltry bucks a game. Tobin has fortunately escaped being murdered in the last two home outings for the Maroon, but it is a matter of painful memory to him that he has been tongue-lashed into eternity at least a thousand times.

• A Clock with a Rep:

Tobin's "clock" acquired an ill-deserved reputation during that memorable brawl against Sam Kalloch's Belligerent Blues of Poughkeepsie High. You remember that "8-second overtime" incident. It was sheer poetic justice that the corpulent Kalloch should find himself embroiled in a rhubarb on the occasion of his return to the DUSO family after an absence of two decades. He has made a career of such "incidents."

That Tobin erred in permitting the clock to run beyond the allotted three minutes in the second overtime period of that classic battle, is not denied by this corner. The clock strayed a few seconds and the delinquency accentuated the indignities the fired-up Maroons had heaped on Kalloch's highly favored basketeers. And it was a most unfortunate incident that a Poughkeepsie player was fouled during those fatal eight seconds.

Tobin's was an honest error, but the officials took one glance at the electric scoreboard and promptly ended hostilities. It was a bitter pill for Kalloch to swallow—that one point loss—but when he tried to justify his violent squawks after the contest, he was treading on a phony premise. If Sam had been shortchanged eight seconds that would have been a different story. But it was obvious to everybody in the house—and it must have been to Sam, too—that the ball game had officially terminated long before his player was fouled.

Donning the mantle of persecution, Kalloch ranted and raved through the auditorium. He wound up threatening to toss Tommy McNelis, our assistant, out of the dressing room. This was a personal effrontery to a young man who has been friendly with Kalloch through the years. The young Ram was merely trying to find out if Sam planned an official protest.

That was the incident that earned for Tobin's clock the ill-starred reputation.

• Of Rhubarbs and Scorekeepers:

Along came Newburgh Free Academy last Friday night and more of the clock, along with other assorted trivia designed to keep spectators puzzled and working officials in a dither.

The visiting scorers are recognized as official according to DUSO League rules. The Goldback scorer happened to be a highly emotional young man, who lacked absolutely the maturity and detachment required to do a first class job of scorekeeping while the hitherto unconquered Goldbacks were being pushed around by the Maroons in the second and third quarters, the young man suffered mental torture that precluded any possibility of his following the contest with a clear, open mind.

We'll show you what we mean. The first rhubarb of the game occurred when he (the Newburgh-official scorer) failed to call for the buzzer to identify the culprit on a foul call. He permitted play to resume and continue for more than a minute before he called the referees to the press table to make inquiry. The officials were hot under the collar but finally agreed that it was No. so-and-so of Kingston.

Rhubarb No. 2 involved the technically vital question of the number of fouls on Dick Schultz, substitute Kingston center. During the point in dispute, the Newburgh scorer said Schultz had four personal fouls. Our book (unofficial, kept by Tom McNelis) showed three personals. Young Dick squawked but to no avail. Rather than precipitate a brawl at the press table, we kept our lips buttoned, but nobody will ever convince us that Dick Schultz had more than four fouls when he was ejected from the game.

Finally, Coach Lanky Masterson, Matt Chrystal and a flock of supporters descended on Tobin and unloaded their wrath on the K.H.S. guidance director. The clock was running after the plays had ended, they charged.

One N.F.A. supporter gave Tobin a verbal lashing such as we never heard in the municipal auditorium. And if that wasn't grasping for a phony alibi, then we never heard one.

• Why Kids on a Man's Job:

Does Mr. Tobin receive enough compensation to subject himself to that kind of abuse? Of course not. The most rewarding thing he could possibly do would be to bounce the clock off some crackpot's skull.

And, we think it's about time that the DUSO League insisted that persons other than emotionally unstable, hotheaded, fanatical young team rooters be entrusted with the sacred obligation of the official Scorebook.

U. S. Athletes Okayed For Pan-Am Junket

Chicago, Jan. 9 (AP)—The U. S. Olympic committee today had official Washington approval of participation in the Pan-American games at Buenos Aires, Feb. 25-March 8, but lack of money still was a stickler.

Avery Brundage, committee chairman, disclosed that Edward W. Barrett, U. S. Assistant Secretary of State, had written him to wish this country's proposed team of 125 athletes "the best of luck."

Brundage previously had visited Washington to see whether the international situation warranted suspension of U. S. plans to compete at Buenos Aires.

Slow on Whistle

Waitkus Puts It On

Philadelphia (AP)—Ed Waitkus, Philadelphia Phils' first sacker, has gained ten pounds since the close of the 1950 World Series. Waitkus was near death in the summer of 1949 after being shot by a deranged girl in Chicago.

Maroon Cagers Test New Middie Power

Kingston High, sharing a triple tie with Newburgh and Fallsburg for the DUSO Basketball League lead, risks its 4-1 record against the revived Middletown High School quintet, tonight at Middletown.

Off to a slow start, the Middies have won four out of their last five games, including a stunning 54-42 victory over Poughkeepsie in the Bridge City bandbox.

Coach G. Warren Kias is expected to start the same lineup that completely outclassed Newburgh between the first and last four minutes of Friday's thriller. That means Leroy Hooker will be operating with George Carpouzis, Moll Leonard, Pete Camp and Chil Caruso.

Other DUSO games: Ellenville at Monticello; Port Jervis at Poughkeepsie and Liberty at Beacon.

Bowling

Andy Krom and John Howard shot "500" triples in Scranton Lace circuit last night, with 522 and 501 respectively. Krom had top solo of 190 and Howard 193. E. Exstrand had 465 and E. Hinkley 202-455.

Apair of "600" series highlighted Independent League activities, Bruce Davis posting 180-226-200-606 and Eddie Marks 214-208-603. Near-misses included Ray Roux 235-210-596; and Jim Daniels 206-224-593. Also upper bracket were Bobby Jones 203-569; Tom Welch 553; Harry Jump 242-551; Knute Beichert 550; Harry Jump 551; R. Halbert 204-543; Harry Wilber 201-539; Ray DuBois 537 and Ed Trombley 530.

A strong finish with 233, after 188 and 179 enabled Herbie Sleight to pile up a 590 series in the City Minor League. The runnerup, Frank Pavlick, had 568. Bill Murray banged 200-554; Pete Tiano 548; Jim Pruden 545; Ralph Garafola 544; Harry Secreto 234-544; Jake Chichelsky 202-540; Ed Thomas 531 and Jack Blinder 222-530.

Of the three "500" triples rolled in the Women's Major League, Dot Rawding's 168-198-186-552 was the best. Rose Schatzel tossed 211-539 and Reta Frederick 506. Jo Smith with 485 and Charlotte Lapine with 480 rounded out the first five. Eleanor Singer and Sue Heins each had 475.

Meyer Basch edged Joe Singer for high triple honors in the Good Neighbor League—582 to 578—shooting 225-182-175 to Singer's 222-157-199. Sam Marcus hit for 549; Eddie Bahl 200-547; Murray Greene 203-546; B. Abelove 535; Danny Basch 534; Sheldon Levy 233-527; Aaron Bahl 526.

The New Paltz keglerette — Nellie Alverson continued to rack up good scores in the B.Y.A. League, her 183-171-152-506 leading yesterday's session at the Bowlodrome. Neil Glennon had 466 and Lillian Ferraro 406.

Pinfall was on the hefty side in the Tavern Association circuit with 28 triples of "500" or better. Vince Noble was top man with 205-180-191-576. W. Smith accounted for 212-570; Ed Cunningham 223-565; Don Riehl 564; Joe Berardi 203-560; Had DeGraff 549; A. Berry 548; Eddie Auclair 202-548; Ed Heins 223-546; George Kuriger 544; Floyd Crantek 204-544; Pres Knight and Tommy Ryan 543.

Columbus—Ohio State University expelled halfback Richard (Skip) Doyle for low grades—second such dismissal for a Buckeye athlete in the past week. Doyle and All-America back Vic Janowicz applied for re-admission.

SEASONAL SWITCH — Big Jim Konstanty officiates college basketball games in the east during the off-season: The Phillies' Iron Man last season became the first relief pitcher to be named the most-valuable player in the major leagues.

EVERYTHING IN THE NET BUT THE BALL—Look carefully and you'll see that the ball is over, not in, the net, after this attempt to score by a Tottenham Hotspur in an English League contest in London. The net did catch the player and a teammate, though. Tottenham shut out Arsenal, 1-0.

Vote Konstanty Athlete of Year

Phillies' Hurler Shades Janowicz

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Jim Konstanty, record-setting workhorse of the Philadelphia Phillies' pitching staff, was proclaimed 1950's male "athlete of the year" today in the annual Associated Press poll.

The mild-mannered onetime school teacher, whose tireless right arm carried the Phillies to the National League pennant, won in a close vote over Vic Janowicz, Ohio State's magnificent football halfback, and Ezzard Charles, heavyweight champion of the ring world.

There was a wide difference of opinion among sports writers and broadcasters, who mentioned close to 100 athletes in all, including the race horse, Noor, and Japan's human fish, Furuhashi.

Voters were asked to cast ballots for three in order of preference. Points were awarded on the basis of three for first and two for second, etc.

The bespectacled, 33-year-old Konstanty received 32 first place votes and a total of 173 points, 33 more than Janowicz, the bull-necked ball-toter who won All America and Heisman trophy honors.

Here are the year's outstanding male athletes, according to the AP poll, with total points based on three for first, two for second, etc., and first place votes in parenthesis:

1. Jim Konstanty, baseball (32) 173
2. Vic Janowicz, football (20) .. 140
3. Ezzard Charles, boxing (21) .. 133
4. Phil Rizzuto, baseball (26) .. 120
5. Ben Hogan, golf (26) 112
6. Sam Snead, golf (16) 98
7. George Mikan, basketball (11) 69
8. Bobby Reynolds, football (7) . 36
9. Babe Parilli, football (6) 33
10. Eddie Ford, baseball (4) 31

Boxing Inquiry Urged Again

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—An investigation of boxing in New York state was proposed to the Legislature today as an aftermath of the recent death of Al (Sonny Boy) West.

A resolution by Democratic Assemblyman Philip J. Schupler of Brooklyn urged an inquiry by a joint legislative committee of three senators and three assmblymen.

Schupler said West's death was "nothing but legalized homicide."

West, 21, died in a New York city hospital Dec. 21, the day after a bout in St. Nicholas arena with Percy Bassett of Philadelphia.

"The prize ring," Schupler said, "evidently has become a business similar to the bull ring where men instead of cattle are led to slaughter for the pleasure of the multitude."

Schupler proposed that the investigating committee report to the legislature by Jan. 15, 1952.

Similar proposals have been introduced in recent years but the legislature took no action.

Sets Irish Record

Notre Dame, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's 1950 quarterback, Bobby Williams, threw 210 passes, the most ever thrown by an Irish back. He completed 99 tosses, for another record. His heaves were good for 1,035 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Bradley Braves First In Basketball Poll

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST By Hal Sharp

HUNTING BLACK BEAR

AS SLOW AS THIS CRITTER LOOKS, IT CAN EASILY OUTRUN ANY MAN. HE RELIES UPON HIS SENSE OF SMELL AND KEEN HEARING. UPON SCENTING A MAN, HE WILL USUALLY RUN THE OTHER WAY. HIS USUAL PACE, UNLESS DISTURBED, IS SLOW AND SILENT.

A BEAR SHOULD BE APPROACHED OR STALKED FROM UPHILL IF POSSIBLE. TWO GOOD REASONS ARE, (1) IN MOUNTAINOUS BEAR COUNTRY, THE WIND OR BREEZE IS UPHILL USUALLY—(2) WOUNDED BEAR MOVES FASTER DOWNHILL!

Aggies and Kentucky Trail Peoria Five

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—Bradley University held firm to the No. 1 position in the national basketball standings today while Columbia created the only break in the first ten.

Bradley, riding the season's longest winning streak, drew 126 first place votes from the 252 sports writers and broadcasters participating in the weekly Associated Press poll.

The prides of Peoria, Ill., amassed a total of 2,320 points, the year's highest, to take a 509-point lead over Hank Iba's hold-the-ball Oklahoma Aggies.

Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for a second and on down the line.

After Bradley and Oklahoma A. and M. came Kentucky, Long Island University, St. Louis, Indiana and North Carolina State in that order

Columbia's surprising Lions, 83-45 victors over Cornell last Saturday, moved into the No. 8 spot as a new tenant, supplanting Villanova, which dropped to 16th. Villanova lost its first game to Fordham, 52-44.

Kansas State and once beaten Wyoming clung to the ninth and tenth positions, barely shading St. John's of Brooklyn and the University of Washington.

Bradley won two games since the last poll, beating Detroit, 69-65, and Drake 74-55, last night to increase its victory string to 15 games.

Won Last Year

Winner of the final A.P. poll last year, the Braves face perhaps their toughest game so far this year when they meet St. John's in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

The Oklahoma Aggies collected 20 first places votes and a total of 1,811 points. Also unbeaten in 13 games, they play Tulsa Thursday and Drake Saturday.

Third-place Kentucky, beaten only by St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl semi-finals, had a total of 1,754 points.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—Five measures amending the state's uniform county law went to Governor Dewey today—the first bills passed by the 1951 Legislature.

The bills restore provisions inadvertently omitted last year when a new uniform county law was enacted. The 1950 legislation made sweeping changes in the laws under which county governments operate.

Last summer, however, it was found that the re-codified law did not contain several needed sections of the former law. Five measures approved last night by the Senate and Assembly restored them.

The measure would set a minimum prison sentence of 10 years and a maximum sentence of 20 years for those convicted of selling "dope" to persons under 21 years of age. The present maximum is 10 years.

Another bill would set up a six-member state "consumer protection commission" to seek reductions in prices of goods and costs of services. It was introduced by Senator Seymour Halpern of Queens and Assemblyman Thomas H. Brown of Troy, both Republicans.

Assemblyman Philip J. Schupler, Brooklyn Democrat, submitted a bill to establish a statewide system of permanent personal registration for voting.

Heavy Wind Damage

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—The windstorm that swept 11 northeastern states last Nov. 25 will result in a loss to the capital stock fire insurance companies of more than $100,000,000, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported today. The capital stock companies write about 85 per cent of all fire and allied insurance. The fire companies expect that more than 500,000 individual claims will arise from the storm. This is more than five times the number of claims normally expected from the 11-state area in an entire year.

"Your Federal Income Tax" the guide to figuring your 1950 income tax is available at the Freeman offices.

National Emergency

"We've done it before, let's do it again"
The renewed slogan of all free men
For everyone in any occupation
You must prepare to aid your Nation.

Work for defense, you never must tire
Resume new duties with added fire
To secure the future, precautions you must take
New resolutions and sacrifices you must make

Peace is a goal worth fighting for
To greater efforts we must soar
"Be always prepared," do what you can
On any task, there must be no ban.

Put aside pleasures, that can wait
Until all dangers will abate
Time for work as well as play
Defense must be on your program today.

Stand by your country, her heart is warm
And always come through every storm
The world of tomorrow shines forth again
With the aid of every true American.

Connelly Named Red Cross Leader

Vincent G. Connelly, assistant district attorney in Ulster county since 1945, has accepted the post as chairman of the 1951 fund campaign of the Ulster Chapter, American Red Cross, succeeding A. B. Shufeldt who has served in that capacity for 10 years.

A graduate of Columbia Law School, Attorney Connelly was admitted to the New York State Bar in 1935, served with the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York for 10 years. In January 1945, he opened his own office and in 1946, his brother became associated with him as Connelly & Connelly, attorneys at law.

North Dakotan Asks Whereabouts of Woman

A Fargo, N. D., resident is seeking to contact Catherine Schilling Woodzieck, who might be living in Kingston or its vicinity.

In a card received by this newspaper, Mrs. Woodzieck is said to be a native of Albany, and resided at East Windsor Hill, Conn., at Hudson and at Haverstraw at various times.

The card states that contact with her is sought because of "very important property matters." If located, she is asked to write to J. Woodzieck at General Delivery, Post Office, Fargo, N. D.

The Kingston Police Department said today it had received no missing person report on a Mrs. Woodzieck, nor did the department know of anyone answering her description.

Believe He's Cook

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 9 (AP)—Men believed to be desperado Bill Cook have been sighted in five states as police traced down every possible clue today for the Missouri ex-convict. Authorities are checking reports that the 24-year-old badman sought for slaying possibly eight persons is in Texas, Oregon, Kansas, New Mexico and California. However, the F.B.I. here is frankly at a loss to explain how he has returned from Mexico, since border stations are being closely watched.

Approval Expressed

London, Jan. 9 (AP)—The free press of Europe today hailed President Truman's State of the Union speech as a morale builder for all nations resisting Red aggression. Reflecting the general approval expressed in the British press last night, newspapers in France, Belgium, Scandinavia and other nations under the Communist shadow said the speech would harden western Europe's will to defend itself.

Student Kills Self

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—A moody high school honor student spent two hours carefully writing suicide notes before he took his life yesterday, but his motive remained a mystery, police said. The body of 16-year-old Lynn Bogner was found in the kitchen of the 2½-room Brooklyn apartment he shared with his widowed mother and older brother. His head was shrouded in a shopping bag into which a hose brought gas from the stove.

Can't See Rationing Gas

Chicago, Jan. 9 (AP)—A federal defense petroleum administrator says he does not now foresee gasoline rationing. "I see no need for it in the present defense economy," Bruce K. Brown told a convention of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives yesterday. Brown is deputy administrator of the petroleum administration for defense. "The military forces use only about five per cent of our petroleum supplies and they can do a whole lot more mobilizing without really straining the petroleum supply," he said. Brown said also there is no prospect of rationing heating oil and kerosene.

Macy Lost by 135 Votes

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—The State Board of Canvassers today certified that Democrat Ernest Greenwood defeated Republican incumbent W. Kingsland Macy by 135 votes in the First Congressional District. The action cleared the way for the seating of Greenwood in the 82nd Congress. Macy, recipient of the controversial "Hanley Letter" in last fall's campaign, has asked the House not to permit Greenwood to take his seat. A House Campaign Expenditures Committee reported Jan. 3 that an investigation of the voting in the Long Island congressional district had not uncovered "any basis for questioning the accuracy" of the Greenwood-Macy vote tabulation, as reported by the Nassau and Suffolk County Boards of Election. The official canvass gave Greenwood a total of 74,183 Democratic votes and 2,192 Liberal Party votes, for a total of 76,375.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—Five measures amending the state's uniform county law went to Governor Dewey today—the first bills passed by the 1951 Legislature.

The bills restore provisions inadvertently omitted last year when a new uniform county law was enacted. The 1950 legislation made sweeping changes in the laws under which county governments operate.

Last summer, however, it was found that the re-codified law did not contain several needed sections of the former law. Five measures approved last night by the Senate and Assembly restored them.

One of the bills transfers financial control of county tuberculosis hospitals from the hospitals' boards of managers to the county boards of supervisors.

Senator Louis L. Friedman, Brooklyn Democrat, introduced a bill to curb what he called a "nefarious traffic" in narcotics to youngsters.

The measure would set a minimum prison sentence of 10 years and a maximum sentence of 20 years for those convicted of selling "dope" to persons under 21 years of age. The present maximum is 10 years.

Another bill would set up a six-member state "consumer protection commission" to seek reductions in prices of goods and costs of services. It was introduced by Senator Seymour Halpern of Queens and Assemblyman Thomas H. Brown of Troy, both Republicans.

Assemblyman Philip J. Schupler, Brooklyn Democrat, submitted a bill to establish a statewide system of permanent personal registration for voting.

Heavy Wind Damage

New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—The windstorm that swept 11 northeastern states last Nov. 25 will result in a loss to the capital stock fire insurance companies of more than $100,000,000, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported today. The capital stock companies write about 85 per cent of all fire and allied insurance. The fire companies expect that more than 500,000 individual claims will arise from the storm. This is more than five times the number of claims normally expected from the 11-state area in an entire year.

National Emergency

"We've done it before, let's do it again"
The renewed slogan of all free men
For everyone in any occupation
You must prepare to aid your Nation.

Work for defense, you never must tire
Resume new duties with added fire
To secure the future, precautions you must take
New resolutions and sacrifices you must make

Peace is a goal worth fighting for
To greater efforts we must soar
"Be always prepared," do what you can
On any task, there must be no ban.

Put aside pleasures, that can wait
Until all dangers will abate
Time for work as well as play
Defense must be on your program today.

Stand by your country, her heart is warm
And always come through every storm
The world of tomorrow shines forth again
With the aid of every true American.

North Dakotan Asks Whereabouts of Woman

A Fargo, N. D., resident is seeking to contact Catherine Schilling Woodzieck, who might be living in Kingston or its vicinity.

In a card received by this newspaper, Mrs. Woodzieck is said to be a native of Albany, and resided at East Windsor Hill, Conn., at Hudson and at Haverstraw at various times.

The card states that contact with her is sought because of "very important property matters." If located, she is asked to write to J. Woodzieck at General Delivery, Post Office, Fargo, N. D.

The Kingston Police Department said today it had received no missing person report on a Mrs. Woodzieck, nor did the department know of anyone answering her description.

Believe He's Cook

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 9 (AP)—Men believed to be desperado Bill Cook have been sighted in five states as police traced down every possible clue today for the Missouri ex-convict. Authorities are checking reports that the 24-year-old badman sought for slaying possibly eight persons is in Texas, Oregon, Kansas, New Mexico and California. However, the F.B.I. here is frankly at a loss to explain how he has returned from Mexico, since border stations are being closely watched.

Can't See Rationing Gas

Chicago, Jan. 9 (AP)—A federal defense petroleum administrator says he does not now foresee gasoline rationing. "I see no need for it in the present defense economy," Bruce K. Brown told a convention of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives yesterday. Brown is deputy administrator of the petroleum administration for defense. "The military forces use only about five per cent of our petroleum supplies and they can do a whole lot more mobilizing without really straining the petroleum supply," he said. Brown said also there is no prospect of rationing heating oil and kerosene.

Would Give Warning

Hong Kong, Jan. 9 (AP)—The U. S. consulate general said today it would warn all American citizens in this British crown colony tomorrow to evacuate their dependents because of "deterioration of the situation in the Far East." Consul General Walter P. McConaughy told correspondents at a special news conference that the warning is "more or less precautionary" and that no actual emergency is seen in the offing. The crown colony borders on Red China.

Macy Lost by 135 Votes

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—The State Board of Canvassers today certified that Democrat Ernest Greenwood defeated Republican incumbent W. Kingsland Macy by 135 votes in the First Congressional District. The action cleared the way for the seating of Greenwood in the 82nd Congress. Macy, recipient of the controversial "Hanley Letter" in last fall's campaign, has asked the House not to permit Greenwood to take his seat. A House Campaign Expenditures Committee reported Jan. 3 that an investigation of the voting in the Long Island congressional district had not uncovered "any basis for questioning the accuracy" of the Greenwood-Macy vote tabulation, as reported by the Nassau and Suffolk County Boards of Election. The official canvass gave Greenwood a total of 74,183 Democratic votes and 2,192 Liberal Party votes, for a total of 76,375.

March of Dimes Group Meets

Full Aid Sought For Polio Drive

Citing the 33,000 average cases of polio during the last three year period and issuing a solemn warning that there is no indication of any letup in the disease rate for 1951, Ernest M. Frost, Albany, state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, called for all-out support of this year's March of Dimes program in Ulster county during the annual pre-campaign dinner Monday night at Judie's.

Frost's inspiring talk was given before about 45 county chapter chairmen and workers prior to the annual drive which begins next Monday, January 15, and concludes with the annual President's Ball Tuesday night, January 30, at the Barn.

County Quota $24,000

Ulster county's quota for 1951 is $24,000, Mrs. William E. Powers, county chairman, disclosed last night. The national quota is $50,000,000.

Stressing the point that the National Foundation is already $5,000,000 in debt before the new fund drive opens, Frost urged all workers to surpass their previous work in making this "the greatest campaign on record." "We can't rest on past laurels," he said. "We're at the crossroads of the National Foundation and if this organization's work is to continue for polio victims, the 1951 quota must be reached and possibly surpassed."

Frost listed the three-point program of the National Foundation as the following:

He said the program is dedicated to take care of patients, continue the never-ending research and continuing experiments to develop vaccine which will some day strike out all forms of polio.

Polio 12-Month Fight

He also gave three vital discoveries in line with the program saying findings have been reached enabling officials to isolate and identify the polio virus, by growing polio virus in test tubes and the development of a vaccine which is now being used on monkeys. He said the next step, a difficult one, would have the vaccine work on human beings.

The state speaker, warning that polio must now be considered a 12-month fight, said he or other authorities were unable to comprehend how long these annual campaigns will be necessary.

However, he added, "I'm confident that when historians write about the 20th Century they will note that polio was conquered during that particular century."

Frost presented polio figures to support his request that 1951 top all other previous campaigns.

He said there were 28,000 cases in 1948, 42,334 in 1949 and after a slow mid-year start in 1950 a total of 33,000 cases were reported. He added in September of 1950 alone there were 1,000 cases in New York state.

Hits All Ages

Concluding his talk, Frost said polio, according to the record, has hit all ages. He said the youngest case on record was a three-months old child and the oldest a 79-year-old person.

"And don't believe that polio does not strike twice," he said. Explaining this, Frost stated a 12-year-old boy in 1949 lost the use of both arms and in 1950 same youngster lost the use of both legs.

Jones is Director

Addison Jones, campaign director for the county and Mrs. Powers, in addition to various other speakers, stressed the vital importance of teamwork in this year's campaign.

Mrs. Powers, who opened the meeting, said the local treasury was depleted due to 1950 polio cases and the subsequent costs for care and equipment. She said more money is needed now than ever before because "expense for the care of polio patients goes on even after the acute stage."

It also was brought out at the meeting that Ulster county was the first in the state to report a polio victim for 1951. This case was reported at 6 p. m. on January 1 at a local hospital.

Also speaking briefly were the following chairmen:

Raymond A. McAndrew, city; Francis J. O'Neill, ball; and Irwin J. Thomas, publicity.

Others serving as chairmen with Jones this year are Mrs. William A. Kelly, radio; Robert W. Case, theatres; Stephen Hyatt, schools.

Other guests introduced were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, honorary chairman; Tuthill McDowell, first vice-chairman of the executive board member and chairman of Wawarsing; William Joyce, executive board; District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, representing men's bowling teams; Robert B. Peebles, Dick McCarthy and Ed Eckert, WKNY; Kenneth Stratton, Kingston Police Department; Mrs. Chrissie Wilson, representing women's bowling teams; Edward Hartney, executive board member and Harold Wilkins, second vice-chairman of the executive board.

William A. Kelly, 1950 campaign director, praised the selection of Addison Jones as the 1951 leader and expressed the assurance that this year's drive would be handled in an efficient manner.

First Donation Listed

A $25 check given by Herman G. Rafalowsky, president of Ahavath Israel, was the first donation received by this year's committee for the March of Dimes. Rafalowsky also spoke regarding the campaign plans.

Dr. Robert Broad, health commissioner of Ulster county; Addison Jones, Tuthill McDowell, Harold Wilkins, Mrs. Raymond Morris, Raymond McAndrew, William A. Kelly, H. Victor Greene, Mrs. Donald Swan, Richard Kalish, Raymond Garraghan, treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Wilkinson, Myron J. Wells, Frank Clum, William Joyce, Ralph Gracia, Francis J. O'Neill and Edward Hartney.

PortEwenFiremen Ask Residents to Get Extinguishers

The Port Ewen Fire Department this week began a campaign to equip every home in that village with carbon dioxide fire extinguishers.

The department points out that the present national emergency is likely to reduce the village's fire-fighting force, as younger firemen may be called into the armed forces.

Letters are being sent to every home owner in the village, with descriptive literature showing the types of extinguishers that are available. The letters will be followed by a house to house canvass by members of the department, who will have samples to demonstrate.

A display of extinguishers will be set up in the window of the town auditorium, and another in the window of Jump's Market. The department will maintain a refilling service at the firehouse so that extinguishers can be recharged.

Six models are available. One is a novel alarm type that shrieks a warning when exposed to temperatures of 135 degrees or more. Another, designed for use in automobiles, not only puts out fires, but can be connected to the tire valve and be used to inflate tires in an emergency, the department said.

Carbon dioxide (CO_2) extinguishers were chosen by the department as the best for all types of fires. It has an excellent rating by the National Fire Protection Association because it can extinguish electrical, wood surface, gasoline, kerosene, paint, alcohol, turpentine, grease and paraffin fires. It is said to be safe, clean, non-staining, tasteless, odorless and non-toxic.

Nurses Requested To Apply Direct for Service in Army

Civilian and reserve nurses volunteering for duty with the army, in response to the army's great need for them to fill quotas to keep pace with expanding forces, are requested to secure applications directly from First Army Headquarters, rather than applying to the surgeon general in Washington.

Nurses should write or phone the Surgeon's Section, First Army Headquarters, Governors Island, New York, Whitehall 4-7700, Extension 194, to secure applications and to find answers to inquiries on eligibility and status.

A SHOT WITH A PUNCH—A North Korean army major crumples to the ground after being shot by a tough American sergeant. The dramatic action took place not in Korea, but in Hollywood. A new film, "The Steel Helmet," marks a milestone in movie history because, for the first time, it shows the murder of a prisoner of war by an American G.I. The sergeant, portrayed by Gene Evans, pays for his crime by cracking up mentally. The Korean officer is played by Harold Fong.

Dewey Plans . . .

'Not To Unhappy Necessity'

"We should not contemplate leaving ourselves to this drastic and unhappy necessity.

"Control should remain so long as possible in civilian hands, at least as relates to civilian affairs, and only by spelling out in advance the things which would have to be done and the powers and duties of your state government, could martial law be avoided in the terrible event of such destruction of life and property (by atomic attack)."

Dewey said the bill avoided "an over-concentration of power" by granting emergency authority not only to the governor and the defense council but also to the Civil Defense Commission and other State Departments and agencies.

"Broad powers and duties are conferred upon local governments," he said, "and it is hoped that they will meet their obligations fully and patriotically."

'There Must be Power'

There must be power to remove local officials who fail to perform those obligations "and install others who will," he said.

Dewey, meanwhile, called Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore to confer with mayors and local officials to explain the proposals in detail.

Moore, as state comptroller for eight years, has been the administration's trouble-shooter in state-municipal relations.

On the manpower conscription provisions of the bill, Dewey said he favored the organization of civil defense "on a voluntary basis," but added:

"Volunteering for civil defense work has lagged gravely, partially, I believe, because of lack of stimulating local leadership. . . .

"Should an emergency arise and volunteer services still be unavailable, there must be power to require this extra service of our people in addition to their normal occupations."

Dewey reiterated that he hoped it never would be necessary to use "the most drastic powers, involving the seizure of private property, conservation of banks and insurance companies and conscription for civil defense."

Touches Off Exchange

Democratic Senator Fred G. Moritt of Brooklyn touched off a sharp exchange in the Senate last night. He shouted "dictator" and said the bill was "the most unwarranted usurpation of power that anybody could propose."

Moritt was challenged by some Democrats and G.O.P. senators.

Democratic Leader Elmer J. Quinn said discussion of the 64-page bill was premature until members had read it. Referring to Moritt's blast, Quinn told the House:

"If everything in the bill is as drastic as he exclaimed, I will make one recommendation and that is to strike out the enacting clause (to kill the measure). I'm sure the senator from the 34th (Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks) would agree with me."

Wicks Replies

"All the ghosts he created are taken care of in the bill. If it went as far as he thinks it does, I assure you no such bill would pass the Senate."

Senator Pliny W. Williamson, Westcheser Republican who has had differences with Dewey, said the measure represented a "warning" to prepare for an eventuality.

He added:

"It ill-behooves us to cast any doubt on the motives of the chief executive of this state who has in mind simply the protection of its citizens."

Senator Harry Gittleson, Brooklyn Democrat, said the bill was revolutionary in concept and "creates a 'benevolent dictatorship'." It "confers much-too-much authority upon one person, however well-intentioned he might be," Gittleson told a reporter.

Assemblyman Orlo M. Brees, a frequent Republican critic of Dewey in past years, said he had not read the bill, but declared:

"I think the governor is right that a great many people do not realize the seriousness of the situation."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Precision Defense Marks the Expert

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One of the marks of the great experts is the ability to defend a hand with imagination and precision. The hand shown today illustrates those qualities admirably and shows why the whole world of bridge regards Howard Schenken as one of the all-time bridge greats.

After crshing the ace of hearts, Schenken decided that the contract could be set only if his side could get a diamond trick in addition to the heart and the two trumps he could confidently expect to win. He could win a diamond trick if his partner had the queen or if he could prevent declarer from getting enough discards on dummy's long clubs.

At the second trick, therefore, Schenken led the king of diamonds. Dummy won with the ace of diamonds, and declarer hopefully cashed the ace and king of spades, continuing with a low spade.

After winning the first of his two trump tricks, Schenken stopped for an additional moment of thought. It would be useless to cash his second trump trick, for then dummy's clubs would give declarer all the discards he needed.

It was useless to lead another diamond, since East had played the deuce on the first round of that suit, thus indicating that he did not hold the queen. If Schenken led diamonds again, declarer would get a free finesse.

Schenken found a way out of his difficulties by leading his singleton club. Now declarer couldn't get to his hand to draw the last trump. If he continued clubs, Schenken would carefully wait until the third round of clubs before he ruffed. Then he could exit safely with a heart, and South, unable to reach the dummy any more, would have to lose a diamond trick.

Declarer saw that his only chance was to take a diamond finesse in the hope that East held the jack of diamonds. It was a good try, but of course it lost, and the contract was defeated.

March of Dimes Group Meets

Addison Jones, left, campaign director for the 1951 Ulster County Chapter of the March of Dimes, meets with other campaign workers during the annual pre-campaign dinner Monday night at Judie's. Newkirk, honorary chairman; Francis J. O'Neill, ball committee chairman; Tuthill McDowell, executive board member and chairman of Wawarsing drive; and Raymond A. Full Aid Sought For Polio Drive

Citing the 33,000 average cases of polio during the last three year period and issuing a solemn warning that there is no indication of any letup in the disease rate for 1951, Ernest M. Frost, Albany, state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, called for all-out support of this year's March of Dimes program in Ulster county during the annual pre-campaign dinner Monday night at Judie's.

Frost's inspiring talk was given before about 45 county chapter chairmen and workers prior to the annual drive which begins next Monday, January 15, and concludes with the annual President's Ball Tuesday night, January 30, at the Barn.

County Quota $24,000

Ulster county's quota for 1951 is $24,000, Mrs. William E. Powers, county chairman, disclosed last night. The national quota is $50,000,000.

Stressing the point that the National Foundation is already $5,000,000 in debt before the new fund drive opens, Frost urged all workers to surpass their previous work in making this "the greatest campaign on record." "We can't rest on past laurels," he said. "We're at the crossroads of the National Foundation and if this organization's work is to continue for polio victims, the 1951 quota must be reached and possibly surpassed."

Frost listed the three-point program of the National Foundation as the following:

He said the program is dedicated to take care of patients, continue the never-ending research and continuing experiments to develop vaccine which will some day strike out all forms of polio.

Polio 12-Month Fight

He also gave three vital discoveries in line with the program saying findings have been reached enabling officials to isolate and identify the polio virus, by growing polio virus in test tubes and the development of a vaccine which is now being used on monkeys. He said the next step, a difficult one, would have the vaccine work on human beings.

The state speaker, warning that polio must now be considered a 12-month fight, said he or other authorities were unable to comprehend how long these annual campaigns will be necessary.

However, he added, "I'm confident that when historians write about the 20th Century they will note that polio was conquered during that particular century."

Frost presented polio figures to support his request that 1951 top all other previous campaigns.

He said there were 28,000 cases in 1948, 42,334 in 1949 and after a slow mid-year start in 1950 a total of 33,000 cases were reported. He added in September of 1950 alone there were 1,000 cases in New York state.

Hits All Ages

Concluding his talk, Frost said polio, according to the record, has hit all ages. He said the youngest case on record was a three-months old child and the oldest a 79-year-old person.

"And don't believe that polio does not strike twice," he said. Explaining this, Frost stated a 12-year-old boy in 1949 lost the use of both arms and in 1950 same youngster lost the use of both legs.

Jones is Director

Addison Jones, campaign director for the county and Mrs. Powers, in addition to various other speakers, stressed the vital importance of teamwork in this year's campaign.

Mrs. Powers, who opened the meeting, said the local treasury was depleted due to 1950 polio cases and the subsequent costs for care and equipment. She said more money is needed now than ever before because "expense for the care of polio patients goes on even after the acute stage."

It also was brought out at the meeting that Ulster county was the first in the state to report a polio victim for 1951. This case was reported at 6 p. m. on January 1 at a local hospital.

Also speaking briefly were the following chairmen:

Raymond A. McAndrew, city; Francis J. O'Neill, ball; and Irwin J. Thomas, publicity.

Others serving as chairmen with Jones this year are Mrs. William A. Kelly, radio; Robert W. Case, theatres; Stephen Hyatt, schools.

Other guests introduced were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, honorary chairman; Tuthill McDowell, first vice-chairman of the executive board member and chairman of Wawarsing; William Joyce, executive board; District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, representing men's bowling teams; Robert B. Peebles, Dick McCarthy and Ed Eckert, WKNY; Kenneth Stratton, Kingston Police Department; Mrs. Chrissie Wilson, representing women's bowling teams; Edward Hartney, executive board member and Harold Wilkins, second vice-chairman of the executive board.

William A. Kelly, 1950 campaign director, praised the selection of Addison Jones as the 1951 leader and expressed the assurance that this year's drive would be handled in an efficient manner.

First Donation Listed

A $25 check given by Herman G. Rafalowsky, president of Ahavath Israel, was the first donation received by this year's committee for the March of Dimes. Rafalowsky also spoke regarding the campaign plans.

Various township chairmen also spoke briefly.

Dr. Robert Broad, health commissioner of Ulster county; Addison Jones, Tuthill McDowell, Harold Wilkins, Mrs. Raymond Morris, Raymond McAndrew, William A. Kelly, H. Victor Greene, Mrs. Donald Swan, Richard Kalish, Raymond Garraghan, treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Wilkinson, Myron J. Wells, Frank Clum, William Joyce, Ralph Gracia, Francis J. O'Neill and Edward Hartney.

PortEwenFiremen Ask Residents to Get Extinguishers

The Port Ewen Fire Department this week began a campaign to equip every home in that village with carbon dioxide fire extinguishers.

The department points out that the present national emergency is likely to reduce the village's fire-fighting force, as younger firemen may be called into the armed forces.

Letters are being sent to every home owner in the village, with descriptive literature showing the types of extinguishers that are available. The letters will be followed by a house to house canvass by members of the department, who will have samples to demonstrate.

A display of extinguishers will be set up in the window of the town auditorium, and another in the window of Jump's Market. The department will maintain a refilling service at the firehouse so that extinguishers can be recharged.

Six models are available. One is a novel alarm type that shrieks a warning when exposed to temperatures of 135 degrees or more. Another, designed for use in automobiles, not only puts out fires, but can be connected to the tire valve and be used to inflate tires in an emergency, the department said.

Carbon dioxide (CO_2) extinguishers were chosen by the department as the best for all types of fires. It has an excellent rating by the National Fire Protection Association because it can extinguish electrical, wood surface, gasoline, kerosene, paint, alcohol, turpentine, grease and paraffin fires. It is said to be safe, clean, non-staining, tasteless, odorless and non-toxic.

Nurses Requested To Apply Direct for Service in Army

Civilian and reserve nurses volunteering for duty with the army, in response to the army's great need for them to fill quotas to keep pace with expanding forces, are requested to secure applications directly from First Army Headquarters, rather than applying to the surgeon general in Washington.

Nurses should write or phone the Surgeon's Section, First Army Headquarters, Governors Island, New York, Whitehall 4-7700, Extension 194, to secure applications and to find answers to inquiries on eligibility and status.

Germless

Soap will not transmit germs. Experiments with soap taken from various places, such as hotels, kitchens, machine shops, etc., have been made and in no instance was a single organism found.

A SHOT WITH A PUNCH—A North Korean army major crumples to the ground after being shot by a tough American sergeant. The dramatic action took place not in Korea, but in Hollywood. A new film, "The Steel Helmet," marks a milestone in movie history because, for the first time, it shows the murder of a prisoner of war by an American G.I. The sergeant, portrayed by Gene Evans, pays for his crime by cracking up mentally. The Korean officer is played by Harold Fong.

Dewey Plans . . .

'Not To Unhappy Necessity'

"We should not contemplate leaving ourselves to this drastic and unhappy necessity.

"Control should remain so long as possible in civilian hands, at least as relates to civilian affairs, and only by spelling out in advance the things which would have to be done and the powers and duties of your state government, could martial law be avoided in the terrible event of such destruction of life and property (by atomic attack)."

Dewey said the bill avoided "an over-concentration of power" by granting emergency authority not only to the governor and the defense council but also to the Civil Defense Commission and other State Departments and agencies.

"Broad powers and duties are conferred upon local governments," he said, "and it is hoped that they will meet their obligations fully and patriotically."

'There Must be Power'

There must be power to remove local officials who fail to perform those obligations "and install others who will," he said.

Dewey, meanwhile, called Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore to confer with mayors and local officials to explain the proposals in detail.

Moore, as state comptroller for eight years, has been the administration's trouble-shooter in state-municipal relations.

On the manpower conscription provisions of the bill, Dewey said he favored the organization of civil defense "on a voluntary basis," but added:

"Volunteering for civil defense work has lagged gravely, partially, I believe, because of lack of stimulating local leadership. . . .

"Should an emergency arise and volunteer services still be unavailable, there must be power to require this extra service of our people in addition to their normal occupations."

Dewey reiterated that he hoped it never would be necessary to use "the most drastic powers, involving the seizure of private property, conservation of banks and insurance companies and conscription for civil defense."

Touches Off Exchange

Democratic Senator Fred G. Moritt of Brooklyn touched off a sharp exchange in the Senate last night. He shouted "dictator" and said the bill was "the most unwarranted usurpation of power that anybody could propose."

"Even in his heyday, Huey Long never would have espoused a proposal like this," he asserted.

Moritt was challenged by some Democrats and G.O.P. senators.

Democratic Leader Elmer J. Quinn said discussion of the 64-page bill was premature until members had read it. Referring to Moritt's blast, Quinn told the House:

"If everything in the bill is as drastic as he exclaimed, I will make one recommendation and that is to strike out the enacting clause (to kill the measure). I'm sure the senator from the 34th (Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks) would agree with me."

Wicks Replies

"All the ghosts he created are taken care of in the bill. If it went as far as he thinks it does, I assure you no such bill would pass the Senate."

Senator Pliny W. Williamson, Westcheser Republican who has had differences with Dewey, said the measure represented a "warning" to prepare for an eventuality.

He added:

"It ill-behooves us to cast any doubt on the motives of the chief executive of this state who has in mind simply the protection of its citizens."

Senator Harry Gittleson, Brooklyn Democrat, said the bill was revolutionary in concept and "creates a 'benevolent dictatorship'." It "confers much-too-much authority upon one person, however well-intentioned he might be," Gittleson told a reporter.

Assemblyman Orlo M. Brees, a frequent Republican critic of Dewey in past years, said he had not read the bill, but declared:

"I think the governor is right that a great many people do not realize the seriousness of the situation."

Precision Defense Marks the Expert

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One of the marks of the great experts is the ability to defend a hand with imagination and precision. The hand shown today illustrates those qualities admirably and shows why the whole world of bridge regards Howard Schenken as one of the all-time bridge greats.

After crshing the ace of hearts, Schenken decided that the contract could be set only if his side could get a diamond trick in addition to the heart and the two trumps he could confidently expect to win. He could win a diamond trick if his partner had the queen or if he could prevent declarer from getting enough discards on dummy's long clubs.

At the second trick, therefore, Schenken led the king of diamonds. Dummy won with the ace of diamonds, and declarer hopefully cashed the ace and king of spades, continuing with a low spade.

After winning the first of his two trump tricks, Schenken stopped for an additional moment of thought. It would be useless to cash his second trump trick, for then dummy's clubs would give declarer all the discards he needed.

It was useless to lead another diamond, since East had played the deuce on the first round of that suit, thus indicating that he did not hold the queen. If Schenken led diamonds again, declarer would get a free finesse.

Schenken found a way out of his difficulties by leading his singleton club. Now declarer couldn't get to his hand to draw the last trump. If he continued clubs, Schenken would carefully wait until the third round of clubs before he ruffed. Then he could exit safely with a heart, and South, unable to reach the dummy any more, would have to lose a diamond trick.

Declarer saw that his only chance was to take a diamond finesse in the hope that East held the jack of diamonds. It was a good try, but of course it lost, and the contract was defeated.
